Grant McConachie, president of the Yukon Southern Air Transport of Edmonton, who has been appointed assistant to the vice-president in charge of C.P.R. air operations at Winnipeg.

McConachie Is Appointed Head C.P.R. Airlines

WINNIPEG, Nov. 29—Transport experts here profess to see in the latest development in the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's new air transport branch a move which may presage expansion of that firm to a position compative with the present rail and steamship services of the company.

This step was the appointment of Grant McConachie, president of Yukon Southern Air Transport of Edmonton as assistant to the vice-president of the C.P.R. at Winnipeg, in charge of air operations for the company. The announcement was made Friday by W. M. Neal, vice-president of western lines.

YOUNGEST PRESIDENT

McConachie, youngest air line president in North America and still an active pilot, has been much in the public eye of late in connection with the northern defence route to the Canadian Arctic and Alaska. It was he who located and developed most of the fields which will be used by United States air force units

Ceiling On Prices Effective Monday

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—The Dominion's zero hour for the attack against inflation drew near today as the wartime prices and trade board, in the role of general headquarters in this campaign, worked at top speed to complete its preparations.

On and after Monday, under orders of the board, Canadian prices, except with board sanction, must not exceed the peak price reached during Sept. 15 to Oct. 11, the so-called "basic period."

Any deviation from this ruling is a breach of the law and, while recognizing that this setting of prices will work hardship in some cases, the board has made plain that the program is designed for long-range benefit to all Canadians.

Bombers Lead Ottawa 18-15 In Final Clash

FLASH — Game over. Winnipeg 18; Ottawa 16.

VARSITY STADIUM, TORONTO, Nov. 29.—Blessed with best weather possible—windless and mild—the underfooting spongy and fast, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Ottawa Rough Riders clashed before a crowd of some 20,000 this afternoon in the national football final.

At the end of the third quarter the Bombers were leading 18 to 15.

It was the first meeting of the Canadian sectional champions since 1939, when the same two teams fought in bitter cold and snow at Ottawa with the western titlists winning 8-7 on a last-minute single.

First Quarter: McCance kicked off for the Bombers and Golab took the ball on his two, running to his 20 before being brought down. Golab punted for Riders on first down and Hanson brought the ball from his 53 to the Rider 53, a five-yard runback.

Hanson sprinted through right inside for 14 yards but the play was called back for illegal interference and Bombers were set back 10.

Hanson's short forward pass to McCance was incomplete and Sheley, dropping back to his 35, punted into touch at the Rider 19.

Griffin smashed left inside for six and Golab hit the other side for five and a first down to the 3. Golab cut in hard on an end run for eight, then Tommy burst through centre for seven to the Ottawa 46. A Burke to Daley pass was wide and long.

Tommy fumbled a lateral pass and Marquardt recovered for Bombers on the Rider 43.

Sheley threw a flat centre pass to Marquardt but it dropped out of Marquardt's hands.

Sheley tried another, a long floater that Golab took right out of the hands of McCance on the Ottawa 28. Griffin hit the line for five and Tommy made six for another first down. Griffin hit the line again, this time for four, and Tommy again finished the distance. He spun through centre for nine to the Ottawa 52.

FORWARD FALLS SHORT

Thornton burst through to stop Tommy on the line of scrimmage and Burke's long forward to Tommy in the clear just fell short.

Hanson took Golab's long, high kick and went straight through six tacklers for 26 yards to the Bomber 43.

Hanson then hit centre for 10 but it was called back again for illegal interference and Bombers were set back 10. There was a spirited argument between the Bombers and the officials over the play but the ruling stood.

Sheley fired a 30-yard pass to Marquardt and he ran 20 before lateralling to Thornton who went five and fumbled. But Thornton recovered it himself on the Rider 20.

Hanson and Sheley made five through centre and the ball was

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

A GENERAL Russian retreat on the Moscow front, forced by new Nazi advances on far-separated sectors of the 200-mile defence arc, appears under way.

It is clearly designed to reconcentrate Red armies in a tighter circle about the city from the Klin region in the north to the Okanara River line in the south, although full scope of the retirement is not yet revealed.

Stress laid by Russian commentators for several days on the increasing gravity of the Moscow developments indicated preparation of public opinion for a broad retreat. In the absence of such a withdrawal, advance forces west of the city would be in extreme peril of piece-meal encirclement and destruction. Similar dangers would face those to the south, now falling back from re-encircled Tula.

Russia's Red armies reported today they had recaptured part of Rostov-on-Don in the Ukraine, smashed back German assault forces in three key sectors on the central front before Moscow, and killed more than 9,000 Nazis in bloody fighting along the 1,200-mile battleline.

Linked with this brightening picture of Russia's defence, a BBC broadcast said Red counter-

The Moscow radio said Gen. Gregory Zhukov's Red armies had launched a powerful counter-attack northwest of the capital, crossed the ice-topped Volga river and driven the Germans from town after town in an advance still continuing.

Alberta Grad Escapes From German Army

Matthew H. Halton, noted war correspondent and graduate of the University of Alberta, who is attached to the British army in Libya, was captured by the Germans south of Tobruk last Monday but has escaped and is now safe, it was learned Saturday.

Halton was born in Pincher Creek, Alta., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Halton, are still residing, and attended the university here. He was editor of The Gateway while a student.

Halton sent his last cabled story on Sunday and his whereabouts from that time were obscure until a cable was received Friday, sent Wednesday, telling of his escape to British lines.

SENT LAST SPRING

Halton went to the Middle East last spring after spending the winter in England covering the Battle of Britain.

British Sink 8 Enemy Vessels

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Two British submarines have sunk at least eight Axis troop transports and supply ships carrying reinforcements in men and material to the German and Finnish forces on the Murmansk front in the Arctic, the Admiralty stated late today.

Two of the ships sunk were known to have been troop ships, a communique announcing the actions said.

In addition five other vessels were damaged by torpedoes or gunfire, four of them "so seriously damaged that their destruction is considered probable."

GOING TO PETSAMO

The Axis reinforcements apparently were enroute to Petsamo, Finnish port west of Murmansk. The Russians still hold Murmansk, which is ice-free.

Submarines operating in Arctic waters "have been inflicting severe losses upon German troop transports and supply ships carrying reinforcements of men and material to the German armies on the Murmansk front," the communique said.

One of the submarines, the Tigris, under Cmrd. H. F. Bone, has sunk five Axis ships and seriously damaged a sixth.

Another attack was against "a heavily-escorted convoy" of three supply ships. Two of the three vessels were sunk.

ATTACKS SEVEN SHIPS

The submarine Trident, under Cmdr. G. F. Sladen, "successfully attacked seven enemy transport and supply ships," the Admiralty said. Three of these were seen to sink, and "the other four were so seriously damaged their destruction is considered probable."

"It is known," the Admiralty said, "that two of the ships sunk by H.M.S. Trident were transports laden with troops."

One of the Trident's attacks was against a heavily-escorted convoy of four ships, of which one sank immediately and another was seen listing heavily two hours later.

FAR EAST CRISIS

Pacific War Up To Japan

By H. O. THOMPSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—(BUP)—Developments in French Indo-China today were expected to bring an early answer to the stiff terms laid down to Japan by the United States as conditions for a peaceful settlement of the Far Eastern crisis.

Highest government sources made it plain that whatever happens in the Pacific is squarely up to Japan and that the United States will not compromise its basic principles in dealing with the problem.

These principles call for Japan to get out of China and French Indo-China and to preserve a temporary status quo in the rest of the Far East.

Authoritative quarters have revealed that Indo-China is potential tinder-box of the Far East. Ominous Japanese troops and naval movements there and in the South Pacific have indicated a possible attack on Thailand to the westward. Such a move would jeopardize China's life-line—the Burma road—as well as

Nazi Occupied Countries Heed Go-Slow Policy

LONDON, Nov. 29—(CP)—Colonel Britton told the V army in occupied countries Friday that secret reports reveal the go-slow campaign has "grown like a snowball," with the results felt by Germans fighting in the front-lines.

He said in a BBC broadcast to Europe that the underground army "has the right to feel it is winning a battle which is no less important that the other battles being fought." He said the present campaign is only a foretaste of "other resolute collective action when the time comes."

Colonel Britton declared that because of decreased production in occupied countries Nazi air support is failing, tanks are more and more difficult to replace, and artillery replacements are insufficient.

He urged his listeners to work "slower still next week—warn those working too hard that they are playing a dangerous game and that they are traitors to their country."

"Next week I may have important news for you," he concluded. "Good luck—go slow."

Lieut. R. W. Chard, R.C.A., above, son of Alfred Chard, chairman of the Alberta highways traffic board, of 10329 123 street, has arrived safely in Britain with the recent large contingent of Canadian troops. Lieut. Chard was a second-year arts student at the University of Alberta at the time of his enlistment last May.

Lapointe Death May Result In Cabinet Changes

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Nov. 29—Keen speculation is heard in Ottawa whether Prime Minister King, using the vacancy in the justice portfolio, will undertake shortly an extensive cabinet re-organization.

The death of Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe removed one of Mr. King's leading lieutenants, one of the few men who really decide policy and in the last analysis run the country. The trio of King, Lapointe and T. A. Crerar contituted a triumvirate of senior sages, relatively free of departmental routine and able to give some attention to broader problems of war planning. Mr. King's first problem will be to find another man to fill Mr. Lapointe's place in this respect, and secondly, the question of Quebec representation must be settled.

LIKELY CANDIDATE

Most likely candidate for the posting to the unofficial triumvirate is Hon. J. L. Ralston, a lawyer who could take the justice portfolio, a Montreal easterner who would preserve the east-west balance in the inner council, and a veteran with more sagacity than anyone in sight.

Mr. Lapointe's death makes a big vacancy in the group that decides and administers war policy—King, Crerar, Ralston, Power, Howe and Ilsley. The junior cabinet post in war administration is the navy ministry, created only a year ago, and Hon. Angus MacDonald naturally gravitates closer to the centre with each vacancy. The probable shift in this group then would be to make Ralston minister of justice, leave the services with Power and MacDonald with a new services minister brought in.

In the Quebec situation, a new candidate is appearing in Hon. F. Philippe Brais, K.C., minister without portfolio in the Godbout cabinet and leader of the Quebec legislative council. The current rumor is that this is the man who will enter the King cabinet shortly. He is a Montreal lawyer, a past president of the Reform Club.

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, who has been ill all summer, remains the senior French-speaking minister, and the latest word is that he will be back when the House meets in January, able and anxious to take up the role of senior representative of Quebec.

Four Persons In Manitoba Killed At Rail Crossing

WINNIPEG, Nov. 29. — (CP) — Four persons were killed and one critically injured Friday when an automobile crashed into a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train near Souris, Man., 151 miles southwest of Winnipeg.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Ronaghan; Mrs. Margaret Charles, and Alador Drieveze, all residents of the Napinka district, 40 miles southwest of Souris.

The injured, AC. N. Anzetruk, No. 12 Depot, Royal Canadian Air Force, was taken to hospital at Souris.

Axis Force Trying To Break Trap

CAIRO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Large British and Axis forces have clashed southeast of Rezegh and are deadlocked in a great new tank battle of major importance, the British command announced today.

The battle began yesterday and continued into the evening, the Middle East headquarters communique said.

Presumably large Axis forces under Lt.-Gen. Erwin Rommel, trapped between Tobruk and the Egyptian border, were struggling to fight their way out, while British forces surrounding them were attempting to smash them into smaller groups as a prelude to rounding them up.

Bitter fighting continues without either side having given or gained ground, the British communique said.

A British spokesman said the situation was "very satisfactory."

The trapped German Panzer units and the remains of the Italian Ariete ("battering ram") division succeeded in joining ranks in assembling for their effort to break out, the spokesman said.

The communique said the Axis

Canada Annuity For Petain Is Placed In Bank

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The general outcry raised a fortnight ago over the annuity fund supposedly paid to France's chief of state, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, by a Canadian insurance company has turned out to be a mare's nest. The annuity has not been sent to Vichy but has been paid into a bank account here for Marshal Petain.

EXCLUSIVE

On Nov. 12 a question was asked in parliament which revealed the fact that a Canadian insurance company holds a policy taken out by Petain in 193" and it was officially admitted that permission had been given for an annuity of 600 pounds ($2,400) annually to be sent to Petain.

INQUIRIES MADE

Inquiries by your correspondent subsequently revealed that a policy was taken out with the London branch of a Canadian company. The Confederation Life Assurance Company was the only London branch of any of the Canadian companies which refused to deny holding such a policy.

Government inquiries after the flurry appear to have revealed that, despite the fact that permission had been given for the annuity to be paid, the sums never have been sent to Vichy. Local wags suggest that the government is banking them as it expects Petain to come to London and join Free French leader Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

MODERN MIRACLES BRING ASIA NEAR TO AMERICA

Here is the second of Robert J. Casey's exclusive series of dispatches on strategic airbases linking Alaska with the United States.—EDITOR.

By ROBERT J. CASEY

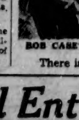
FORT NELSON, B.C., Nov. 29—Overhead the bombers have been riding—a few of them thus far. There will be fleets of them, possibly tomorrow, on their way to the defence of Alaska and the Pacific coast.

From the radio shack echoes a news bulletin, spattered with the crackle of the northern lights. Saburo Kurusu, thousands of miles away from here, is exchanging one shop ultimatum for another and it strikes you suddenly that miracles of speed and sound and telegraphy have brought you nearer to Asia than to Washington. With the turning on of the radio beams, a few days hence, this lost spot in the ancient wilderness may be on the high road road to war, certainly on a bypass to lands half across the world.



BOB CASEY

There is a whirl of machine tools from the construction camp repair shop and the iron racket of gears from the snowy distance where the caterpillars are working.

The young man by the airmail sack is reading a newspaper, commenting from time to time on the progress of some ice-hockey player, named Pete, who used to live next door to him in Winnipeg.

in the far north when in 1934 he became chief pilot and general manager of United Air Transport based in Edmonton and covering north Alberta and northern British Columbia.

He flew the northern defence route from 1938 on chartier until 1937 when Yukon Southern was founded with McConachie as president, and schedule services were installed. Yukon Southern was taken over by the Canadian Pacific last spring.

AN IMMINENT DEVELOPMENT

In Seattle this week, speaking as head of Yukon Southern, McConachie told the Associated Press that his company already held plans for a commercial air service to the Orient through the northern Canadian and Alaska route. "We are only waiting for the necessary equipment and permission to fly it," he said.

While confirmation of this possible development was not obtainable from Canadian Pacific officials at Winnipeg, some observers believed that it was an imminent development, and also foresaw the possibility of a northern transcontinental air route which would eventually be extended to Europe by way of the north Atlantic after the war.

The Canadian Pacific now controls besides Yukon Southern, the Ginger Coote Airways at Vancouver, United Air Service Ltd., at Edmonton, Prairie Airways at Moose Jaw, Wings, Ltd., at Winnipeg, and Starratt Airways at Hudson, Ont.

WILL DIRECT POLICY

McConachie in whose hands will now rest a great deal of the Canadian Pacific's future air policy will make his headquarters in Winnipeg. Although born in Hamilton, Ont., he came west as an infant to Edmonton and was educated in the public and high school, and at the University of Alberta.

He began flying in 1929 acquiring his pilot's license under Morris Burbidge, McKee trophy winner of that year, and joined Independent Airways as a pilot in 1930. On 1933 he became chief pilot of that company, and was chief pilot of United Air Transport, a company which he helped to found and of which he was general manager in 1934. His present appointment with the Canadian Pacific becomes effective immediately.

had assembled their "remaining tanks" for the effort.

FRONT WIDENED

The bulletin added that British and New Zealand forces were gradually "widening their corridor to the west" established between the Tobruk garrison forces and those which have fought their way from Libya from the east.

Nearer the border British troops captured an Axis strongpoint north of Bir El Hamed, described as "important, and took several hundred Italian prisoners, the communique stated.

To the west of the Axis troops "which are predominantly German" continue to offer stiff resistance," said the bulletin. The British forces fought on, it added, capturing the field and medium guns along with quantities of light anti-aircraft and anti-tank artillery guns, machine guns and small arms.

STRUGGLE IN TRAP

The communique described the struggle of the trapped German and Italian troops to get out of their big trap east of Tobruk as follows:

Southeast of Rezegh German and Italian armored forces which had been scattered and forced to withdraw eastward the previous day by British armed forces, reassembled their remaining tanks, side having given or gained any ground."

R.A.F. HITS HARD

The Royal Air Force "Was able to take full advantage of opportunities offered to attack enemy concentrations in co-operation with our ground troops," the communique said.

"Bombing and Beaufighter machine-gun attacks," the statement added, "were particularly successful against German and Italian armored forces engaged in the tank battle southeast of Rezegh."

In addition to this major engagement, New Zealand troops plunged westward from Tobruk to stab farther toward the Axis positions along Libya's coastline.

Further, a force which the Germans sent toward Egypt in an attempt to divert the British soon after the present campaign began was reported trying to meet the main force in the west.

15 yards out, directly in front of the posts.

From the 24, McCance kicked a placement field goal, adding the scoring, Winnipeg 3, Ottawa 0.

Sheley stopped Tommy on an end run that gained three, then Griffin ran into a stonewall on the line for two. There were three gainless to play.

SUDDEN TOUCHDOWN

Then with electrifying suddenness, Golab scored a touchdown for Ottawa. He punted high and short off the side of his foot, raced up and the ball bounced backwards into his hands on the Winnipeg 43. He went from there to the goal line unmolested and being laid on him. Ottawa 5, Winnipeg 3. McCance converted from placement. Ottawa 6, Winnipeg 3.

Tommy brought McCance's kick-off back 18 yards to the Ottawa 23 but Thornton broke through on a pass play and spilled McWatters for a 5-yard loss and it was third down with 20 to go when Riders were penalized 10. As McWatters kicked, the whistle sounded and Bombers were penalized 15 for roughing.

PUNTED SHORT

McWatters then punted short and into touch at the Ottawa 43, the kick travelling only 15 yards from the line of scrimmage.

Golab intercepted a pass and went 14 yards to the Rider 44 as the quarter ended. First quarter over:

Ottawa 6, Winnipeg 3.

Second Quarter: Both teams made substitutions. Golab and Sheley being among the Riders called off for a rest.

O'Neil, relieving Tommy, hit centre for 12 yards, then made three in the same place. A short forward was grounded and McWatters, standing on the Ottawa 30, punted to Hanson on the Winnipeg 16. Hanson fumbled as he was tackled and McWatters recovered for Ottawa on the Bombers' 13.

PERFECT FIELD GOAL

O'Neil hit left side for five but Thornton came in from behind to spill O'Neil without a yard. The ball was eight yards out but well to the left of the goal posts and was called on to try the placement anyway and he kicked it perfectly from a difficult angle and 16 yards out. Ottawa 9, Winnipeg 3.

Hanson and Sheley smashed centre for nine and Ottawa were penalized for holding, giving Bombers a first down.

Hanson split right middle for 10 yards and another first down on the Ottawa 48. McCance hit centre for seven and Golab and O'Connor were rushed back into the game.

Sheley went back for eight at centre and an offside penalty set Bombers back all the gain. Sheley got a pass and Marquardt picked it off for an 18-yard advance to the Ottawa 34. Marquardt fumbled as he was tackled, but the officials ruled the pass had been completed and Thornton's run over the goal line with the recovery of the fumble was not allowed.

Winnipeg lost a down for what the officials ruled was an offside pass on the fumble, and a long pass by Sheley to Marquardt was grounded.

FAKED A KICK

On third down Sheley faked a kick and forward-passed for 14 yards to Marquardt who ran almost to the goal-line and lateralled to Wilson, who went two yards for the touchdown. Ottawa 9, Winnipeg 8. McCance kicked the convert from placemelt. Ottawa 9, Winnipeg 9.

Golab kicked off to the 15 and Lander ran the ball back to the Winnipeg 28. Golab was hurt when blocked, but he stayed in the game.

Sheley got up to the 31 on a plunge and Hanson made four around left end. Sheley got off a long low punt to Burke who slipped and was tackled without a gain on the Ottawa 32.

Tommy was stopped with three yards and Burke made six and half on a quarterback sneak. Golab was relieved by Tremblay. Burke sneaked through for a yard and first down.

Griffin was stopped with two on an end run and Deley hit for six on a wide swinging buck. Griffin made the first down with four yards to spare on a third-down crack.

Marquardt stopped on end run for a gain but a Griffin-to-Burke to Watters pass made seven before McWatters kicked short into touch at the Bomber 19.

Hanson gained two on an end run, then fired a pass that McCance couldn't reach. On the play Hanson went to the line of scrimmage and to plunge then halted short and passed. Sheley drove a long, low ball that Tremblay picked up, fumbled and then fell on it at the Rider 31.

McWatters punted high to the Bomber 40. Sheley fell centre for four and Hanson was stopped for a yard on the last play of the quarter. Second quarter over: Ottawa 9, Winnipeg 9.

Third quarter: Golab was back to start the second half and Fraser kicked off to Hanson who came up 14 to the Bomber 20. Sheley fumbled and recovered on a line smash but into Marquardt's hands. Marquardt ran 45 for the touchdown without being molested. Winnipeg 14, Ottawa 9. McCance converted from placement. Winnipeg 15, Ottawa 9.

Sheley was brought down on the bomber eight on the kick-off and was hurt on the tackle, but he played in the game.

McGarry spilled Hanson for a five-yard loss and kicking far behind his line Sheley punted to Daley on the Bomber 36 and Daley interfilled to McWatters who went 16 to the Winnipeg 20. Fraser tried the placement from the 26 and made it good. Winnipeg 15, Ottawa 12.

Young Soldiers At Camrose Are Highly Praised

CAMROSE, Nov. 29—Nearly 1,000 young soldiers went through a review with smartness and precision before Maj. Gen. W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., K.C., inspector-general, when he inspected the army basic training centre here prior to graduation of the present class.

Having completed two months of basic training, the soldiers will march in a few days to advanced training centres or direct to units to be schooled for the particular arms which they have chosen, infantry, artillery, armored corps, army service, ambulance units and other branches.

Maj. Gen. Griesbach praised the efficiency demonstrated by the men, stating that it showed a high standard of training, and advised them that the basic training was an important phase of soldiering. He urged them to distinguish themselves in service.

Following inspection of the men who were equipped with rifles, bayonets, web and greatcoats, the General presented trophies. A platoon in the company commanded by Maj. W. L. Oliver, M.C., of Edmonton, won a cup for proficiency and the company was awarded the musketry cup. Prize for best shot in the camp was won by L.-Cpl. John N. Reid, of Rocky Mountain House, trapper and sawmill worker, whose eye was trained hunting moose.

Accompanying the "G.O." were Col. H. C. Greer, A.A. and Q.M.G., for Military District 13 and Maj. Garth Mozer, M.C., staff officer to Maj.-Gen. Griesbach.

Commanding officer of the camp is Lt.-Col. Louis Scott, D.C.M., and senior officers are: Maj. Oliver, Maj. Ray Pratley, Edmonton; Maj. M. A. Ellison, M.C., Calgary; Maj. E. E. Hyde, Edmonton, administrative officer; Capt. S. S. MacGregor, Calgary; Capt. J. W. Cummer, Calgary, paymaster; Capt. C. F. Connolly, Edmonton, medical officer; Capt. A. E. Kennedy, Stettler, officer commanding the military hospital; Lt. T. J. Riferton, Vegreville, adjutant; Capt. E. H. Buckingham, Edmonton, quartermaster.

Alberta Grad Escapes From German Army

Two correspondents, Godfrey Anderson, Associated Press, London, and Harold Denny, New York Times, have been taken prisoner by the Italians, it was reported Friday in London.

Information Minister Brendan Bracken, in a speech at Oxford on Friday, said that it was at his personal request that Middle East military officials had granted permission for reporters to go into the front line so they could tell the people the news."

Seventy per cent. of Allied forces in Libya are from the United Kingdom, Mr. Bracken said, adding that Britain is becoming stronger every day.

"And every day Germany becomes weaker," he went on. "It will be a different German army which will march from the snows around Moscow."

War In Pacific Up To Japanese Say Observers putting the Japanese in more favorable positions for possible attacks upon Singapore, the East Indies or the Philippines.

If the situation quiets down, it may be taken as an indication that the Japanese are giving earnest consideration to America's terms. But if new aggression results, it will mean that Japan either has rejected the American proposals or is unable to control her armed services.

The situation therefore remains in a state of high tension, with any fresh Japanese aggressions likely to touch off a series of explosions involving not only the United States and China but Great Britain and the Netherlands East Indies.

NAZIS ATTEMPTING NEGOTIATED PEACE

MANILA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Nazi agents in the far east are making a determined attempt to bring about a negotiated peace between Japan and China, quarters closely connected with Japan's puppet Chinese regime at Nanking disclosed today.

At the same time an authorized Chinese source declared any lessening of United States aid to China might force Chungking to accept peace terms.

Soviets Smash Back Nazis In 2 War Sectors

Don river port, northern gateway to the Caucasus oil fields.

The German communique said the Russians suffered heavy losses in "ruthless renewed attacks" at Rostov, while the Soviet radio declared Red army troops had retaken the old section of the port city after a fierce fight.

The Nazi command said German forces were clearing the centre of the city in preparation for fighting "against the population which, contrary to international law, participated in fighting at the rear of German troops."

Presumably, this means that when Red army troops entered the old part of Rostov, driving the Germans out, residents of the captured city brought out hidden arms and sniped at the Nazis.

On the central front, Hitler's high command claimed a new advance in the two-months-old drive on Moscow but gave no details.

Soviet front-line dispatches said 2,000 Germans had been killed in the Klin sector, another 2,000 in Russian aerial attacks, and more than 5,000 in fighting around Leningrad.

MOSCOW SUMMARY

The Moscow newspaper Pravda gave this summary of the struggle on the central front:

Volokolamsk, 60 miles northwest of Moscow—the Germans attempted to advance along a highway but were thrown back across a river and lost several towns. "The German radio claimed, without confirmation, that Volokolamsk had been captured by the Nazis."

Mozhaisk, 57 miles west—the Germans were regulined in trying to cross an anti-tank ditch.

Stalinagorsk, 120 miles southeast — Russian counter-attacks drove the Nazi invaders from two villages.

Bitter, all-night fighting raged along the entire front from Leningrad to Rostov, the Russians said, with the Germans also intensifying their drive against Russia's beleaguered Crimean naval base at Sevastopol.

"The threat to Sevastopol is growing," the Soviet radio acknowledged.

Last Rites For Justice Chief Held In Quebec

By FRANK FLAHERTY

QUEBEC, Nov. 29—(CP)—The bells of Quebec tolled a last salute to Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe today as men and women who seven times elected him to parliament mingled with notables of church and state at his funeral.

Down the steep curving snow-clad streets from Citadel Hill his body was borne to St. Roch's church with all the military pomp of a state funeral. Prime Minister Mackenzie King and old colleagues of parliament and council chamber attended.

Snow fell on the shining black silk hats of statesmen, on the khaki of soldiers, the blue of Air Force and Naval guards of honor, and on the scarlet of the Royal Canadian Mounted as the procession moved to the church.

GLOWING EULOGY

Within the black-draped parish church, military ceremonial gave way to the solemn rites of the high mass of requiem celebrated by Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve, who pronounced a short and glowing eulogy to French-speaking Canada's most distinguished statesman of his day, who died last Wednesday at the age of 69.

The mixed congregation of Protestants and Catholics, Jews and Gentiles, English and French-speaking Canadians filled the church.

Escorting the body was a detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the force which he headed as Minister of Justice.

In the church the pickbearers were cabinet associates, members of parliament, the Lieutenant-Governor and members of the Quebec cabinet and legislature of his native province, cabinet ministers and representatives of the other eight provinces, Indian and French-speaking Canadians filled the church.

Around them the voters of Quebec East whom he represented in parliament stood in thousands, augmented by citizens from many parts of Quebec who had looked upon the elderly statesman as their leader.

The funeral procession moved to historic ground. It started at the Quebec parliament buildings where the body lay in state close by the famed plains of Abraham.

Along the route the streets were lined with persons who bared their heads as the procession passed.

Life's Driving Force Is Love Preacher Says

"Unless we are supported by invisible companions, life is bound to be a failure," Dr. Willard E. Brewing, Toronto, prominent United Church preacher, stated Friday night in his sermon during the third of a series of five week-night services in McDougall church sponsored by the United Church Ministerial Association of Edmonton.

Dr. Brewing chose for his topic the three words, "For Christ's Sake," which he termed as the key to the finest rooms of all human experience.

Final two week-night services at which Dr. Brewing will be the guest preacher will be held in McDougall church next Monday and Tuesday.

On Sunday at 11 a.m. Dr. Brewing will deliver an address to the students and staff of the University of Alberta at the Convocation hall. In the evening the United churches of Edmonton will be gathering at one congregation in McDougall church to participate in a grand rally in honor of Dr. Brewing.

At noon Monday the visiting preacher is scheduled to address members of the Kiwanis club at their regular weekly luncheon at the Macdonald hotel.

Christianity is a personal religion having only one question to ask, "Lovest Thou Me?" and only one request to make, "Follow Me", Dr. Brewing stated.

He explained further how men begin to worship common righteousness and end up by worshipping Christ.

MOTIVATING POWER

First words ever uttered in Christianity were very personal ones, Dr. Brewing said. He found Him the living personification of pure and simple life, Dr. Brewing said.

"We go on criticising systems and drawing up new policies but what we really need is men—men whom we can trust and love," he said.

The motivating power of life is not reason.. It is love. The driving force is not law.. It is love, Dr. Brewing added.

This is a very personal world and the gospel of Christianity is for one person—Christ, he stated.

Many a man's life has been wrecked because the person had no one close enough to him. There was no one close enough to him for whose sake he was prepared to forsake all temptation, Dr. Brewing said.

Children Invited Aid Chamber In Beautifying City

Children at Edmonton schools are being asked to assist the Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce in promoting the annual city beautification campaign through an essay contest sponsored by the business organization.

Object of the campaign is to make children beauty conscious as regards the city. To this end, forms have been distributed through 60 schools in the district, involving as many persons and organizations as possible. The essay contest closes May 27. Subject is: "Why We Should Make Edmonton Beautiful." It is open to all students in Grades 4 to 12.

A poster contest is also being held, which will close May 20. A winner will be chosen from each school grade.

Christensen Is Chosen Manager Poultry Board

Plant management and sales organization of the Alberta Poultry Producers' Marketing Board has been placed under the management of C. E. Christensen, who has resigned as board chairman to be general manager, it was announced Saturday by the department of trade and industry, under authority of Hon. E. C. Manning, minister.

With the resignation of Mr. Christensen as board chairman to take over his new duties, the appointment of C. H. Rhodes of Brant, Alberta, to the board also was announced by Mr. Manning. Mr. Rhodes will succeed C. W. Traves on the board, the latter to devote his full time to his position as poultry commissioner for the province.

Mr. Rhodes' appointment increases producer membership to four and decreases government representation to one on the marketing board. For many years chairman of the Alberta Federation of Agriculture, the new member is one of a panel nominated by the producers from whom members are selected.

The board has carried out marketing operations on a comparitively moderate scale, for four months, using the plant formerly owned by Wainberg and Company and now owned by the Alberta Poultry Producers' Marketing board.

Modern Miracles Bringing Lands Of Orient Close To America, Writer Declares

weather, was a sort of idyllic dream until the engineers dropped in one day to pay their respects to the Hudson's Bay Company's post at the old post on the river. After that things began to get practical. Almost immediately here was a movie set for something by Robert Service. A place with nothing whatever to recommend its use as an airdrome except that it was about 250 miles north of Fort St. John, another fine stop on the journey into the great nowhere. The Hudson's Bay store marking the scene of an Indian massacre gave it an identity on the map.

A few Indians and trappers lived in log houses about the store. Numerous dogs—the visiting engineers estimate about 1,000 howled in wild chorus as they got the scent of strangers. The weather was 35 below and getting colder. Nobody in the neighborhood seemed much interested in the idea of building an airfield.

You came into a place like this before the rivers froze in the fall and you stayed in until the spring, and having accustomed yourself to that routine, you find it a little hard to think in terms of four-hour trips to Edmonton and the outside. There's not any road coming into Fort Nelson. Ninety per cent of the population of this thriving community had never seen a road. If you wanted supplies you ordered them when you were outside; they were loaded on to a boat somewhere along the Peace river, after that they were carried 1,800 miles or so by steamship, raft, portage and canoe, until finally, they were dumped on the shore of the Fort Nelson river.

GREAT PROBLEMS

When you wanted to get back to civilization, generally you followed the same route as the goods, only in reverse. If you wanted materials in a hurry for, say an airport, you were not likely to get them and it takes some material to build an airport, particularly the sort of airport needed for a unit in an all-weather skyway such as this one was going to be.

An airplane passenger, looking down on a landing field anywhere along the many-travelled routes, sees only a field, a flat surface that probably was always there. Weeds and all the rough buildings generally look like something that you buy in sections out of a mail order catalogue.

But he is wrong about that; even in civilization it takes time and sweat on the ground to make an airplane fly and no matter how rough the planks in the buildings, they have to be hauled from somewhere and slipped together in a spot like this. 300 miles in a direct line from the nearest road.

The problem was more complicated. The engineers have estimated that for each of the five stations on the Edmonton-Whitehorse run, 800 tons of equipment, exclusive of building materials and food for 100 men, would be required. Tractors, trucks, ditchers, graders, bulldozers, rollers and drainage pipe—all of that was dumped off the trains at the railhead. From there on it had to be dragged northward by tractor crews, who laid out their own trail through an unknown, untried desolation.

SIX WEEKS ON ROAD

The winter was well along when government approbation was finally given to the airway scheme, and the trail-breakers were late getting past Fort St. John and into the muskeg, the swamp flats that can be traversed only when the ice covers them. Despite that, two-thirds of the load had been dragged to the camp site before the frost went out with an early spring. The other third was left in a cache on the Silkkinl, the chief river where scows were built to float it 100 miles down to camp.

The trail-breakers who hauled the tractor train and all the heavy machinery to the Fort Nelson site were six weeks en route. They froze by night, they sweated by day, as they worked with the the trees that stood in their way. Through the forest they battered themselves, stumbling over the quaking crust of the swamps, and got soaked repeatedly in rivers when the lumbering cars smashed through the ice. They may some day be invited to some body's history of the northland as the strangest lot of ground pilots who ever contributed to the advance of aviation.

In the meantime, Capt. W. W. Keeland, the resident engineer with crews shipped in by plane and also by airmail, surveyed the tangle that was to be a flying field and staked out a camp.

Then building square miles of standing timber had to be cleared at once; a well had to be sunk in a boggy country where water lies only two or three feet from the surface—it has already gone down 363 feet without touching water.

CUT OUT OF FOREST

Seventy-five miles of road were hacked out of the forest. When the tractor train arrived it brought a portable sawmill which, to date, has cut and planed 750,000 board feet of lumber. Bunkhouses, mess shacks, warehouses, shops and quarters for the engineering staff were put up early in the summer. Four miles away from the landing field, a clearing was made for the beam station. Four towers and a substantial house were set up in it and a road whose construction must have had something in common with subway building sapped into it from the distant camp.

There are numerous permanent buildings on this as on the other stations. One is a large community house where the airport staff will soon be living. Bachelor quarters, these, because no married men are to be accepted for service at the two wilderness posts—this one and that at Watson Lake.

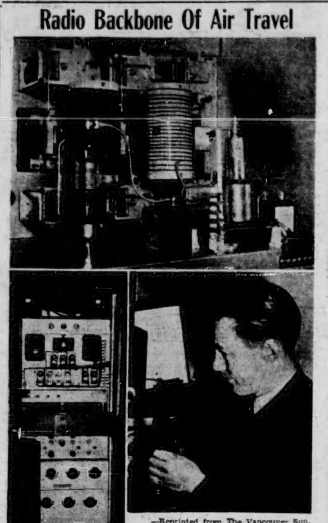
Another rambling structure almost the same size will be used as a barracks by the Royal Canadian Air Force. An administration building with wings for the use of meteorologists and radio men is just about finished. A Diesel engine power plant is just about ready to run the beam station, including a four-mile power line to a remote control shack, is complete save for apparatus on which delivery has been promised within a month. One runway nearly a mile long has been graded and gravelled; another has been leveled, and big planes—no matter how big—can start coming in here now any time they want to. It is not violating any military secret to mention that they already have been flying over Fort Nelson.

BEST VIEW FROM AIR

You get the best idea of the extent of the miracle that has been worked here from the air. You can see the beam station at the bottom of what looks like a square excavation and you can comprehend the pattern of the road network that checkerboards 14 square miles of ice-lacquered brush, but on the ground you get the theme music of a prodigious labor, the linkage of wheels on frozen snow, the whine of the buzz-saw, the crack of falling trees, the ring of the axe, not to mention the observation of old Archie Gardner, the oldest inhabitant, whose traplines have been seriously disturbed by all this todo about landing fields and the defence of the Pacific. The hardest work about flying an airplane, he says, is the chopping.

(The third in this series of articles by Robert J. Casey will appear in The Bulletin on Monday, December 1.)

Radio Backbone Of Air Travel



—Reprinted from The Vancouver Sun.

Without radio, scheduled airplane travel would be virtually impossible, for radio communication is what might be called the backbone of the air transport business. Apart from its safety factor, it is invaluable in obtaining weather reports and maintaining constant communication between aircraft and ground stations.

To keep up with rapidly growing air travel to and from the north, and to have most reliable radio service, Yukon Southern Air Transport, running airmail and passengers between Vancouver, Edmonton and Whitehorse three times weekly, operates the most powerful aircraft radio transmitter in Canada at its Sea Island, Vancouver station.

The transmitter has a normal load of 500 watts, but is presently running at about 200 watts. Yukon Southern's Vancouver operator, Tony Craig, shown above speaking into the microphone, maintains constant touch with planes in flight and ground stations at Prince George, Fort St. John, Fort Nelson, Watson Lake and Whitehorse direct, and has had reports from Whitehorse, Edmonton and other distant points with "RP" strength, technical radio term for loudest possible signal.

The transmitter has upwards of 28 relays. Their operation is fully automatic, and if part of it becomes out of tune, the protective relays automatically put the transmitter off the air.

The transmitter can also be controlled from the top of an administration building to direct planes and check aircraft when making a let-down on instruments.

towns, is Hitler's prime objective in the Moscow battle. Bitter Russian experience has taught Red leaders anew the military wisdom of the old adage that he who fights and runs away may live to fight another day.

The most dangerous Nazi stab at the moment is within 36 miles of the city's inner fortifications through the Mozhaisk western bation. At some unstated point on the Mozhaisk-Moscow main line they are perilously close to a junction with the northern Nazi spearhead in the Klin breakthrough region.

Should those most advanced German columns threatening from the northwest and west join hands before the Red forces in the Volokolamsk sector between them effect a withdrawal, the latter might be trapped and destroyed. That would open a 50-mile gap in Moscow's defences, fed by three railroads and highway systems over which Nazi reinforcements and supplies could be brought up.

RUSSIA'S SOUTHERN FLANK

On Moscow's south flank a similar situation was developing. Tula had been virtually ringed and was again under direct artillery fire. Its evacuation was to be expected, and its garrison probably will fall back northward to the Oka-Nara line for another stand, still 60 miles outside Moscow's inner defences.

Berlin says German forces broke through below Tula to fan northward have also swept eastward and southward along the Rzaisk railway more than 80 miles. This looks on the map to be a curious deflection of the southern wing of the Nazi effort to encircle Moscow, because it extends Nazi lines away from the city rather than toward it. However, it probably has another strategic significance.

This advance, as described by the Germans, has already carried them across the Moscow - Kremlevo rail line and to within 30 miles of the Moscow-Ryazisk route. Presumably in preparation for the close siege of Moscow the Nazis are stabbing to sever all direct communications between the Moscow and Don fronts from possible inter - change of reserves to meet German attacks either upon Moscow or against the Caucasus defence line along the lower Don.

BOMBAY, Nov. 28 — (CP) — Severe earthquake shocks lasting several seconds were reported from Peshawar, Rawalpindi and Srinagar Friday night. No damage or casualties were reported in first messages.

$2,806,000 Is Fur Revenue

Alberta received $2,806,000 revenue from furs during the last hunting and trapping season, according to figures given Friday night by D. E. Forslund, provincial game branch executive, speaking at a general meeting of the Northern Alberta Fish and Game Protective Association in the Memorial Hall.

The lowly squirrels pelt alone provided $597,000, stated Mr. Forslund, who went on to relate some of his experiences during many years of residence in Alberta.

A report submitted at the meeting revealed that more than 8,000 crows and magpies had been destroyed during the season by members of the local branch. This was the highest figure reported for the province. A bounty of five cents a pair was paid on all birds' feet submitted.

Prior to the First Great War he rode range on the southern plains and later became a banking guide. Before joining the game branch as an enforcement officer, he served with the R.C.M.P.

The main purpose of the meeting was to receive nominations for officers. Five positions, including that of president are to be filled, and the vote will be taken at the next regular meeting of the association to be held during December.

G. J. Keltie presided at the meeting and the evening was rounded out with several reels of motion pictures including shots of wild life in Africa.

Health Units Required For Child Hygiene

Necessity of establishing fully modern, scientifically equipped health units, located at strategic points throughout the province, to deal with mental hygiene problems particularly as they affect children, was stressed by Dr. M. E. Bow, Deputy Minister of Health, when he addressed delegates to the Health Workers' Association convention at a dinner in the Macdonald hotel Friday evening.

More than 70 members were in attendance to hear Dr. Bow give a resume of accomplishments in the public health service and what improvements and advancement could be made in the near future.

"At the present time nine health units are operating in Alberta," said Dr. Bow. "Our ultimate obective is 40 and if the work of caring for children is to be effective they must be permanent."

CLINIC EXTENSION

In urging the extension of mental hygiene clinics through the health units, Dr. Bow pointed out that it was absolutely essential to bring children under competent observation at the earliest possible moment, to diagnose their ailments and correct them at once.

"About four per cent of children now going to school will eventually end up in some sort of mental institution unless they are discovered and their troubles cured," said Dr. Bow.

He described the problem as "most significant" and explained that social environment, the stress and strain of everyday life and many other factors contributed to a child's personality. "An allment undiagnosed and uncorrected might tend to warp and distort that personality," he said.

In conducting the work complete co-operation was absolutely essential, declared Dr. Bow. "Parents, teachers, school boards and all other interested agencies must co-operate wholeheartedly with the health unit officials, and parents must also be educated to do their part in the home", he said.

MANY PROBLEMS

The Deputy Health Minister went on to discuss many other problems pertaining to the health of Alberta citizens. In the work of mental hygiene this province has led the entire Dominion, he said, but much improvement and more effective results were hoped for. In the eleven year period since the clinics were first established in 1929, 4,107 cases had been dealt with.

"In times of stress, like the present, it is vitally important that the health of our people be maintained. Public interest is widespread and every citizen feels that it is his or her right to have first class medical attention," declared Dr. Bow.

Some kind of health insurance is required, he went on, and already we have it in a modified form here in Alberta.

Dr. Bow touched on the high maternal death rate prevalent in the province. He reported that 60 mothers died at childbirth in 1940 and said that this should be reduced by at least 40 per cent, or even half. However, he added, the general death rate was only one third of what it was 25 years ago. "We still have many problems to face", he said.

LONGER LIFE

The span of human life is increasing, the speaker explained. He declared that according to a report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., the average life span was increased by 14 and a half years for men and 15 and a third years for women between 1900 and 1939.

Dr. Bow also said great improvement had been made in medical science in the last few years. Diagnosis had become more efficient, hospitals were better equipped and even industry had contributed to the welfare of citizens. "And with a positive health program much more can still be done," he said.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. A. Somerville, medical health officer for the High River health unit, and president of the Health Workers' Association.

The annual convention of the association was opened Friday morning and addresses were delivered by E. J. Kibblewhite, Dr. T. L. Jones and Dr. R. M. Shaw.

Mr. Kibblewhite discussed "Problems of the Guidance Clinics in Alberta," and Dr. Jones spoke on "Brucellosis in Animals and Man." Dr. Shaw spoke on "Dysentery and Internal Infections."

FOUR HEALTH PHASES STUDIED AT MEETING

Discussions following addresses by authorities on four phases of different health fields featured the afternoon sitting of over 60 health officials from all parts of the province, in convention at the Macdonald hotel Friday.

The convention is sponsored by the Alberta Public Health Workers' association and will be concluded at noon Saturday. Medical health officers from the newly established rural health areas, provincial health officials and other health authorities are participating in the convention program.

MEDICAL MEN HEARD

Dr. H. Siement, medical health officer for the Lamont Health Unit, told the delegates of observations he had made when studying the rural health services in North Carolina and Tennessee.

"Iodine and Fluorine in Alberta Waters", was the subject of the report delivered by Dr. O. J. Walker, University of Alberta professor, and Dr. H. A. Gilchrist, University of Alberta, spoke on "Mottled Enamel".

Dr. A. H. Baker spoke on "Rehabilitation of Tuberculosis Patients" as the last speaker during the forenoon session. Lively discussions followed the addresses by the last three medical men.

SESSIONS TODAY

The convention broke up in sections during the Saturday morning session with the medical group under the chairmanship of Dr. A. Somerville and the nursing group under Miss McArthur, meeting in the child welfare building for the first hour. The Sanitation group met under D. B. Menzies in the administration building, from 9 to 11 a.m.

The medical and nursing groups combined from 10 to 11 a.m. for further discussion and observations in the child welfare building.

During the last hour of the forenoon the three groups will reunite in the child welfare building to discuss findings and resolutions that sprang up as a result of their sectional conferences.

R.C.A.F. Pictures

Framed pictures depicting life in the R.C.A.F. were mounted on the walls of No. 3 R.C.A.F. recruiting centre in the Provincial building here Saturday. They are intended to add to the decorative scheme of the depot and will give prospective recruits an idea of what it's like to begin training as a flier. They are official photographs released by Ottawa.

Capt. "Pat" Dunlop Leaves For Ottawa

Capt. G. M. "Pat" Dunlop, officer commanding "B" Company, 2nd Bn., Edmonton Regiment, (RCA, for the past year, left Friday night for Ottawa for a new post with the Canadian active army.

Recently appointed to his captaincy, Capt. Dunlop has received a post as education officer for the army. His duties are connected with supplying school and high school courses to soldiers who wish to supplement their previous schooling during their service.

Capt. Dunlop was an instructor at the Edmonton Normal School, prior to the taking over of that institution by the department of national defence for use as a Royal Canadian Air Force training centre.

Several officers and non-commissioned officers of his company were at the train on his departure.

All Can Help

Once again the postmen are leaving at Edmonton doors those fitting harbingers of Christmas, the packages of seals which the Kinsmen send out each year in hope and confidence that those receiving them will send in return contributions to the fund with which to carry on the never-ending war against the white man's plague, tuberculosis.

It is greatly to the credit of Edmonton people that this unique appeal never fails to bring a generous response. It will be so this year, beyond any doubt. The need is known, the cause could not be more deserving, and the larger the fund the more energetically the battle can be pushed. Aside altogether from this, the brightly-colored seals are in themselves well worth paying for, as they add to the attractiveness of a Christmas letter or gift.

To help in so worthy a work at any time is a privilege. To do so at the Christmastime is singularly appropriate. There is no fixed "charge" for the seals, no indication even as to what would be a suitable cash return for one of the packages. This is left to each recipient to decide for himself. No one, therefore, however scant his means, is debarred from lending a hand.

Despised, Even By Hitler

Herr Quisling is peeved. He has cause to be. When Ribbentrop the other day lined up his master's stooges and made them write on the dotted line the names of the countries over which they have been set to rule, Vidkun was not present—because he had not been asked. The snub was plain, and it hurt. That even Hitler refused to pretend that Quisling had any authority to speak for Norway was cruel, the more so because it was an admission of the truth. And all the aggrieved boot-licker could do about it was write to the newspapers, which he promptly did. Now all Norway, and the world at large, is laughing at him.

If Quisling reads literature of a certain kind, which he probably doesn't, he should know that he is not the first of his type to be treated with scorn by his employer. The original Judas got no recognition from those who had bribed him, once he had served their turn. It has been so all down the years. To play traitor is to make one's self an outcast, a man without a country, a creature despised even by those he has helped. Quisling has added a new word to the world's vocabulary of contempt. But in one particular he has yet failed to keep the tradition. The first Judas had the decency to go out and hang himself.

Time To Tread Softly

Fear that it would spread the spirit of revolt and cause a stampede into the Free French ranks, is the only apparent reason why some Laval or Darlan was not made to sign the name of France to the anti-comintern pretence pact. Certainly the omission was not because no one could be found base enough to betray the unhappy country, nor because of Nazi respect for the fact that France little more than two short years ago was an ally of Russia—may still be so in the documentary sense.

Now it transpires that the arranged meeting between Petain and Hitler is probably off. An inference commonly drawn is that Petain has put his foot down and refused to make France a member of the Axis. This may be, but if so the Marshal has been late in taking his stand. His time to draw the line was when Hitler demanded that he cashier Weygand, his life-long friend and the only colleague he could trust. If he sacrificed Weygand only to balk at out-and-out military alliance with Germany and Italy, the aged Marshal was curiously blind to what the demand for dismissal meant.

The more likely explanation is that Petain now hesitates to sanction the alliance for the same reason none of his associates was impressed to sign the pact—fear of a popular uprising. France is a powder magazine with hidden — and unhidden — fires already burning in many corners. To fan these struggling flames with fresh humiliations and official betrayals would be dangerous. The explosion is coming, but neither Berlin nor Vichy is anxious to hasten the blow-up.

The 23rd. Week

The twenty-third week of the Russian campaign has put Nazi spearheads closer to Moscow than they have been before. That some of them are dangerously close is admitted by the Russian communiques. It is further admitted that the southern prong of the pincers has passed Tula and is heading north in an attempt to encircle the city—and with the city the defending army also.

The latter is the more serious threat. The city could be lost and destroyed without this being a major disaster. But the destruction of the forces holding the central sector of the Russian line would unquestionably be a more serious matter.

These forces have not, however, been wiped out, and are not in immediate prospect of that fate. They are fighting as tenaciously as they have fought for more than five months, and they are exacting an awful price for every mile the enemy gains. It is said, and is undoubtedly true, that more Germans have died on the approaches to Moscow than died before Verdun.

If Moscow is in graver and grave peril, Rostov has been relieved. There the Nazi forces have been hurled back 60 miles, and Berlin has stopped talking about the imminent invasion of the Caucasus.

In the military sense this is more important, to Russia and to Hitler, than the loss and capture of Moscow would be. Both need Caucasus oil more than they need Moscow. If the Fuehrer has weakened his southern armies to press the drive on Moscow and send air relief to Rommel, the capture of the ancient capital—unless it involved the destruction of the Russian forces there—would be a costly victory.

It is officially announced that when the Cossack was torpedoed and sank one crew member was killed, four so badly wounded that they died, 28 less seriously wounded; while 154 are missing and presumed dead. A total of 187, of whom only 28 are known to be alive. There cannot have been many more aboard. Seemingly only once in the whole course of the war a larger percentage of a ship's company has been lost, excepting cases of submarines destroyed by depth charges.

The House of Representatives at Washington rejected a proposal to put a general "ceiling" over prices and wages, and then took up consideration of plans to peg prices of specific commodities. Whether the thing is done at one "swoop" or by piecemeal enactments, legislative barriers against inflation are inevitable in the republic, as they were in Canada. The difference is that, because the job was done here at one executive stroke, general price control comes into effect in Canada next Monday; while it cannot be brought into effect in the United States for months.

The Hitler-helpers in Britain's parliament had a field day on Friday, claiming that "when this is all over the United States will hold us in financial bondage". The facts of course are that lease-lend supplies are sent to Britain without being charged up against it. Britain will as a matter of honor pay what it can, in cash or kind or by replacement. What it can't pay will not be demanded. Either the dissentient members knew this or they are almost equally blameable for not knowing it. In any case an adverse vote of 392 to 2 showed how much figure they cut as representatives of public opinion.

Remember Quimper's Bishop

Stories of Human Nobility Found Against Background of Cruel Treachery

FROM "LONDON CALLING"

After the sickening stories of cruelty, treachery and contempt for human honor and decency that pour in day after day from Nazi-dominated countries, it is a relief to hear an incident of real nobility.

In Brittany, just after the collapse, the Germans, following their pactice, tried to spread discord. They tried to create a separatist movement. And this was opposed with the utmost energy by the old Bishop of Quimper. He called personally on the German governor and spoke so bluntly that the Nazi angrily reminded him: "Do you forget that you have been beaten?" "I beg your pardon. We shall be beaten only after Great Britain's defeat." Furious, the German drew his revolver. The Bishop calmly went on:

"I have done my duty. Now do yours."

The German did not shoot. He sent the bishop back into his palace under armed escort and held him prisoner.

On the day of the Armistice the vast nave of the Cathedral of Quimper was filled with an immense congregation. Only the Bishop was missing. He suddenly appeared in all the splendor of his high dignity, mitre on head and crosier in hand, having eluded the vigilance of his guards.

For three-quarters of an hour he spoke from his heart both as a priest and a patriot, telling his flock of their duties towards their oppressed fatherland. Then he went back to his prison—to die.

This simple story of greatness and dignity shows that the spirit of St. Thomas a Becket has not died, and if any of you visit Brittany after the war perhaps you will remember the Bishop of Quimper.

In every street in London, on every bus and tube, you see keen-faced, splendid looking men in uniform with "Poland" embroidered on their sleeves and the Polish eagle on their buttons. There are tens of thousands of Polish fighting men in Britain today, and some of our most brilliant and courageous airmen are Poles.

But it is not only in Britain that this fiery and indomitable spirit exists today. Do you know how the standard for the Polish airmen came into existence? It is like a story from legends of chivalry. At the risk of their lives the women of Lwow in Poland embroidered their standards, toiling for six months, meeting by night in cellars and attics. When it was finished they drew lots and one of them was chosen to travel through all the hazards of Europe with the standard wrapped around her body, until she brought it safely to these shores.

Such stories as those of the women of Lwow and the Bishop of Quimper shine out like stars against the blood-stained night the Nazis have spread over Europe.

Le Renvoi De Weygand

SERVICE D'INFORMATION DE LA FRANCE LIBRE

Sur l'ordre de l'Allemagne, Pétain a renvoyé le général Weygand et fait de Darlan le maître absolu de la métropole et de l'Empire. Théoriquement, l'Amiral est chargé de défendre la France d'outre-mer. Pratiquement, il est d'accord avec Hitler pour la livrer progressivement au Reich. A titre de récompense, le Fueher lui a promis une huitième étoile. Lorsque la France sera complètement dépossédée au profit de l'Allemagne, l'Amiral de France deviendra Amiral d'Europe.

Les grandes lignes de l'opération sont déjà fixées.

Elle doit se faire dans le cadre de traités de paix à intervenir aussitôt que possible avec l'Allemagne et l'Italie. Ces traités, le gouvernement de Vichy a hâte de les signer. Le Maréchal nous en a avertis. Il a rappelé le caractère provisoire des conditions d'armistice. Il y a peu de temps, il affirmait encore qu'il ne pouvait être question pour son gouvernement, de signer la paix avant la fin du conflit actuellement en cours. Le Maréchal a oublié cette promesse comme tant d'autres. C'est que le régime de Vichy est fondé sur la défaite; et les traités de paix auxquels Vichy aspire, doivent consacrer cette défaite.

Pourvu que ces Messieurs soient consolidés dans leur place, qu'importe la France, qu'importe l'Empire!

L'essentiel à leurs yeux, est que la France et l'Empire fournissent une contribution aussi large que possible à la victoire allemande. D'après la thèse officielle, la France s'assurerait ainsi une place meilleure dans la Nouvelle Europe. Mais les profiteurs du désastre sont les premiers à ne pas ajouter foi à une pareille absurdité. C'est bien là d'ailleurs le cadet de leurs soucis. Ce dont ils se préoccupent, c'est de sauver leur propre position, et, pour parler franchement, leur misérable existence. Ils savent qu'ils n'auraient plus de place dans une France libérée. Ils redoutent les justes vengeances du peuple français débarassé de ses chaines. C'est pourquoi ils joignent leurs efforts à ceux de l'ennemi, pour maintenir le peuple dans la servitude. Ils sont d'autant plus empressés, que de plus en plus nettement, la victoire fuit les drapeaux allemands.

L'Empire français doit participer à cette triste besogne. Il doit aider, lui aussi, à creuser le tombeau de la France et à collaborer à sa propre ruine. C'est désormais Darlan et Darlan seul qui commande à Tunis, à Alger, à Rabat, à Dakar, aussi bien qu'à Vichy. Darlan, l'ami de Hitler, l'homme dont la cause est indissolublement liée à celle des bourreaux du peuple français.

Quelles vont être ses prochaines décisions? Comment va se poursuivre l'oeuvre d'aliénation de l'Empire français commencée en Indochine et heureusement interrompue en Syrie?

La réponse n'est pas difficile. La règle de conduite de Darlan est bien simple. Il fera, à chaque instant, ce dont l'Allemagne a le plus besoin.

Quels peuvent être, à l'heure actuelle, les désirs des Allemands en ce qui concerne les possessions françaises d'outre-mer?

L'armée allemande de Lybie est en très mauvaise posture, surtout depuis la magnifique et victorieuse offensive britannique. Ses communications avec l'Italie et la Grèce ne peuvent être maintenues qu'au prix de très lourdes pertes en bateaux, en matériel et en vies humaines.

L'Allemagne exige le port de Bizerte; dès le 15 Juillet elle a demandé, sous une forme impérative, qu'il soit mis à sa disposition. Darlan a déjà accédé à ce désir. Il cherche simplement le moyen de le réaliser sans heurter trop violemment le sentiment des populations françaises et indigènes de Tunisie. Il s'apprête à renouveler le précédent d'Indochine. On admettra d'abord à Bizerte des troupes allemandes en nombre théoriquement limité et à titre provisoire. Le provisoire sera, évidemment, définitif et le nombre ne cessera de croître. De Bizerte, les Allemands, sous prétexte d'assurer leurs lignes de communication avec la Lybie, se répandront dans toute la Tunisie et de là, gagneront l'Algérie, par les routes déjà en construction pour faciliter leur déplacement.

Mais Bizerte ne suffira pas aux besoins pressants du Reich. Il lui faut encore, et dès maintenant, les bases de Casablanca et de Dakar, afin d'améliorer sa position dans la bataille de l'Atlantique qui, depuis, un certain nombre de mois, tourne nettement à son désavantage. Là encore, Darlan aura recours aux mêmes procédés hypocrites et, avant qu'on y prenne garde, toute l'Afrique du Nord aura subi le même sort que notre magnifique colonie d'Extrême-Orient, aujourd'hui occupée par 100,000 Japonais.

Des proclamations sonores annonceront que les droits de la France sont maintenus dans leur intégrité etenmême temps, tout un Empire, acquis au prix de milliers de vies françaises et de plusieurs décades de labeur, passera aux mains de l'ennemi.

Darlan s'apprête à livrer à L'Allemagne les clefs de l'Afrique française. Déjà les soldats et les marins du Reich se disposent à rejoindre les membres de la commission d'armistice et les "touristes" envoyés en avant-garde.

Et vous, Français de l'Empire, n'attendez pas que la terreur ait traversé la mer pour imposer à vos chefs de rentrer dans le devoir S'il est vrai que M. Darlan doive recevoir une septième étoile pour avoir vendu l'Indochine, permettrez-vous qu'il en reçoive une huitième pour avoir vendu Tunis, une neuvième pour Alger et une dixième pour Dakar? Jusqu'au jour ou tout l'Empire ayant été vendu, toutes les constellations du ciel seront descendues sur sa manche.

Comme tous les Français, vous êtres dégagés par le Maréchal lui-même de toute allégeance envers un régime qui se proclame lui-même en état d'insurrection contre le pays. Comme tous les Français, vous êtes délivrés du faux, forgé par les vaincus de Verdun, avec la gloire ternie de leur vainqueur.

Lady Hamilton

REV. HUGH NELSON-WARD, IN THE LONDON TIMES

The film entitled Lady Hamilton is being largely shown throughout the country and is drawing packed houses. Thousands of those who see the picture and who have no knowledge of the truth, will believe—and do believe—that it is founded upon fact, and will not realize that the producers have deliberately chosen to represent Lady Hamilton during the last years of her life as the companion of the most degraded and dissolute at Calais.

There is not a shred of evidence to justify this. She was never in the poverty-stricken and sordid condition in which they have thought fit to picture her. I am able to state this as I have a record written by one who was with her throughout her stay in France, and it is a complete refutation of such insinuations. Lady Hamilton knew and mixed with all the best society which Calais offered, and was constantly visited by those who crossed from England and by the officers of the English ships when they were in port.

Hand That Fed Him

Canada's New War-Time Capital

Ottawa Undergoes Complete Change as War Alters Tempo of National Life

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

When I first came to Ottawa as a cub reporter nearly 20 years ago I was terrified. The icicles, unfamiliar to a British Columbian, hanging huge and heavy from the eaves of the Parliament Buildings, the great legends of our politics hanging all over the place and the statesmen in fur caps and fur coats, the stout gentlemen lolling elegantly in the Chateau and the old Russell House, all combined to make a youngster feel that he was entering a Valhalla of heroes, where he had no right to trespass.

But you got used to it after a bit. The icicles melted in the Spring, the legends became commonplace and the statesmen were seen to be only fellows lolling in chairs. You soon knew your way around Ottawa, not only among the men, but among the ideas.

You come back to Ottawa now, an old-timer, and you are just as terrified as in your youth. Again Ottawa is like a dark cavern full of moving, mysterious shapes. The faces are different but, above all, the ideas are different.

Ottawa used to be the centre of politics and the seat of a government which was concerned with politics only. Only 20 years ago Canada got along very well without thinking about Ottawa at all, except when the election came along, and Ottawa's main effort was to keep as clear of our daily business as possible. Politics thus was a kind of game, with well-recognizable teams and players who alternated in office, shifted about a little, but never disturbed the rules. It was a pleasant game, if you liked that kind of thing, and life here peaceful and good-natured, with the occasional row between players or a quarrel with the referee. Ottawa was on a branch line, not the main line of Canadian life.

Now Ottawa is not only on the main line but all other lines lead to it. It is not only the political centre but the economic and business heart of the nation. Ottawa has suddenly taken charge of the whole business of the country from the Bank of Canada down to the shoe-shine stand on the corner. Ottawa has become the core of a mechanism of government control so vast, so complicated, that no one can draw a blueprint of it, no one knows precisely how it will work or where it is going.

The old Ottawa is gone, its legends, its statesmen, its rules of the game. Among the swarming new faces and the chaos of ideas only the icicles remain to remind you that it is the same place you once knew as a boy. And definitely it was more fun, when nothing really mattered very much.

Take A Walk

DETROIT FREE PRESS

A sturdy pair of walking legs is a gift from God too often unappreciated in this day of the universal gasoline wagon. James H. Hocking, of Teaneck, New Jersey, began life in simpler times, and developed a special talent for trudging. Consequently when his eigthy-fifth birthday arrived recently, he was able to celebrate by hiking 55 miles in 12 hours, breaking the record for age and distance, so he believes, and marching across the finish line with a smile.

Not many could hope to equal this feat even after a long life-time of training on the highroad, though there are some extraordinary walkers in Europe, or were. But few of us today have time or opportunity to do even the six miles "on the hoof" each day recommended once by a medical columnist.

But most of us might do much better, if we would get rid of the idea that a half-mile trip calls for motor aid. An hour of brisk walking each day would work wonders with the physical condition of the American people.

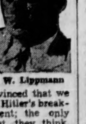
Has The War Reached A Position Of Stalemate?

Wishful Optimism To Assume That The Axis Offensive Power Has Been Checked

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. Hoover, and now Senator Tydings, have been telling us that the real question before us is whether we shall raise an army of five to eight million men and send them to fight Hitler in Europe. What makes them think that this is the real question?



W. Lippmann

They have explained why they think it is. They believe that the war is at a stalemate in which Hitler is encircled and cannot get out, in which Britain and Russia are on the outside and cannot break in unless a huge American expeditionary force lands in Europe and wins the war for the Allies.

Believing that this is a true picture of the military situation, they are convinced that we need no longer worry about Hitler's breaking out of the encirclement; the only thing we need worry about, they think, is whether, against Hitler already securely held down in Europe, we should pay the terrible price of deciding to invade Europe. They think, in other words, that Hitler's offensive power is already checked, that Hitler's expansion has already reached its limits, that the defensive resistance of the Allies is already successful, and that nothing remains for us but to decide whether to let Hitler stew in his own juice or to knock him out.

Unfortunately Mr. Hoover and Mr. Tydings are taking a fantastic optimistic view of the military situation. For it is the height of wishful optimism to suppose that the offensive power of the Axis has already been successfully checked and that the defensive resistance is now firm and reliable. If we were in any such happy position, the worst of our anxieties would be over.

France and Japan

Our anxieties are not over. The evidence that the situation is not stabilized at a stalemate with Hitler locked up in Europe is that both in the Far East and in French Africa—on two sides of us and in both oceans—there is an extreme crisis in which the fundamental issue is whether Hitler is to get the use of Japanese and French sea power. Mr. Hoover's reassuring idea that the German army cannot break out of continental Europe completely overlooks the ominous reality that Hitler is making a gigantic effort, not without a good chance of success, to get the use of the very powerful Japanese navy and the very considerable French navy.

In Mr. Hoover's estimate of the situation confronting us there is no mention and no slightest evidence that he is aware of the significance of Japan or of France, and no effort to discuss candidly with the American people the importance of Hitler's effort to supplement the power of the German army with two great navies and their naval bases in both oceans. Yet what is the point of talking as if the German army were securely locked up in Europe at the very moment when Hitler is exerting extreme pressure upon Tokyo and upon Vichy to lend him their naval power in the Pacific and the Atlantic?

If there were any truth in the Hoover-Tydings picture of the Nazi army stalemated in Europe, we should not be involvin these extremely critical negotiations with Japan nor faced with the consequences which may very easily follow from the fierce pressure of Hitler on Petain—pressure which has already caused the removal of General Weygand, and may very well force France into the war. The German army is not yet stalemated in Europe if Japan breaks loose in the Pacific and if France opens the door into the middle and south Atlantic.

The time to worry about the problem which worries Mr. Hoover—what to do about a stalemate—will be when there is a stalemate. There is no stalemate now. Not only is the offensive power of the German army still highly dynamic, but Hitler still has in Japan and in France, not to mention the possibilities in Spain and Turkey, unused reserves for aggression which makes it absurd to talk as if he were securely fixed in continental Europe with the doors slammed and bolted. Until Japan has been neutralized or defeated, until Vichy France can no longer be used to open up an Axis naval front in the Atlantic and until it is certain that Hitler will not knock out Russia and then turn on Britain with total violence, it is sheer self-deception to talk as if the greatest aggressor in modern history had already been reduced to a stalemate.

Still on the Defensive

The plain truth of the matter is that the anti-Axis nations are everywhere engaged in defensive actions which, if they are all of them successful, may in the course of time produce that stalemate which Mr. Hoover fondly supposes already exists. The British offensive in Libya is essentially a defensive campaign for the protection of the Middle East. The Russians are obviously fighting a defensive campaign deep inside of Russia. The battle of the Atlantic is a defensive campaign. The Chinese are on the defensive. We are on the defensive—endeavoring to supply the British and the Russians and the Chinese in their defense, seeking to hold Japan from taking the offensive, seeking to induce the French not to betray us and place Hitler within striking distance of South America and the trade routes of the middle and south Atlantic.

Mr. Hoover, who has consistently misjudged the realities of this war, is still misjudging them. In the first autumn of the war he advised us not to sell bomber planes to Great Britain and France because he thought they were not needed for defense. When France fell, he told us in a carefully prepared address that we must now adjust ourselves to the total victory of Germany, Italy and Japan in Europe and Asia. Now he tells us that Hitler's aggression is stopped and that there is a stalemate. He is as wrong now in his optimism as he was a year ago in his pessimism. There is no Axis victory. But there is no stalemate either. There is a desperately dangerous world-wide struggle in which the defensive forces of resistance are, we hope, gaining, but are far from having reached the point where any responsible person is entitled to say that aggression is checked and a stalemate exists.

If and When

Nor are Mr. Hoover or Mr. Tydings, or Mr. Churchill and Adolf Hitler, able to foresee now what will be the military situation if and when in this mobile and dynamic war there is a "stalemate." How does anybody know whether in a war of this character any such things as a stalemate is even conceivable? How can anybody know what it would be like if a "stalemate" were reached?

Who knows what would happen if the German army knew it could go no further, and the people of Europe knew Hitler could never get a decision, and that he could never lift the blockade, and that they were locked up in Europe while his enemies had the world to draw upon? Who knows but that the stalemate, which Mr. Hoover has so prematurely announced might not be all the military victory that the free peoples will need?

No one can say. But to worry now about what we shall do about a stalemate is like a man wondering how to swim the Mississippi river when he is in imminent danger of being run down on Pennsylvania avenue.

VETERAN'S VIGNETTES

Pre-First War Pioneer Lived Through History

Oldest Old Soldier is Poker-Faced, Straight-Eyed Art Holtby, Northville District Settler

By J. M. GILROY

NORTHVILLE.—The oldest old soldier in these parts is poker-faced, straight-eyed Art Holtby. He is one of those rare birds, an old Canadian Regular of pre-First World War vintage, with the added distinction of having been one of the first "redcoats" and settlers in these parts, for he belonged to the old R.N.W.M.P. and helped to police this section of steel when two transcontinental railways were running a neck-and-neck race to the Pacific.

Those were rough days, with three gangs of "rough-necks" operating in each section: one coming, one going and one on the job. Settlers were pouring into this new western land by the thousands, too, and young Const. Holtby had one tough job.

But in a long lifetime of service, of adventure on the trail and in the Western Front, the greatest thrill of his life came last Armistice night, when his son, Tommy, 13, was accorded the honor of being color-bearer at the head of the parade, flanked on each side by a scarlet clad Mountie. Another son, Stanley, is "learning a trade" with the Canadian Armored Division.

JOINS MOUNTIES

Old Art—young Art then—served his first hitch in uniform with the Royal Canadian Dragoons back in 1908-1909. He then joined the Mounties for a 3-year period and was sent to this district to help police railway construction.

Two outstanding instances, both humorous, are preserved in memory's files. At Edson, just before Christmas of 1910, the Mounties made a big seizure of illicit liquor. Without raking up any unsavory details at this late date, it may be stated that the detachment rested easy with pleasant anticipations of a very Merry Christmas indeed.

"And then some crook stole the liquor," Art complained, still saddened by that old hurt. "Boy, did we investigate! But we didn't get our man, and Christmas was blank and dreary."

And a tea story, from up Entrance way. Inspector Raven, in charge of the detachment, couldn't sleep on account of the monotonous drumming and wild whoops coming from an Indian encampment along the Athabaska River.

Angrily the inspector summoned Holtby and a comrade. "Go down and stop all that infernal noise," he ordered. "And if they've got liquor, seize it and throw the guilty parties into the guardhouse."

Whether the Redskins had scouts out on the look-out for the Redcoats, is not known, but the camp fell silent some time before the two men on patrol reached it. Blanket-faced bucks and their squaws sat stolidly that it was just a "tea-dance."

NEVER SAW DANCE

Neither of the two young Mounties had ever seen a "tea-dance." The Indians brewed some black and bitter tea, took a drink, scarfed again their monotonous tom-tomming and hiya-hiya's. There were no arrests.

When war broke out in August 1914, Holtby joined the old 9th Battalion. The 9th Battalion was broken up, never saw France; Holtby's regiment went over as infantry in May, 1915.

The R.C.D. didn't get their horses until the summer of 1916, and were in the same division with some Indian cavalry. In the great charge at the Bois de Morcuil at the end of March, 1918, when the Canadian Cavalry brigade hurled itself at a wood packed with picked Prussian infantry, Holtby had his horse shot from under him at the very edge of the wood. He lost a Colt .45 he was carrying in his left hand, dragged his Lee-Enfield out of the gun-boot atop his dead horse, and a quick snap-shot at a bare 10 yards range knocked over a German standing up in a trench and about to take aim.

"Later I saw the squadron sergeant-major escorting a German and brandishing a Colt .45. I claimed both the Jerry and the Colt, but you know how it is with sergeant-majors—I lost the argument."

All this writer knows about it is that he would hate to have Holtby's rifle aimed at his face—he had top score at the last shoot between Northville and Wildwood squads, V.V.R.

PROVOST.—At a re-organization meeting of the fire brigade, made necessary by the death of the fire chief, T. D. Morrell, Norval Agar was elected chief with Louis Schenider as assistant chief. C. Fox was elected secretary, and three recruits were added to the force to bring it up to full strength.

PROVOST.—J. Robb, farmer living about a mile south of town lost his barn and all his winter feed by fire, the origin of which is unknown. No insurance was carried.

Engineer Bill Niven Completes 50 Years With Same Railroad

"If I Had Known the Job Had Only Been for 50 Years, I Might Not Have Taken It," is His Only Comment

LACOMBE. — When Engineer William Niven brought engine No. 2922 into the Lacombe depot Wednesday morning and booked in from his last run on the Coronation-Lacombe line, he had completed an enviable record—50 years and four months service with the C.P.R.

He was greeted by a large delegation of townspeople and railroad men as he stepped down from the decorated cab, which bore a banner inscribed "W. Niven—1891-1941." Mayor Thomas Wilkes officially represented the town council in the welcoming party and congratulated the veteran engineer on his long record.

Born in Siellarton, N.S., in 1876, Mr. Niven came west as a young man, joining the C.P.R. in Lethbridge as a rupe in 1891, he was promoted to fireman in 1892 and moved to Canmore in 1897. In 1898 he was transferred to Calgary as an engineer and has worked on practically every line in the division. Five years ago Mr. Niven took over the Lacombe-Coronation run and continued with that branch until his retirement Wednesday.

Last week he was tendered a banquet in recognition, which was attended by J. Ivan MacKay, Alberta superintendent for the C.P.R., and other railway officials and townspeople.

Mr. Niven, who left for his home in Calgary Wednesday, said that he had made no definite plans for the future. As he boarded the train for the south he humorously remarked that "If I had known the job had only been for 50 years, I might not have taken it."

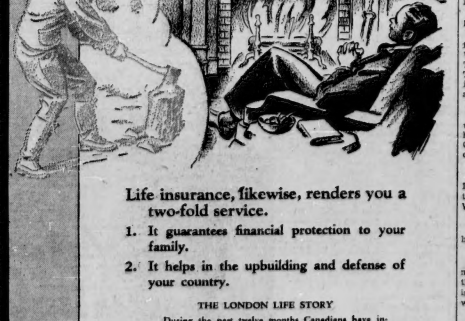
"Careless Talk" Warning Cards On C.N. Trains

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—The C.N.R. has taken steps to cooperate with the department of National War Services in the campaign to warn the public against careless talk which might aid the enemy, according to an announcement made today at headquarters of the National War Services.

Cards have been prepared in eye-catching style and will be placed in conspicuous positions in every sleeping, parlor and dining car and every coach operated throughout the system.

The message is brief and direct: "Warning," calls the notice. "Careless talk may help the enemy. Do not discuss ship movements, defence plans, munitions factories, troop movements, harbor facilities, aircraft production, supply stores. Be on your guard."

"Chop your own wood and it will warm you twice"



Life insurance, likewise, renders you a two-fold service.

Looking them Over

by JACK KELLY

HOCKEY is just around the corner now for Edmonton fans. In fact the first chilblains likely will develop next week as citizens stand around open rinks and take their hockey under the stars.

There have been hopes that the Junior League might start this coming Saturday, but that seems impossible now owing to the clubs not having had enough skating to be ready. There will be lots of practices this week though that will draw the more ardent souls of hockeydom.

Yesterday I decide to toughen up for the frosty reporting jobs in prospect and took a prowl around the new 119 street rink. The three rows of covered bleachers surrounding the full sized ice surface are very sturdy and the "boards" around the ice are also a fine job, but you might as well know the horrible truth right now—there is no place at all for more than a couple of dozen fans to warm themselves and this layout is going to be mighty cold.

Yesterday wasn't what you would call really cold, but 10 minutes around the rink was enough to make you covet an Eskimo's pants—his fur-lined ones.

It may be that the city has plans up its sleeve for some sort of a defrosting unit for this rink, but if so the secret is being well kept. Unless a few hundred dollars more is spent for a place for fans to warm themselves, then all the money already spent on the partially covered bleachers has just been wasted. No fan could possibly stick out a full game unless the weather is exceptionally mild.

E.A.C. Reorganizes Its Machine

LONG a major power in western junior hockey, the Edmonton Athletic Club has made a number of changes in its machine for this season.

Ed Chambers, who coached the juveniles last season, has been moved up as coach of the juniors with Art Phillips as manager. Pete Gregor takes the post of juvenile coach with Reg Paul managing. Dave Larose will do the midget coaching with Blair Cook as manager.

The E.A.C. Juniors will take the ice with only two surviving members of the 1940-41 squad—Freddie Smitten and Harry Allan. Replacements have been drawn chiefly from last season's juveniles.

The club is taking a long term view of the hockey situation and has decided to concentrate most effort on preparing for after the war when the Arena may again be available. With this object, the E.A.C. is backing no less than four bantam squads this winter—from which it would appear that the executive does not foresee an early end to hostilities.

Varsity Hockey Opens Dec. 10

STAN MOHER, director of the Inter-Fac Hockey League at the University of Alberta, announced today that the student loop would present its first game on December 10.

The Varsity rink has now been set-up again and ice making is under way. The surface should be ready about Thursday if the weather stays cold.

Thisa And Thata Data

LAST night there were indications that there would be quite a swarm of Edmontonians at Red Deer tonight to see Frank Coulson's new Buffaloes make their debut in the Alberta Senior Hockey League against Riley Mather's Lethbridge Leafs. Counting the two coaches and the players on both clubs, there will be enough Edmontonians there to make Red Deer look like Jasper and 101 street.

The deep respect I have always had for the solid western allegiance of Gildo Purcell of The Canadian Press has become even deeper. Purcell is covering the war in England. Recently he lost a leg as a result of an accident while on manoeuvres with the Canadian army. Yesterday he cabled pals in Toronto to bet 20 bucks for him on Winnipeg Bombers to beat Ottawa Rough Riders.

Cracks Hugh Fullerton Jr. of The Associated Press: "Whizzer White is reported to have applied for a job with the U. S. Department of Justice. Would that make him a G-Whizzer?"

Bowl Invitations At Stake

Army Vs. Navy Feature Of Final U.S. Football Battles

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Though the time-honored clash between Army's Cadets and Navy's Midshipmen at Philadelphia will claim the centre of the college football stage today, a score of other tussles over the United States will command strong sectional interest and in at least two cases probably decide the contestants in New Year's Day bowl games.

Fordham, still clinging to hope of a Bowl invitation despite its jarring defeat by Pittsburgh three weeks ago, faces New York University Violets here in the final for both teams. If Fordham's Rams romp all over their Intramural rivals, as they figure to do, they are virtually certain to play in the Sugar Bowl.

WEST COAST PUZZLE

The west coast representative in the Rose Bowl either will be decided in clean-cut fashion by two vital games out there or will leave the committee with a delicate selection on its hands. Stanford's twice-beaten Indians face the deflated California Bears, while Oregon State, likewise beaten twice, engages Oregon. A victory for either of the leaders and a loss for the other would make the Bowl invitation automatic—but the likelihood is that both will come out on top.

Down south, as is customary on closing day, a half-dozen traditional battles are due to be fought. Perhaps the outstanding civil war will occur at Oxford, Miss., where Mississippi and Mississippi State, two of the best in the country, settle their 1941 differences. Each has lost but one decision.

DOWN TEXAS WAY

Having accomplished their mainmission of stopping Texas a fortnight ago, Texas Christian Horned Frogs wind up an unexpectedly successful season against Southern Methodist at Fort Worth. In the other southwest conference Closer Rice tackles Baylor at Waco. As the Aggies have clinched the conference title already, neither game is of paramount importance.

The big nine having folded a week ago, the only games of consequence in the mid-west bring together Oklahoma and Nebraska at Lincoln, and Iowa State and Marquette at Milwaukee.

Bob Feller Still Liable To Call Next February

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Bob Feller's 1-A draft classification will not be reclassified on the basis of his mother's recent letter to selective service officials concerning his parents' dependency on the Cleveland Indian pitcher's estimated $40,000-a-year income.

John E. Morley, chairman of Feller's local draft board, declared Friday "His mother's letter was not in the nature of a request for reopening of his case," and "until there is an actual request for reclassification and cause shown for deferment, Feller will remain in 1-A."

The young pitching star, whose draft number—2,857—was only eight numbers away from the board's last call, has said he will not ask deferment. Unless his case is reopened he probably will be inducted in February.

Wildcats, Y.W. Winners In City Girls' Basketball

The Wildcats defeated the Hornets, their sister Bissell Club team 54-33 in one half of Friday night's City Girls Basketball League doubleheader. In the first game, Y.W.C.A. won 22-15 against St. Mary's school.

Close checking and a strong fourth quarter offensive by the Y.W. brought victory to them after tarsiling for the early part of the game. Mills with 10 and Forbes with 8, were high scorers. LaRose with 5 and McIntyre and McCarthy with four each were high for St. Mary's.

Owing to an increased membership in the Bissell Club, coach Reg. Robertson has organized two lineups for participation in the league and the first meeting of the two teams resulted in the fourth game to be won by one point in this fall's schedule.

Ruth Moore's 19 was top score for the night, but Vera Barilko of the Wildcats was just one point behind. Gwen Riddle made 14.

City Skeet Team Accorded Honors

Winding up a successful season of the Edmonton Gun Club, A. E. Turvey honored the members of the skeet team with a dinner at the Mayfair Edward hotel on Friday evening.

On this occasion the much-coveted trophy for the mid-western zone provincial championship was presented to the team and also individual badges were donated to each member.

The remarkable showing of the local team in competition against Western teams from Winnipeg, Calgary and Saskatoon and succeeding in winning the western zone championship was deserving of the praise Mr. Turvey extended to them in his congratulatory address.

Members of the team were W. C. Davis, C. E. Brown, W. E. Madge, H. Tait, E. A. Coupland, R. H. Potter.

In the competition for the Dominion Skeet Championship the local boys also made a very good showing. This event was won by the York Skeet Club of Toronto with a high score of 469 out of 500. Other high scores were: Edmonton Gun Club 463, Edmonton Gun Club 461, and Montreal Skeet Club 461.

Kreller, Algar Each Score Twice

VICTORIA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Victoria Bapcos defeated Nanaimo Loggers 7-0 here last night to win their second game in the current Pacific coast (BC) Intermediate Amateur Hockey League.

Bapcos scored two goals in the first period, added three more in the second and wound up a record league win in the third that netted an additional four.

Laurel Harney, Bapcos netminder, turned in a brilliant game, kicking out shot after shot that Clippers pounded at him throughout the game as they carried much more of the play than the score indicated.

Kreller and Algar, of Victoria, each scored two goals and got an assist.

George Coward Posts New Highs 5-pin Bowling

George Coward, of Wizz Bangs in the C.N. Mixed 5-pin League was really hot at Recreation alleys on Friday night. George turned in 401 for a starter and followed with 264 and 251 for a total of 916, giving him both single and triple highs for the season so far.

It was in the third frame where George struck a bit of tough luck. He picked up a strike in both first and second, then left the No. 2 pin standing with his first ball in the third. He also missed the spare, but came through on his next ball.

Coward then proceeded to strike out. His scores accordingly were, 43, 28, 15 for the first three frames and then seven straight 30's for a total of 401.

Up to last night Jack Myler's 940 was the top single and Fred Kokurs held the triple with 979.

Purpur Goes Up

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League Friday recalled Clifford (Fido) Purpur, a wingman from their Kansas City American Hockey Association farm.

The Hawks sent Bob Carse and Joe Pajdas, forwards, to Kansas City on recall basis. Purpur will report in time to play against New York Rangers here Sunday night.

Lust Lifts Welter Title

Wenstob Wins 12-Round Decision Over Packy Paul

CALGARY, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Eddie Wenstob, formerly of Viking, Alta., but now of Vancouver, B.C., successfully defended his western Canada heavyweight championship and Albert Lust, Medicine Hat, won the western Canada welterweight title in bouts here Friday night.

Wenstob outpointed Packy Paul of Richdale, Alta., in a 12-round bout in which the rounds were 2½ minutes each, while Lust scored an eighth round technical knockout over welterweight champion Nick Serada, of Winnipeg, in a bout that was scheduled to go 12 three-minute rounds.

The welterweight title bout stole the show, with Serada having the edge until the first minute of the eighth round when Lust connected with a right to the jaw. Serada went down and hard he hit the back of his head on the floor. When he regained his footing after the count of nine he was an easy target for the youthful, hard-hitting Lust, and Referee Wilson stopped the match.

Eddie Wenstob

Wenstob found Paul an awkward opponent and while the champion had the advantage and had much the better of the argument, he lacked the necessary punch to score a knockout. It was a time scrap and the crowd booed following the seventh, eighth, ninth and 10th rounds. It was Wenstob's last fight, he said.

At no stage of the contest did Paul appear to have a chance for success. He did hit a wicked left that brought blood to Wenstob's nose in the 11th.

Tommy Snaw, of the Royal Air Force, De Winton, who comes from Coventry, Eng., was awarded the decision over Vic Pollard of Edmonton in a fast eight-round bout. Shaw scored repeatedly with a pistol left and made his opponent miss often.

The opener between Sammy Kline, of Calgary, and Gordon Bowe, of Turner Valley, was declared a draw after four rounds.

Bantam Ace Coming Home

Vancouver's Ken Lindsay Planning To Fight Here

VANCOUVER, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Kenny Lindsay, the little Irish-hearted Edmonton-born battler who rode into the fistic limelight on a wave of amateur triumphs some years ago, will go against an as-yet-unknown opponent in Edmonton Dec. 15, his manager, Arnold Bertram, revealed here Friday night.

Kenny who styles himself Canadian bantamweight champion, meets Nash Diaz of San Francisco here next Wednesday night. Bertram said he and Lindsay will leave for the prairie city a few days later, arriving there probably Dec. 11.

Sid Beech, Vancouver tamalehouse proprietor who does a bit of light promoting on the side, is negotiating both the Vancouver and Edmonton bouts. He was unavailable for comment, but Bertram said Lindsay's Edmonton opponent probably would be either Jackie Jurich of San Jose, Calif., or Tony Olivera of San Francisco, both of whom Kenny has beaten during the course of his ring career.

STARTED IN 1927

Bertram is the man who first recognized the dynamite in Lindsay's fists when Kenny came to him as a tow-headed kid of 17 back in 1937 and said:

"I want to be a fighter."

He soon became British Columbia fly-weight champion and was prominent in the Northwest Golden Gloves for the next three years. In 1940 he battled his way to the national flyweight title in the diamond belt finals at San Francisco.

He turned professional shortly after as a bantamweight, but found the professional road much tougher. In a bout here last April he beat Tony Olivera by a decision and on the strength of the victory, laid claim to the California-New York recognized world bantam crown.

OLIVERA WON RETURN BOUT

However the office of Promoter Mike Jacobs in New York said Lou Salica was the bantam champ and Kenny subsequently lost a bout to Olivera later in Oakland, Calif., and never presses his claim further.

That was probably the closest he ever came to a world title, but Bertram believes his boy "has what it takes". As for the Diaz bout here next Wednesday he says Kenny's opponent "may wish he'd stayed in California."

Bertram refused comment on the coming battle in Edmonton—Kenny's first in his native city—until an opponent is definitely chosen for the little battler.

Yorkton Wins 2-0 Over Moose Jaw

MOOSE JAW, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Yorkton Terriers regained a certain amount of revenge from Moose Jaw Millers Friday night by scoring a 2-0 victory over latter squad in a scheduled Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League game here Friday night.

It was Terriers' first win in three starts. In their last game with Millers they dropped the match 7-4. Bill Westbury and Johnston did the scoring.

LINEUPS:

National Ski Meeting Underway

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Business sessions of the National Ski Association's annual convention began here Friday with 25 representatives of the seven divisional associations registered for the three-day meeting.

The volunteer winter defence committee of the association plans to meet with war department representatives to discuss equipment necessary for the army's ski troops.

Tournament officials will meet tonight, but dates and sites of the national championship competitions will not be announced until today.

Fred Hall, president of the Canadian Ski Association, and J. Ross Larway, secretary-treasurer, represent Canada at the meeting.

Silent Chester Orr, Calgary welterweight, with an advantage of 12 pounds, secured a close decision over Jimmy Maddux, of Fort Worth, Tex., after a four-round scrap.

500 Supporters Accompany Riders

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders arrived here Friday night on a special train from Ottawa surrounded by about 500 already-hoarse supporters of the Rider cause in today's national football final here between Ottawa and the Winnipeg Bombers.

The Ottawa fans were met at the train-gates by Winnipeg supporters asking odds that Winnipeg would win the final. The betting was heavy on both sides, with everything from 8-5 in Ottawa to even money getting a play.

Coach Ross Trimble was even less talkative than usual, if possible. Beyond a granted explanation that his Riders "had the right kind of spirit and therefore should win," the coach had nothing to say.

It was learned that Tony Golab and Andy Tommy, two Riders who were reported earlier this week to be suffering from minor injuries, are both in top shape again. Golab will do the kicking today.

EXTRA TIME IN CASE OF TIE

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—(CP)—In the event today's Canadian rugby union final between Ottawa and Winnipeg is tied at the end of the regulation 60 minutes, overtime will be played until one side leads after an even number of periods, or until the referee considers further play impossible, W. G. Foulds, chairman of the C.R.U. rules committee, announced last night.

Royals' Line With Canadiens Tonight

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—(CP)—The "razzle-dazzle" line of Montreal's senior Royals—Buddy O'Connor, Gerry Heffernan and Pete Morin—was signed Friday by Montreal Canadiens in an effort to strengthen the crippled National Hockey League club.

Business Manager Frank Patrick announced the trio, backbone of the Quebec hockey league entry, would be in action with Canadiens against Boston Bruins here tonight.

Albertans Down 5-1 First Period

LETHBRIDGE, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Only three games have been played in the A.B.C. Senior Hockey League—and Lethbridge Maple Leafs last year's Western Canada finalists have figured prominently in all of them.

Last night Leafs displayed rare form to wipe out a 5-1 lead Trail Smoke Eaters piled up in the first period and battled to a 7-7 deadlock with the British Columbians before a wildly applauding crowd of 2,800 here.

Smokies, who move on to Calgary for the second game of their six-game road series Saturday night, took commafid of play for almost the entire first period but failed to get into the scoring column in the second whirlwind stanza until Lethbridge had not only knotted the count at 5-5 but went into a 6-5 lead on Hector Negrello's goal at 16:48.

The 175-pound forward who came up from junior ranks scored one other goal during the high-scoring contest and Billy Maher, a junior with Edmonton Athletic Club in the Edmonton junior loop last year, also scored a brace. Walter Rimstad, Jimmy McIndoe and Mel Lunde added the other Leaf markers.

DUFFY BAGS THREE

Maurice Duffy with three goals set the pace for the Smoke Eaters, with Mike Buckna getting two and Ken Stanton and Ab Cronie one apiece.

Rimstad, Edmontonian who came to Leafs from New York Rovers, gave Lethbridge their first goal of the game at 1:08 of the opening period when he poked the puck past Duke Scodellaro after a scramble in front of the Trail goal. Don Culley was credited with an assist on the counter.

The lead, however, lasted only 21 seconds. Buckna raced in to take a pass from teammate Cronie and drilled in a 20-foot shot that Andy Young failed to reach. Eleven minutes later Duffy, on a pass from Buckna, rapped home another goal to make the count 2-1 in favor of the visitors.

CHINESE CLIPPER SCORES

Ken Stanton, who came up from British Columbia juvenile ranks this season to join the famous British Columbia team, combined with Larry Kwong, the Vernon, B.C., Chinese sensation, with the latter gathering to make the count 3-1. Cronie looked for the next goal and Kwong, Cronie and Buckna combined in a three-way passing play with Buckna netting to end the first period rout at 16:46.

Maple Leafs roared back in the second period and in a complete reversal of form scored five successive goals without a reply. Smoking went on the defensive and found they were unable to cover sufficiently to halt the drive.

MAHER TALLIES, MOON CHASED

Maher netted after four minutes on a play with hefty Pete Slobodian and when Riley Mullen, playing coach, was banished for 10 minutes for arguing with the referee over an offside, his teammates, continued their drive netting three quick tallies. Negrello, the only home brew product on the Leaf team, scored on Doug Lane's pass, Maher netted unassisted and the fast-skating Negrello literally flew down the ice lanes again to net from a pass by Cam Burke, hefty lineman with Calgary Stampeders last season.

Melndoe, three minutes later, gave Leafs the lead for the first time when he drove home a pass from Don Culley. The lead however, lasted only three minutes as Duffy, taking advantage of a minor penalty given Lunde, soloed through the Lethbridge team 30 seconds before the period ended.

EDMONTONIANS DO IT

Leafs continued the pressure in the third and gained the lead for the second time with a neat goal by Lunde from a pass by Culley. The puck whisked into the lower corner of the net giving Scodellaro no chance. Trail then took to an offensive again and Duffy finished off a three-way passing effort with Lunde and Mike Buckna to end the scoring. Smokies set up a tight defence when Wade was given a 10-minute misconduct penalty for arguing with a referee over a minor infraction given to Rudy Bobrosky but neither team was able to count.

Play in the overtime was rugged and at no time did either squad threaten to score.

Red Deer Plays Opener Tonight

CALGARY, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Red Deer hockey fans will see their favorites in action Saturday evening when Buffaloes play hosts to the Lethbridge Maple Leafs in a game in the A.B.C. senior hockey league game, commencing at 9:30 p.m.

It will be Red Deer's first contest and a large crowd is expected to be on hand to see the home-town stars in action against the league leaders.

Coach Frank Coulson announced Friday that fine sheet of ice has been built and he has it in good shape for the match.

N. Y. Commission Lifts Suspensions

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(AP)—Willie Gilzenberg of Newark, manager of welterweight champion Freddie Cochrane, and Ray Arcel, Lou Nova's second in his last summer's fight with Joe Louis, yesterday were reinstated by the New York Athletic commission.

Gilzenberg and Arcel were suspended Oct. 7, along with Ray Carlen, manager of Nova, for instructing their fighters to take it easy during the early rounds. No action was taken regarding Carlen.

Formerly A Bay Challedon Now Changed To Blond

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Challedon, the gay old dog, has become a blond.

Yes, it's a fact. The clocking contingent at Santa Anita Park, who knew Challedon as a rich, bload bay, looked up with a start when the ex-handicap king came on the track for a workout.

"So help me," gasped one witness, "he's a blond."

To be truly accurate about the new shade, it's really a golden chestnut.

It seems that William L. Brann, his owner, sent the big horse to southern California to take a salt water treatment.

Daily Challedon took an ocean dip. The change was doubtless due to a combination of salt water and sunlight.

Whether he'll keep his new hair-do remains to be seen.

Bout Postponed

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The twice-postponed bout between Ray (Sugar) Robinson of New York and Marty Servo of Schenectady, has been called off a third time, Promoter Herman Taylor announced Friday.

Taylor said Robinson, unbeaten negro welterweight, is ill of grippe. The fight was to have been held Monday at the arena. No other date has been set.

Joe Gets Excited Knockout Follows

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 29.—(AP)—An unexpected flurry of hard blows so excited heavyweight champion Joe Louis last night he knocked out George Giambastiani of Los Angeles in the third round of a four-round exhibition.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Gunner Stanley Horton says his only complaint with army life is that it doesn't give him enough chance to walk. Fifty-mile walking champion of Surrey from 1932 until the war began, Horton is serving in a searchlight battery and claims he is losing his racing stride "because wherever I go in the army there is nearly always transport to take me."

Len Hutton, famous Yorkshire and England cricketer, is making a satisfactory recovery from an operation on his arm, fractured last March. Now a sergeant instructor in the army, he probably will be able to play cricket again after the war.

Jackie Paterson, British and Empire flyweight boxing champion, knocked out Cpl. Billy Hazelgrove of the Royal Air Force in the ninth round of a 10-round boxing bout.

London football crowds have been far larger this season than last when daylight air raids kept thousands of persons away. Arsenal's average for its first six home games this year was 10,086 compared with 7,451 in the corresponding period last season, while Tottenham averaged 5,453 against 2,151.

Tom Goddard, Gloucestershire and England spin bowler, has joined two of his former county and test cricket match mates in the ranks of commissioned officers in the R.A.F. The other Gloucestershires in the air force are Walter Hammond and C. J. Barnett.

N.B.A. Champ Now Undisputed King

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Tony Zale came off the floor last night to outpoint Georgie Abrams and become the first undisputed world middleweight champion in a decade. Zale weighed 158½; Abrams 159.

In a slashing, bristling 15-rounder from opening bell to final gun, the Gary (Ind.) steel worker came off the Madison Square Garden floor from a first-round knockdown to nip Abrams with his last-round rally and clear up the middleweight situation for the first time since Mickey Walker abdicated the crown in 1931.

The decision was unanimous on the part of Referee Bill Cavanaugh and both judges. The Associated Press score card had Abrams in front eight rounds to seven at the finish, with Zale landing the heavier punches for the route, except for two occasions when the sailor boy from Washington had his rival hurt.

The factor that told most for Zale, who had been recognized as champion up to now by the National Boxing Association, was the brutal body beating he dished out with right shots.

Abrams had him on the floor in the first round from a left hook on which Tony took a nine-count before coming up for more. And in the eighth, Zale staggered half across the ring from a right hand.

But in between those two thumps, and after the eighth, Zale just pegged away with hooks to the ribs and abdomen to pile up points and slow his rival down.

The late pummeling, in addition to inuring the decision for Zale, also left George with a hemmorhage in the corner of his right eye, the most serious injury either man suffered in the 15 rounds. He was attended by a physician after the bout.

A crowd of 10,000 contributed to a gross gate of $23,854.

Patzer Leaves Sydney For West

SYDNEY, N.S., Nov. 29.—(CP)—Defenceman Eddie Patzer, suspended by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for failure to report to the Terriers of Yorkton, Sask., left Sydney Friday for the west after giving up hope of playing with Millionaires of the Cape Breton Hockey League.

Patzer came here early in the season to join Sydney, but Yorkton refused to grant him a release. The C.A.H.A. suspended him this week for remaining here after being ordered to report to the Terriers, with whom he played last year.

Patzer's destination on leaving here was not known.

RIPLEY'S 'BELIEVE IT OR NOT' CONTEST

"BELIEVE IT OR NOT":

One early summer morning of 1941, Astley dog, running in from the street and across the lawn, jumped up and with his paw, loudly rang the door bell of the residence of a well-known veterinary surgeon of Edmonton. After showing as much patience as many humans, he jumped a second time to try a second ring. He seemed "alright" but perhaps had a touch of "indigestion" or "nerves".

With the opening Saturday of Park Memorial Limited, Edmonton's newest and most modern funeral home, the city greeted a new community enterprise at the corner of 97 street and 111 avenue.

Citizens May Inspect New Funeral Home

Invitation to citizens of Edmonton and district to inspect the premises of Edmonton's newest funeral home, Park Memorial Ltd., was extended Saturday by W. M. Smolyk, manager. The premises will be open for inspection Sunday afternoon and evening and any week-day thereafter.

Built in a compact style, every room in the building is orderly and yet informal enough to suggest the sympathy of the family circle at a time of bereavement.

The entrance to the building faces north. The grounds of the building, when completed, will comprise a lawn and well-kept flower bed, in addition to a neat gravel walk leading to the housing for cars and hearses.

The garage has been so constructed that the car, bearing the bereaved family, will be parked at an inside entrance to the funeral home proper. In this way the utmost privacy is assured. Thick carpets on every floor provide a restful, quiet solemnity without being depressing.

The walls of the rooms are finished in two-tone ivory. Venetian blinds, draped with quiet curtains add a home-like atmosphere. Modern lighting fixtures have been applied throughout.

Possibly the most outstanding features of the entire building is the family room, facing the chapel, where the immediate members of the family may be present at the last rites with a degree of privacy hardly imaginable.

A large showroom is located in the building, where the casket may be chosen from a display ranging in various styles and prices. Waiting rooms are located in various parts of the building.

The office, slumber room and family room all centre about an individual, conservative fireplace. The organ in the chapel is deep and resonant. To hear it is to feel a peace and resignation to the parting.

Living quarters are provided for the staff. These include a kitchenette, bedrooms and office. Each room is soundproof and the entire building is soundproof from without. In the premises of Park Memorial Ltd. the bereaved family is entirely alone with the deceased. The outside world does not exist and privacy reigns supreme.

It is the belief of the management of the firm that Park Memorial will in short time, come to be regarded by citizens of Edmonton and district as the funeral home where kindness, dignity and practicability are the keynote of the entire burial rites.

Park Memorial Ltd., is a modern building which will be surrounded by a flower garden and a green, natural lawn in the summer months. The color of the building, deep grey, is distinctive and not oppressive. The firm is equipped to supervise the burial rites of deceased members of your family and friends from all parts of Northern Alberta.

DEEP UNDERSTANDING

W. M. Smolyk, manager, is a man of deep understanding, whose experience in the undertaking service can not be measured in years or months, but rather in the skilful and tactful handling of survivors at a time of sorrow. His experience, if measured in actual time, is found to be exceeded only by practitioners older than himself.

Management of the firm is in the hands of a number of specially-chosen stockholders, all of whom have studied at the University of Alberta courses related to the needs of the modern undertaker. The shareholders were so chosen that, as one feature the firm claims advantageous, citizens speaking the language of almost any known race or nationality, may conduct their business and their rites in their own native tongue, should they find this more convenient.

The manager, Mr. Smolyk, studied at the University of Alberta, and prior to that time, successfully served an apprenticeship with a local funeral home. He has, through a constant study of his chosen profession, passed more than favorably, all tests set by the government. He is an Alberta-licensed undertaker and embalmer.

Visitors will be invited to make a tour of the entire establishment Sunday afternoon and evening. Members of the company and staff will be on hand to answer all inquiries. After the opening this week, and for every hour of every day thereafter, members of the staff will be on hand, ready to provide up-to-the-minute service at a moments notice.

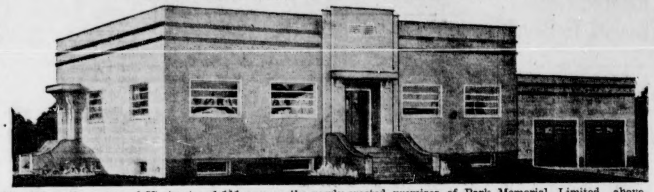
The hearse, a modern, well-designed machine, will be available at all times.

Development of the Park Memorial firm is a story of staunch determination to create out of the available factors in Edmonton a successful business ready to stand the strain of constantly meeting the public on a basis that in most cases is tragic, and always sad.

The first move in opening up the funeral home was the organization of the shareholding body. When members of this group had been chosen the next move was to obtain permission to incorporate the company. Finally, the last step—the construction of the business premises and the organization of the full time service staff, a staff that is courteous and ever willing to supply just that little extra amount of kindness that is so urgently needed at the time of bereavement.

Wool was taken from a sheep's back and made into a suit in two hours and 10 minutes in England.

New Funeral Home Is Rich Addition To City



Situated on the corner of 97 street and 111 avenue, the newly-erected premises of Park Memorial Limited, above, Edmonton's modern new funeral home, was officially opened Saturday, with the management ready to provide for citizens in Northern Alberta, courteous, dignified funeral service. Features of Park Memorial Limited, include chapel capable of accommodating 200 persons, one of the largest and best-appointed slumber-rooms in the city, and a sympathetic understanding by members of the trained staff, which will be on hand at all times.

King George Sends Condolences To Madame Lapointe

QUEBEC, Nov. 29—(CP)—The governor-general, the Earl of Athlone, said yesterday in a message to the widow of Justice Minister Lapointe that the King has asked him "to convey to you and your family an expression of his most sincere condolences on the death of your distinguished husband."

Coastal Bombers Sink Small Tanker

LONDON, Nov. 29—(CP)—British coastal patrol bombers attacked shipping off the Norwegian and Netherlands coasts today, sinking a small tanker, the air ministry said last night. Two other vessels were bombed, but results were hidden by bad weather.

Kinsmen Shipping Milk To Britain

Continuing the drive to help supply milk for the children of embattled Britain, the Edmonton Kinsmen club announced Friday that 500,000 quarts of fluid whole milk had been shipped overseas to date.

Giving particulars of the campaign, Ralph LeDrew, publicity director, stated that collections from milk bottles distributed throughout the city totalled $238.74 and that other funds collected through the efforts of members of the organization amounted to $522.63. The grand total collected from all sources is $862.37.

All funds collected are sent to the Kinsmen's War Service Committee Toronto, which directs overseas shipments.

Australian Air Official To Make Tour Of Canada

CANBERRA, Nov. 29—(AAP)—To obtain information on overseas air training methods, Air Commodore G. Jones, director of training for the Royal Australian Air Force, will make an extensive tour of the British commonwealth air training plan schools in Canada and also investigate the general welfare of trainees, it was announced today.

Due to present conditions, the chapel pews will not be complete for several weeks. However, adequate seating facilities have been temporarily provided for those who wish to use the chapel.

TRADESMEN REQUIRED FOR 23RD QUOTA

Province - Wide Recruiting Drive Starts On Monday

Enlistment Parties Will Spread Out From Edmonton Over North, Central Area

A province-wide recruiting drive will be opened Monday in conjunction with similar drives being held in military districts across Canada, to enlist men for the 23rd quota of the Canadian active army.

Tradesmen and other soldiers will be recruited for all arms of the service, including infantry, artillery, armored corps, army services, ambulance units and other branches.

The campaign, which will cover mainly the towns and villages which are the centres for farming areas, is to meet and enlist a large number of young men who wish to join the army but who were delayed by the late harvest. Then opportunity, however, is extended to all men of military age having the desire of being ready for service.

OFFICERS IN CHARGE

Recruiting parties from this city, covering central and northern Alberta, are Lt.-Col. H. B. Jamieson, D.C., 2nd Bn., Edmonton Fusiliers (R)CA; Lt.-Col. R. W. Hale, M.C., O.C., 2nd Bn., Edmonton Regiment, (R)CA; Capt. E. W. Kelly, adjutant, 19th Alberta Dragoons, (R)CA; Lieut. E. H. Stutchbury, quartermaster, 2nd Bn., Edmonton Fusiliers; Lieut. G. E. Black, quartermaster, 2nd Bn., Edmonton Regiment.

Below is the schedule to be followed by the various parties:

Lieut.-Col. H. B. Jamieson: Port Saskatchewan, Dec. 1, all day; Bon Accord and Gibbons, Dec. 2, morning; Redward, afternoon; Egremont, Dec. 3, morning; Redway afternoon; Waskatenau evening; Wargrave, Dec. 4, morning; Smoky Lake afternoon; Bellis, Dec. 5, morning; Andrew afternoon; Willingdon, evening; Vegreville, Dec. 6, all day; Bruce, Dec. 7, morning; Holden afternoon; Ryley evening; Tofield and district, Dec. 8, all day.

Lieut.-Col. R. W. Hale, M.C.: Athabasca, Dec. 1, morning; Clyde, noon; Fawcett, Dec. 2, noon; Westlock, Dec. 3, morning; Ft. Assiniboine, Dec. 4, morning; Barrhead, Dec. 5, morning; Mayerthorpe, Dec. 6, morning; Whitecourt, Dec. 7, morning; Onoway, Dec. 8, morning; Stony Plain afternoon.

Capt. E. W. Kelly: Viking, Dec. 1, morning; Irma afternoon; Wainwright, Dec. 2, morning; Edgerton afternoon; Chauvin, Dec. 3, all day; Provost, Dec. 4, all day; Hughenden, Dec. 5, morning; Hardisty afternoon.

Lieut. E. H. Stutchbury: Ranfurly, Dec. 1, morning; Two Hills afternoon; Myrnam, Dec. 2, morning; Mannville afternoon; Vermilion, Dec. 3 and 4, all day; Clandonald, Dec. 5, morning; Marwayne afternoon; Kitscoty, Dec. 6, morning; Islay afternoon.

Lieut. G. E. Black: St. Paul, Dec. 1, all day; Elk Point, Dec. 2, morning; Heinsburg afternoon; Glendon, Dec. 3, afternoon; Bonnyville, Dec. 4, all day; Cold Lake, Dec. 5, all day; St. Paul, Dec. 6, afternoon.

Intermediate points will be visited in accordance with the above schedule.

Annual election of officers will take place at the regular meeting of the Edmonton Elks' Lodge at the Elks' Home Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock. All members are asked to be in attendance.

Thousands See Army Tradesmen Being Trained

There was none of the "patronizing" of prominent people when the army trade school here was thrown open for public inspection, Friday evening, but at least 2,000 ordinary citizens or "folks," evincing a real interest in the centre, took advantage of the army's invitation.

This huge throng, which moved through the school in a steady stream all evening, eyed keenly and with definite enthusiasm the work being done by soldiers of the active army, who are being taught the many trades and artifices required for the operation of a modern army.

MAKE RAPID PROGRESS

Soldiers, with the jackets off and their sleeves rolled up, were bending over benches, some working with saws, planes or lathes, others taking careful measurements with calipers, as the visitors watched.

The crowd of onlookers was a type that delighted both the instructors and the trade officer attached to No. 12A district depot. They were people, most of whom had sons or brothers in the army, interested to see what makes the wheels turn in today's mechanized war machine.

One of the notable exhibits was a collection of coffee percolators made by sheet metal work trainees.

Men at work in the school at present have been there just a month but their work showed they are making rapid progress toward fitting themselves in the skills of modern warfare. At the same time they are equipping themselves to take their place in industry and in workshops when they return to peacetime pursuits after the war.

The training centre is on Jasper Avenue at 114 street, and is administered by the directors of the Dominion - Provincial Youth Training Plan. Instructors are supplied by directors of the plan and liaison between the directive body and the army is maintained by Lieut. Stone.

Santa Claus Makes Debut At Store

Wide-eyed Edmonton youngsters thoroughly enjoyed themselves in the Toyland of the Hudson's Bay Company store in Edmonton on Saturday, which marked the first appearance of Santa Claus at the store. Santa had a chat with each one of the young girls and boys, who told him what they wanted for Christmas. He remembered many of their names, and promises to remember everybody's name from now on, since on Saturday he was just "brushing up" on his memory. Seen with Santa are several of the children who talked with him, and later saw the wonderful toys being displayed in the Toyland which is gaily decorated with many Disney characters.

Poland Waits For Revenge Says General

"We can proudly say that Poland is suffering today because she was brave enough to step in the way of Hitler's march to hopeful world democracy," General B. Duch, former commander of a Polish army division in the Battle of Poland, told a large gathering of Polish citizens in the Canadian Polish Society Hall, 94 street and 103A avenue, Friday night. He spoke in Polish.

Had Poland surrendered peacefully, General Duch said, he stated that Hitler would have turned on France sooner than he did and would have had an open door to Britain at a very early date, he explained. And it is a well known fact now that Britain was far from ready in 1939 to face the mad Hitler, he added.

"We are proud to have been the stop-gap in Hitler's march," the general said, "because we suffer more terribly now than the world is given an opportunity to know, the time will come when all this will be recorded.

"The people are ready to take revenge for what Hitler is doing at the first possible moment," the general stated. "When the war worm begins to turn in our favor, the Poles will be prepared to kill every German soldier left within their land," he added.

Evidence that the Poles are most bitter towards Hitlerism is the fact that Poland is the only country over-run by Germany that has refused to set up a puppet government. Her leaders are willing to die rather than yield to such a move.

In revenge, Hitler is destroying all that is dear to the Poles.

General Duch is accompanied by his aid Lt. Wladenir Czaykowski. They will visit several communities in the west where the settlement is predominately Polish.

Joseph Tworek presided at the meeting and Alex Kaszuba, president of the Edmonton Polish Society, also addressed the meeting.

Festive Lights Turn City Into Gay Fairyland

Edmonton's "fairyland of lights" were switched on Friday evening for the coming festive season, and will be lighted again saturday evening.

The lights will be on again next Friday and Saturday, City Commissioner R. J. Gibb announced. He said that a conference between the commissioners and businessmen is being held to determine the hours the lights will be on as the Christmas season approaches.

Getting Around with JOHN OLIVER

EVERY day in every way shortages of commodities are being felt with increasing force. A year or so ago conservation was taken in a more or less light-hearted manner, especially when it was the unessentials or luxuries that we were asked to do without. But more and more the need of materials for war industry is resulting in ordinary requirements failing to be met. So here is a little hint, in case it may be of value.

If your hot water tank, situate in the bathroom or basement as the case may be, is in even distant need of replacement start looking around for another immediately. Then you may get it when you need it. A friend of this observer required such a tank, that which was in the house having given out at long last. The plumber made a gallant effort to fix it, but couldn't. Then came the search for a new one. It seems that the building boom here this year has exhausted the available supply of both 25 and 40 gallon containers.

As early as last July, it appears, orders were placed with eastern manufacturers for more, but the firms in question, being engaged in turning out defence materials, are not making the household water tanks. In the particular case that came to my notice, the plumber combed the wholesale and retail areas and finally located a 25-gallon tank at a hardware store. So the story ends happily. But here is one instance of where war production is touching a much-used commodity. So, just in case you may need such an article, even some distance in the future, better start looking around now.

In the minds of many persons, slang is a failing—or strength, according to the way you look at it—of our good neighbors to the south of the international boundary. But, as a matter of fact, our British cousins are just as adroit and astute at forming new words and phrases and introducing colloquialisms into the language as the Americans. And of course, the latest expressions always are well worth hearing. Recent mails from across the Atlantic bring us up-to-

THE QUESTION

To what extent have you been handicapped due to possible shortage of household commodities?

THE ANSWERS

MRS. H. W. HUTTON, housewife: The only shortage I have experienced so far is with canned vegetables. That I think, is not such a serious situation in view of the fact that we are in the third year of war.

MRS. H. R. HUNT, housekeeper: I have had no difficulty getting anything I have needed at home. The prices have gone up but that is only to be expected.

MRS. S. E. CARTER, housewife: What a trifle our inconvenience is as compared with the suffering overseas. We women, so far from the battlefield, are contributing a very insignificant amount if we are faced only with a shortage of the more luxurious household requirements.

Pookhay Faces Court Tuesday

Charged with the murder of his wife at their Norma district farm home, Demetro Pookhay, 79-year-old farmer, is scheduled to appear at Fort Saskatchewan next Tuesday morning, R.C.M.P. headquarters here announced Saturday. Police stated that Pookhay will be remanded again for a period of eight days on Tuesday.

Pookhay was charged with murder after the body of his wife had been removed from a well on the farm of the aged couple. Medical evidence at an inquest gave the cause of death as multiple fracture of the skull by blows from a blunt instrument.

Pookhay is at present in Fort Saskatchewan jail. The preliminary hearing will be held at Vegreville.

Frank Lee Heads' Retail Druggists

Frank Lee was re-elected president of the Edmonton Retail Druggists' Association for another term at a meeting in the Corona hotel this week. Charles Cameron was named vice-president and D. Neely, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Neely succeeds Mr. R. O. Holston, who has filled the office for the last three years.

Addresses were delivered at the meeting by W. D. Goldberg, who spoke on National Health Insurance and Mr. Williams, of the Credit Granters' Bureau, who discussed the new government legislation on charge accounts and instalment buying. M. J. Warnes reported on government restrictions on the sale of barbiturates and other drugs.

R.C.M.P. Detective Given Promotion

Det. Cpl. Sidney G. Coggins, R.C.M.P., has been promoted to the rank of detective sergeant, according to advices received here from Ottawa.

Sgt. Coggins is a veteran of the force and has been engaged in many famous criminal investigations. He is presently engaged on investigations in connection with the insurance adjusters' cases, and was also an investigating officer in the "tobacco combine" charges against 42 tobacco manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers.

Dawson Coldest Spot In North

Dawson continues to be the coldest spot in the north with a low reading Saturday morning of 49 below zero. Snowfalls from one to four inches have been reported at most places in northern Alberta. In Edmonton there was .08 inches of precipitation during Friday.

For the past two days the temperature in Edmonton has varied only from three above during the early hours of Saturday morning to eight above at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

Nature Protects the Eyes
By Jackson Bros., Optometrist.

Nature has taken particular precautions to protect the human eye. It is set back in the socket in the head, with the nose, cheek bones, and forehead standing out to help keep it safe from any side blows. The eyelashes keep out dust, and the lids close in a flash to shut out bits of foreign matter that are blowing toward the eye. Furthermore, the tear glands wash the eye and lubricate it to keep it clean and comfortable. These tears are carried away through very small openings at the nasal side of each eye and are called the tear ducts. Sometimes these ducts become blocked and will not allow the tears to run away, therefore they flow over the cheeks. This is quite noticeable when a person cries, the flow of tears is so great that the ducts cannot carry them away fast enough.

When Nature has taken so many precautions to protect the human eye, why should human beings abuse them so much? The majority of human beings take them for granted, and give them secondary consideration.

If your eyes bother you in any way, have them attended to at once. Don't put it off, because the longer you do, the greater the strain will be, and this in turn will be very injurious to your health and happiness.

Consult our Optometrist about your eyes.

"Canada Expects"

By Nellie McClung

Copyright Reserved

HOPE dies hard on a bright autumn afternoon when you are only twelve years old.

Mary Bell Andrews watched the door of the schoolroom with her heart beating in her throat. The Remembrance Day program was beginning and it seemed that every either girls or boys ther was there but hers Mary Bell had been up since six o'clock in the morning helping her mother with the work, and all morning her mother had been in a gay humor, looking forward to the program. Surely she would come to hear Mary Bell deliver the Governor-General's address, which that day was going out to all the schools in the province. Hadn't Mary Bell won this proud honor in fair competition with all the seniors? And her boss couldn't believe that her mother would disappoint her.

Nellie McClung

BOYS RECITING

But the hands of the clock went on relentlessly, and now the boys of Grade Five were reciting in unison:

"O valiant hearts who to your conflict came Through dust of conflict and through battle flame."

Mary Bell was proud of her mother and wanted the other girls to see her, with her beautiful wavy black hair and the long black velvet over her blue eyes; and she wanted to feel her presence in the room. She loved her mother would meet the other women and like them, and neighbor with them—she was too much inclined to stay aloof and that was why she sometimes grew depressed. Now they had come to this new district Mary Bell had hoped that she would make a beginning today at this first school party.

The school was dressed up for Remembrance Day. There were crimson chrysanthemums on the desk, and on the walls in bracket vases, and there was a border of acorns and poppies in colored chalk around the verses on the board. And the teacher, tall and graceful, had on her green velvet dress with her amber beads. But Mary Bell's pride in these world things was fast ebbing as she remembered other celebrations when her mother had failed to come, and her young companions had remarked on it, with the cold brutality of the young.

PANICKY MOMENTS

For a few panicky moments Mary Bell felt she couldn't give the message unless her mother came. Every word of it seemed to throb. Left her, and her eyes were heavy with tears. What would Miss Grant think of it if she went to sleep now and had to actually leave the room? The Grade Six were singing—

"Teach me to bear the yoke in youth,
With steadfastness and careful truth."

The yoke in youth! That must be what she was bearing, but certainly she was not bearing it with steadfastness. She pressed her hand on her—it was smothering her. Then she heard Miss Grant announcing that the Governor-General's message will be given this year by Mary Bell Andrews, our new pupil from Manitoba."

The words came back to her as she stood facing the people, and her voice was clear and firm.

"This is a war where everyone has a part. Even the youngest of you who are now listening to my voice. Freedom is something that has to be fought for every day. We thought we had won it in 1918 but the evil thing we had defeated then has come back. . . . Horor, brutality, frightfulness abroad; selfishness, bad temper, laziness at home; we must fight all of them. All out war calls for an all out defence. Children in Britain put out fires; children in Russia and China actually bear arms; children of Canada, too, can help. You can give up some luxuries so that other children can have necessities. You can help your teachers and parents by your cheerfulness and obedience. You can help to create a spirit of goodwill and understanding in your own homes and on the playground. Canada expects your help in this hour of destiny."

FORGOT PARTY

"I'm sorry about your party, Mary Bell," he said. "I forgot that that was your big day. Your mother didn't go, I suppose and you were terribly disappointed. When I remembered that, I felt like a heel. I was in a restaurant having my supper and that's where I got mine. It all sounded familiar, and then I remembered, those were the words you were practising. I had been in a pretty black mood and had intended to use a little of that on you, but I didn't do it. Mary Bell, I bought something else and came home and I'm glad to find you up to tell you. I heard most the Governor-Gen's address. Could bring a spirit of goodwill and understanding into your home and I saw then that there was nothing very smart about some of the things that I had been doing. So instead of spending the money in the usual way, I got something for your mother and bought you this, just to show that your message program had some effect. Every mountain came in a round about way."

He held up his pocket, and took out a locket. It was a Savings Certificate with each space filled. "There, write your name on that, Mary Bell, and accept my apology for a good day spoiled."

"Oh, but you haven't spoiled it, Dad," cried Mary Bell happily. "I'll never forget this day. I know it is the beginning of something fine for all of us. Now let us all be citizens, real working citizens!"

TROUBLES VANISH

Mary Bell, for the moment, was lifted out of her troubles by the power in the words she has spoken. But when the exercises were over she ran home across the fields, feeling that she did not wish to speak to anyone. She found her mother in a dour mood. "I couldn't go, Mary Bell!" she said in her sing voice. "Your father and I had a dreadful quarrel and he's gone off to town in a temper, and you know what that means. I had it ready to go when he came in from the field because he broke his cultivator and told me he would have to go to town to get it fixed. All I said to him was, it was strange how many changes he had to get to go to town, and one word led to another. He flew into a white rage, and told me a tongue like mine would drive any man to drink. . . .

Build Economy Meals Around Low Cost Meats

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

To convert low-cost meats into tender and welcome dishes for the family is really a natural defense duty today. The following perfected recipes are from "America's Primer of Nutrition." They will cut your food costs without cutting your family's nutrition. And they taste good.

LIVER LOAF

(Serves 4 to 6)

One pound beef liver, 1 small onion, few sprigs parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 2-3 cups evaporated milk, 2 cups dry whole wheat bread.

Wipe liver. Cut into slices and put through food chopper with onion. Add finely cut parsley and remaining ingredients. Pour into a buttered loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 to 40 minutes.

LAMB NECK SLICES

(Serves 4 to 6)

Three pounds neck slices, 1 cup water, 3 large potatoes, 6 medium carrots, 6 large pieces of celery, 6 small onions, salt and pepper.

Brown neck slices in deep, heavy kettle. Add water and seasoning. Cover and allow to simmer for one hour. Add onions, potatoes and carrots. Continue to simmer. Add celery cut in three-inch pieces about fifteen minutes before serving.

CREOLE STYLE FLANK BEEF STEAK

(Serves 4 to 6)

One large flank steak, 1 pound bulk pork sausage, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 2 bay leaves, 1 onion, chopped, salt and pepper.

Have flank steak scored at market. Spread sausage meat into a cylinder as long as the flank steak. Roll steak around sausage and tie with a string. Place steak in a baking pan, pour tomatoes over it, add bay leaves and chopped onion. Cook in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., until steak is tender, about one and one-half hours. Serve tomato sauce with steak.

Monday's Menu

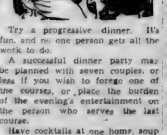
What To Do



Try a progressive dinner. It's fun, and no one person gets all the work to do.

The successful dinner party may be planned with seven couples, or less if you wish to forego one of the courses, or place the burden of the evening's entertainment on the person who serves the last course.

Have cocktails at one home, soup at the next, then a fish entree, followed by the meat course, then salad, and finally dessert and coffee. With all the running from house to house, you will find that a great deal of time has been consumed, but you may wish to carry on with an informal party at one of the homes.

It is a good idea to have two women go together on the meat course, and it would be well to choose a home where there is a maid to do the serving and last-minute preparations.

Each hostess should have her table set attractively and all arrangements made before the party begins.

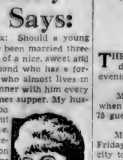
Dorothy Dix Says:



Dorothy Dix

Dear Miss Dix: Should a young woman who has been married three years be jealous of a nice, sweet and considerate husband who has a former girl friend who almost lives in his office, has dinner with him every day and sometimes supper. My husband is so good and kind about everything else. He always remembers me on special occasions and when with me seems to be immensely in love with me, but he gets mad and says ugly things to me when I object to this girl being with him so much. I believe my husband has a heart so big that he can kiss me good-by and in 30 minutes be kissing another woman and telling her that he is as much in love with her. What do you think? I do not want to be classified as a jealous and nagging wife

N. W. V.

Answer—You would be more than human and much more than feminine if you did not get green-eyed over having to share your husband with this Other Woman who seems to get most of his time and attention. No woman, unless she is a literal descendant of Patient Griselda, can see one cares very little for her husband, refrains the knowledge that instead of being all in all to him she is just one among many of his lady friends.

No matter how king a husband may be, no matter how generous, or how religious he may remember anniversaries, it does not compensate his wife for there being other women in the world. Women are monopolists by nature and they are never satisfied with just a little of a man's affections. They don't want just a bite of angel's food. They want the whole cake.

Certainly you have hit upon a most philosophic explanation of your husband's amorous affairs in attributing them to his being of such a sweet and loving nature that it takes in the entire feminine sex. Before this a man's heart has been described as being a hotel with many rooms for transients, in which many women come and go through his lifetime, instead of a small detached home intended for the occupancy of only one.

Perhaps this is true in many cases and explains why so many philandering husbands are always trying to make their wives understand that they do not love them the less because they have passing fancies for other femmes—a point of view which the wife never gets and which the husband considers most unreasonable of her.

What a wife is to do who is cursed with one of these great and glorious lovers no one knows. All that the wife can do is simply to charge him off to profit and loss and get rid of him or else make up her mind that his virtues outweigh his faults. For very often the philanderer is just as charming to his own wife as he is to other women.

Handsome Swag Curtains Amazingly Easy To Make

Swag Is Draped Through Rings

Luxurious swag draperies look so impressive, but the smart style shown in our sketch is really easy to make!

The triple festoon swag is just a length of pale rose crepe you drape through festoon rings (metal or glass) that are nailed to the window casing. The scallop of the length are cut on a slant.

The side draperies are a lined wine-color crepe with a pale rose geometric pattern matching the swag; deep blue with light blue or rich green with pale gold are equally handsome.

For trimming on the swag, fringe adds richness and is easy to apply. Or, use a pleated ruffle of lace and ruffly pleating—all sold by the yard.

In cutting draperies and glass curtains, allow extra width for the folds. Cut heavy materials 50 per cent wider than the space to be covered. Use fabrics up to 100 per cent wider.

Our 32-page booklet shows with simple directions and diagrams how to measure, make and trim glass curtains, drapery curtains, overdraperies. Also tells how to make fitted and swag valances, cascades, cornices. Suggests colors, fabrics, styles to give individuality to your room.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "New Ideas in Making Curtains and Draperies" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, 60 Front St., W., Toronto, Ont. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"Over The Teacups,"— Twenty Years Ago

From the Files of The Edmonton Bulletin

THE Kiwanis Opera Company enjoyed a delightful social time and dance in the Board of Trade rooms, McLeod building, on Saturday evening.

Mrs. O. J. Walker was a charming tea hostess Monday afternoon when she entertained for the first time since coming to the city, about 75 guests enjoying her hospitality.

Mrs. George O'Connor entertained at the tea hour Friday in honor of Mrs. H. E. Phair, who is leaving the city to reside in Winnipeg.

Mrs. John McDougall entertained at luncheon this week in honor of Mrs. R. V. Hardisty. The function was really an old timers' reunion, nearly all the guests having been residents of western Canada since 1880.

Dr. George H. Malcolmson has left for Chicago and New York, where he will attend X-ray meetings during the next three weeks.

Mrs. J. G. Savage returned home Thursday morning after spending the past week in Calgary, where she was a guest at several social functions arranged in her honor.

Miss Joy Everard Edmunds left on Sunday night for England, where she will go to school. She will first visit her grandmother, Inez Everard Mayne, and other relatives at Bexhill-On-Sea.

Mrs. M. R. Klinsear is the guest of her sister, Mrs. W. J. Ziegler.—Calgary Herald.

Mrs. Nellie McClung arrived home after spending four months in England and the continent. She was accompanied to the city by her husband, Mr. McClung, who met her at Saskatoon.

* * *

Mrs. William Graves, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. A. Hinchliffe, has returned to her home in Calgary.

W. I. In Northern Alberta

Mrs. F. E. Morton, Vegreville, A.W.I. convener of war work, is asking every branch of the Women's Institutes to contribute a pair of hundknit navy blue mitts, either plain or two-way type, as their December contribution to the Merchant Marines. These may be sent to the same address as the ditty bags, or left in the basement of Thompson and Dynes Ltd., Edmonton.

TWIN CREEK

Speaking on British Women through the ages, Mrs. Lindsay, convener of legislation, gave an interesting talk to the W.I. recently. A wool comforter and articles of clothing were packed for war relief. Arrangements were made to hold the annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Carlson, when Miss Minni will be the hostess. Children of preschool age will be guests at a Christmas party.

HIGH PRAIRIE

Members are busy with war work under the supervision of Mrs. Saucke. Nineteen tins of jam have been sent to the Red Cross in Edmonton and a ditty bag has been filled.

Mrs. E. Mills gave an interesting talk on home nursing at the W.I. meeting this week. The local institute have pledged themselves to send five dollars a month to the Kinsmen's Club, Edmonton, to be used for sending milk to Britain. During the tea hour, Mrs. Bennett was guest at a miscellaneous shower.

INNISFREE

A shower to fill six ditty bags was an event of the month. Proceeds from a coffee and doughnut sale was also sent to the A.W.I. War Fund. A Christmas party is planned to take place at the next meeting. During the afternoon, Mrs. H. R. Evans read a paper on diets.

PRIMROSE

Reporting on Red Cross work, Mrs. Densmore, convener, said two quilts as well as suits and sweaters for small children were being prepared and soon would be completed. Mrs. C. E. Thomas, secretary, spoke briefly on household matters.

FIVE POINT

Co-operating with other branches of the W.I. in the district, members staged a successful meeting recently. Regret was expressed that Mrs. Barns would no longer be a member of the W.I. having accepted a school in Edmonton. Boxes have been sent to local men serving overseas.

In place of the usual meeting, members entertained the children and their parents at a party. A ditty bag was shipped to Edmonton for the Merchant Marines.

TWO HILLS

The sale of hot dogs and coffee at a recent carnival furnished funds for the contents of boxes sent to soldiers from the district.

BURNT LAKE

Mrs. O. Johanson spoke on health matters with particular reference to children under the auspices of the meeting entertained by the secretary, Miss Irene Peterson. Soldiers from the district will receive parcels from the W.I. at Christmas. A sick member was remembered with a small gift. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Smith on Thursday, December 11 when reports of the year's work will be given and new officers elected.

WARSPITE

Celebrating their twentieth anniversary as an institute, members joined in a reminiscence of their W.I. activities during the years. The secretary, Mrs. Frank, read the minutes of the first meeting in 1922 and called the roll by which Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. Doherty were the only charter members left to respond. An entertaining program of songs and recitations added to the afternoon's enjoyment. Reports of war work showed a leather jacket made by Mrs. Edeburne, two ditty bags packed and twenty-two tins of jam and honey sent to the Red Cross.

Mrs. R. McPhie gave interesting facts about statesmen who have taken an active part in the work of the League of Nations when she spoke to W.I women at the home of Mrs. H. A. Dowler recently. Supplies have been purchased for two schools and quilts have been made for the Red Cross. Proceeds from a bridge party will be donated to the Emergency War Fund. The name of Mrs. J. O'Neil was added to the roll.

Mrs. M. Warner gave interesting handicraft hints when she entertained the W.I. at her home recently, showing how to make machine hemstitching on a luncheon cloth. A paper by Mrs. King on rug-making was read. The first of a series of card parties was held at the home of Mrs. Mortensen and the second at Mrs. F. Kings. War work reports showed ten cans of jam sent to Red Cross and a ditty bag packed for the Merchant Marine. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. B. Scheiler on Dec. 4th.

INDEPENDENCE

The husbands of W.I members met to make repairs to the hall, after which they were entertained at tea. Whist drives and dances have been popular means of raising funds.

Dealing with the work of the Sudetan settlers in the Peace River block of B.C., Mrs. J. S. Burke gave an interesting talk on a Canadianization program. Thanks were expressed to Mrs. D. A. Whitesell and Mrs. J. Ralston for the knitted articles made for a ditty bag. Serving lunches at auction sales has proved a successful means of adding to the funds.

DONALDA

Speaking on an educational program Mrs. Percy Jones paid special attention to overcrowded classrooms in the city. She gave other suggestions for school improvement also. A quizz contest followed after which members related childhood experiences. Sale of a quilt added funds for cemetery improvements. The annual meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. McIntyre.

HALF-WAY GROVE

Quilts are being made and a ditty bag was filled by W.I. members. The dance will be held, the proceeds to add to the general funds.

Idaho, during 1939, had a tuberculosis death rate of 19.7 per 100,000 of the population.

Your Baby And Mine

The problem of the "only" child who is suddenly transported from the loving atmosphere of a home to the impersonal, busy atmosphere of a school room, is not an easy one.

Children who have had lots of parental notice, feel frozen and unhappy when no one pays much attention to them. They are disturbed by the ready and often derisive laughter of the pupils and cashed huddle up to teachers as they do to mothers.

But since no child can continue to live at home, however pleasing it may be to him, the parent has to be adamant about insisting that neither pseudo-sickness, or ready crying shall melt the mother's heart and make her willing to let the child stay home. That would make the child increasingly less fit to live in a society that will be progressively less concerned with her. That's the way the world is and we must accept it.

A worried mother fears that she may have to keep her daughter home from school. Before the school term she looked forward to it with eagerness and anticipation. However, when the big day came and it took her to school and she realized I had left and gone home she cried (this is a common occurrence the first day)—in fact she told the teacher she wouldn't come back any more.

"When she came home to lunch she didn't tell me she had cried, but some other children who called for her told me. So she kept on going to school but one morning after a little late she cried and begged to stay home. Now I have a terrible time each day and in no way I can get her to go is to have a neighbor child call for her.

I wouldn't talk too much about how she feels or tease her to go to school. Just expect that she will and see that someone calls for her so that she feels comforted by the presence of a friend. She is certain to get over her timidity and fears shortly and, because she is bright, will love her school work.

Victoria High Students To Present Play

BROADWAY success of two or three years ago which since that time has materialized into stories by radio and motion picture of a character now famous to millions, "What A Life!" the original Henry Aldridge production, will be presented for the pleasure of Edmonton theatre-goers in Victoria High School on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings of next week.

To be produced under direction of Miss Eva O. Howard, the play will present a cast of twenty youthful actors of the school. Pupils have looked after production details, such as lighting, the making of flats and backdrops and stage management.

For weeks the school has presented a hive of activity as cast and stage crew have spent many hours of "after school" time preparing for the production.

Two of the pupils, Milwyn Davies and Florence Shaw, are assisting Miss Howard.

Included in the cast are the following: Bruce Aubrey as "Henry"; Margaret Muir, as "Barbara"; Shirley Thompson as "Miss Shea"; and Alta Mitchell, Ronald Hall, Bruce Allsopp, June Curry, John Scott, Arthur Hiller, Ina Ward, Frances Stanley, Wesley Kitchen and Norma Frame. Mr. W. C. Richards is business manager.

Mrs. W. Laidlaw To Receive Applications W. A. Membership

Women interested in joining the Women's Auxiliary of the University hospital are asked to get in touch with Mrs. William C. Laidlaw, 39 Derwent court.

The auxiliary met early this week to complete plans for the furnishing and fitting out of the fourth floor of the hospital, for the use of the tubercular patients, and a contribution to the Outdoor Fund was made, with $10 being given as an emergency fund. The meeting was held in the lower classroom of the hospital.

Business Women Entertain At "National Night" Celebration

TALL green tapers lighted the head table in the banquet room of the Corona hotel on Friday evening, when members of the Edmonton Business and Professional Women's Club entertained at their annual "National Night" celebration. Completing the table decorations was a floral centrepiece of yellow and russet spray mums in a silver bowl. Miss Isabel P. McMillan, president, presided at the affair.

Guest speaker of the evening was Mr. D. E. C. Campbell, director of publicity for the province of Alberta. Mr. Campbell spoke of his work in the capacity of publicity director and told of the great value in the promotion of tourist traffic. He pointed out that in Alberta there are the largest and most magnificent parks in the world, vieing even with Switzerland, that we have the largest perpetual ice fields outside of the Arctic region, shimmering lakes, deep stretches of forest and many other attractions. These natural advantages are the most poorly developed, until the last year, have been largely unpublicized.

Mr. Campbell completed his talk by showing motion pictures of colorful scenes of Lake Louise, Banff, Jasper and the Banff-Jasper highway.

Miss Lois Gainer, vice-president of the Professional and Business Women's Clubs for Alberta, spoke briefly on the significance of National Night, and read a message from the national president, Miss Margaret Wherry. She also brought greetings from the Calgary club.

SOLOIST

A charming soloist during the evening was Mrs. G. F. Higgin, instructor of singing at the Normal school, who was accompanied at the piano by Miss Grace Studholme.

Among those attending were Miss Isabel P. McMillan, Miss Margaret Thompson, Miss Jean McCallum, Miss Edith Valens, Miss Helene McNally, Miss Vera Gainer, Mrs. Laura Cooper, Miss Lois Gainer, Miss Sadie MacMillan.

Miss Jennie Wilson, Miss Lillian Thomson, Miss Alta Jackson, Miss Florence Haslam, Miss Eveline Francis, Miss Florrie Francis, Miss Josephine McNeil, Miss Isabel Chalmers, Mrs. O. Hickleston, Miss Nancy McAdams, Miss Harmony Baltour, Miss Minnie Peart, Miss Florence Carter, Miss E. Kelley.

Miss M. White, Miss E. Grimmett, Miss Robina C. MacMillan, Miss M. A. Thompson, Miss A. J. Wilkie, Miss J. C. Walton, Miss Vivian Symmons, Miss M. Devlin, Mrs. Cornelia Higgin, Miss Grace Studholme, Miss Mary Chalmers, Miss Mollie Reid.

Onion Salt And Egg Powder In Overseas' Gift

Many, many years ago, when the first Christmas was ever marked, wise men from all over the land gathered at the cradle of a Babe and offered gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh. Since that time it has been the custom to mark that occasion with the presentation of gifts throughout the years, both ancient and modern, rare and costly treasures have changed hands at that time.

This story is not a story of those past days. It is a story of today. It is the story of an English guest child at a home resident in Edmonton. As the Christmas season approached, in this year of war, the child searched her mind for the greatest and most appreciated gift she could send her family across the ocean.

For many weeks she wondered what gifts she could send that would delight them best. A few weeks ago she sent off her parcel, happy in mind, because she knew that although her gifts weren't rich and costly to her family overseas they were treasures that could never be equalled with all the gold in the world.

The first article she put in her bundle, was a phonograph record . . . a record she had made of her own voice, telling her family of the wonders of Canada, and wishing them a Merry Christmas . . . next, went in a package of onion salt. It sounds strange to us, but to her family in England, it was a rare treasure, for onions are practically unobtainable in Britain at present. Next, went in a package of egg powder, loaf sugar, butter, canned meat . . . and last but by no means least a package of every-day Kleenex.

A far cry from the costly yuletide gifts of yesteryear . . . but all luxurious treasures in their own right in this year of our Lord, 1941.—S. C. W.

Community Leagues

Organization meeting of the junior branch of the Crondale community league was held one evening this week at the home of Mrs. A. B. Mackenzie. The following officers will serve during the coming year: president, Mr. Fergus Mackenzie; vice - president, Mr. Arthur Bressey; secretary-treasurer, Miss June Walkinshaw; social convener, Miss Joyce Dunbar; membership, Miss Phyllis Kobyluk; and publicity, Margaret Wylie. Mr. H. Bressey is advisor to the branch.

PRINCIPALS IN PRETTY NOVEMBER WEDDING

Pictured here following their wedding in St. Luke's Anglican church on Wednesday evening are LAC. Thomas Edward Morgan, R.C.A.F., and his bride, the former Miss Florence Kathleen Ramsbottom, and their attendants. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Ramsbottom of Edmonton, and the bridegroom, now stationed in Calgary, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Morgan of Edmonton. From left to right are Miss Irene Spensmann, Mr. Lloyd Maclachlin, best man; the bridegroom and his bride; Miss Irene Smith and Miss Peggy Smith. In the front row are Miss Mary Ramsbottom and Miss Margaret Ramsbottom, sisters of the bride.

the social round in Edmonton . . .

Mrs. Harold L. Weir is loaning her home at 12428 Stony Plain road for a tea on Tuesday afternoon of this coming week from 3 to 6 o'clock, under auspices of the Junior Communicants' Guild of St. Stephen's Anglican Church. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. J. C. Matthews and Mrs. Harry Allen. Presiding at the tea urns will be the Countess Delafeld, Mrs. William J. Dick, Mrs. Frank Ford, Mrs. W. H. Clark and Mrs. J. E. B. DeWyndt. Servers will be Mrs. J. Clark, Mrs. A. A. Swaffield, Miss Constance Weir and Miss Louise Grue. Mrs. F. Horton will be in charge of a booth of home-baking.

Women's Units In Army, Air Force Are Introduced To Tasks

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—(CP)—Women already enlisted in the Canadian Women's Army Corps and the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force rapidly are becoming acquainted with their tasks and, it was said at headquarters today, their numbers will be greatly expanded as need for them grows.

"These women's formations unquestionably will eventually number well into the thousands," said one authority. As yet, there has been no official decision as to how many will be needed, because it depends in large measure to the demand for them from the army and the air force.

Already more than 16,000 women have applied for enlistment, and 5,000 have been accepted for later enlistment. Six hundred now are enlisted in the two uniformed women's formations.

Miss H. Fowler Is Honored At Saturday Tea

BEAUTIFULLY appointed table arrangements featuring a silver bowl of golden marguerites and tall golden tapers in silver sconces, were used in dining room of the Garneau home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Burrows on Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Burrows entertained over 100 friends in compliment to Miss Helen Fowler, whose forthcoming marriage to her son, 2nd Lieut. John W. Burrows, R.C.A.S.C., holds social interest in Edmonton.

To receive her guests, Mrs. Burrows was gowned in a smart floor-length sown of orchid crepe, which she smartly offset with a shoulder corsage of delicate pink roses. Miss Fowler chose a formal jacket frock in petal pink, with which she wore a single gardenia.

Presiding at the tea urns during the afternoon were Mrs. H. B. Fowler, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. F. Neuller, Mrs. B. Stephens and Mrs. A. E. Gilliswell.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. W. G. Stuart, Mrs. Reta Sheppard, Mrs. Howard Tye, Mrs. Howard Dobson, Miss Margaret Kelliher, Miss Isabel McKenzie, Miss Margaret Fulton and Miss Isabel Sinclair.

500 Blankets Are Donated For Use In Bombed Areas

Contributions of more than 500 blankets and more than $2,000 in cash for purchase of new blankets have already been received by the special blanket branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, it was learned in Edmonton, it was reported Friday by society officials.

It was pointed out, however, that many more blankets, whether new or second-hand and in any weight, size and color are still very badly needed for shipment to Britain, and further donations will be most welcome.

The blanket depot is at 440 Tegler building, telephone 26402. Anyone having blankets to be called for are asked to contact the depot and arrangements will be made to pick up the articles.

Canada Women May Give Up Lipsticks In Favor Cartridges

OTTAWA, Nov. 29—(CP)—Canadian women, Munitions Minister Howe said today, soon will be feeling the weight of restrictions being applied to non-essential use of metals.

It looks as though it is going to be a straight case of making lipstick containers or cartridge cases, compacts or shell casings, the minister said in a statement.

More stringent restrictions are to be applied in ensuring metals are not used in manufacture of non-essential production, he added.

"Although Canada's maximum wartime and civilian requirements consume a relatively small percentage of our total annual production, we already have found it necessary to curtail sharply the civilian consumption of nickel, aluminum, copper and zinc," the minister said.

BEATIN' THE BLITZ —By Rick Elmes

Youth Missing For Three Days Suffers Exposure

Missing since he went to bring cattle to his farm home near Barrhead Wednesday night, Werner Lorenz, 17, returned home Thursday night and is now in Westlock hospital under treatment for exposure.

An R.C.M.P. officer and several residents of the district started a search of the heavily-timbered district around the Lorenz farm when the horse, ridden by the youth, returned home without its rider.

Women Needed

Flt. Lt. Harry E. Jones, commanding officer at No. 3 R.C.A.F. recruiting centre in the Provincial building, reported Saturday a need for women, required for general duties in the air force. Applicants should be strong, and used to hardship. They should be between the ages of 21 and 40.

Men Warned To Enlist Early For Air Force

A warning note to men about to be called for compulsory military service and who wish to apply for training in R.C.A.F. was issued recently in a letter received from Ottawa by Flt. Lt. Harry E. Jones, officer commanding No. 3 R.C.A.F. recruiting centre in the Provincial building.

The letter outlined a new ruling which, in effect, will prohibit any man who has not completed application for an air force trade school or pre-enlistment school under the Dominion-provincial youth training scheme, from making application for either, after he has received notice to report for army training.

At the present time, completion of application for a pre-enlistment education school takes from a month to six weeks. The complete application for a trades school may take as long as five months, since there is at the present time a large waiting list.

Men who will shortly come under the age limit for compulsory military service and who wish to join the air force, are urged to make application immediately so that their documentation and medical examination will be completed before they are ordered to report to the war services board.

"It is absolutely impossible for us to accept men who have already received orders to take military training, and their chances to join the air force after having completed such training are very slim," Flt. Lt. Jones stated.

Away with Backache

Pains and aches, as well as tired feelings, are caused by poisons in the blood. So whether you have back-ache or rheumatic pains, headache or lumbago, you may suspect the kidneys of failing to filter the poisons from the blood.

By stimulating the action of the kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills help to remove the cause of backache, rheumatic pains and lumbago. The poisons that cause tired feelings and pains and aches are filtered from the blood and you feel fine.

Why not get started to-day with Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and clean out the pain-producing poisons. You will bless the day when you began this treatment.

IMPERIAL BANK OF CANADA

67th ANNUAL REPORT

Reviews Business and Economic Conditions

President and General Manager Address Meeting

The 67th Annual Meeting of Shareholders was held at the Head Office, Toronto, on November 26th, Mr. A. E. Phipps, President, addressed the Meeting.

The President's Address

Before proceeding with the business of the Bank it is my second sad duty to record the death of our late Chairman of the Board, Mr. Frank A. Rolph. He was a life-long customer of the Bank, was elected a Director in 1919, Vice-President in 1931 and Chairman of the Board from then until the date of his death on 24th October 1941. He was an outstanding citizen and industrialist, was endowed with keen business acumen and his wide knowledge and experience was of inestimable value in guiding the affairs of the Bank during his term of office. Mr. Rolph was also a strong personal friend of mine and I think I may also record the same for each of the Directors of the Bank. In his passing not only has the Bank sustained a grave loss but we who have been associated with him feel that we have lost a warm friend and counsellor.

To fill the vacancy on the Board created by Mr. Rolph's death a new Director has been elected in the person of Mr. Herbert H. Horsfall of Toronto. Mr. Horsfall is President and Managing Director of the Canada Wire and Cable Co. Ltd., a Director of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, of the Consumers Gas Co., of Toronto, and a number of other Companies. He, also, has been a life-long customer of the Bank. I am sure that his personality, wide experience, and general knowledge of business will make him a very valuable addition to the Board of Directors. He will offer himself for re-election at the conclusion of this meeting.

I trust you will find the position of the Bank as shown by the statements, which will be explained by the General Manager, entirely satisfactory. The increase in deposits of $75 per cent of the total requirements of 3,100,000 tons. The increase in pig iron production for the first nine months has been approximately 11% in advance.

CONSTRUCTION.

The construction industry has continued to expand during the current year, the total of contracts awarded up to November 1st having been 50% greater than 1940 and practically 90 per cent of new construction has been connected directly or indirectly with the war effort.

ELECTRIC POWER.

Canada's electric power requirements have been greatly increased by the industrial expansion of the last two years and while the production as a whole was 15 per cent. greater in the first eight months of 1941 than for the corresponding period of 1939 the demand still exceeds the supply.

RAILROADS.

Canada's two great railway systems are still by far the most important of the transport industries. Over the first nine months of 1941 total carloadings record a gain of more than 14 per cent. and the gross revenue of the C.N.R. (Canadian lines) for the first eight months of 1941 amounted to $165,258,000, compared with $134,030,000 for the same period in 1940, an increase of 22.8 per cent. Figures for the gross revenue of the C.P.R. for the same period in 1941 are $189,000, in 1941 against $106,529,000. in 1940, an increase of 30.7 per cent. For the nine months of this year the combined Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways net earnings reached a new high record, a figure of $78,300,000, and exceeded the previous record for that period established back in 1928 at $63,000,000. In comparison with 1940 there was an increase of over 60 per cent while the figures of 1939 were more than quadrupled. The needs of the Defence program have also brought about a substantial increase in water transportation. The 1941 shipments for the Sault Ste. Marie, Welland, and St. Lawrence systems combined are 18 per cent above the total recorded for the corresponding period of 1940. The annual autumn rush for Great Lakes shippers disclosed a demand far in excess of available space.

EXTERNAL TRADE.

During the current year the salient features of Canada's external trade are the heavy and increasing surplus of imports from the United States and the export surplus to Great Britain. For the first eight months of 1941 imports from the United States totalled $630,000,000, an increase of 40 per cent over the corresponding period of 1940 and of 126 per cent over the corresponding period of 1939. Exports to the United States during the same period were $371,000,000, and advance of 31 per cent over 1940 and 81 per cent higher than in 1939. The increase has been largely principally caused by heavy demands for newsprint and other wood products, nickel, aluminium, lead, and zinc. To gain an accurate picture of our British trade two vitally important non-commodity items must be considered, gold and tourist traffic. Canada's exports of gold to the United Kingdom constitute a very important credit item. The amount of this export for the current year has been estimated at $200,000,000, though if the present strike in the Kirkland Lake area continues for any length of time this figure may be somewhat reduced. Similarly, while the value and volume of tourist traffic has again nearly reached the level of 1939 and will bring approximately $150,000,000, in to the country.

Canada's exports to Britain were valued at $452 million during the first eight months of 1941. This represented a gain of 34 per cent over the corresponding period of 1940, and roughly 110 per cent over 1939. Imports from Britain totalled $144 million, 19 per cent higher than was the case last year, and 87 per cent above the amount for 1939. It will be noted that despite the heavy percentage gain in exports to the United Kingdom the actual amount has remained comparatively moderate.

GOVERNMENT FINANCE.

In the course of the second year of hostilities Canadian finances were really placed on a war footing. For the first time war appropriations were made commensurate with the gravity of the situation. Estimates for the current fiscal year, including five months of the second war year, put total government outlay at $2,820 million. This tremendous sum will be divided into three principal sections. About $1,450 million will go for the direct promotion of the war effort; financial aid to Great Britain will involve an indirect war expenditure of about $900 million and ordinary expenditure for the current fiscal year will be about $470 million. It is estimated that the drastically increased war taxation will be sufficient to provide for the whole $1,450 million required for the direct promotion of the war effort. The $900 million required for assistance to Britain and the 470 million for ordinary expenditure apparently must be met by loans. War Savings Certificates constitute an important means of government borrowing and it is hoped $200 million will be obtained in 1941 through this source. The most productive source is undoubtedly War Bonds. All three of Canada's war loan campaigns have resulted in heavy oversubscription, the total raised since the outbreak of war is about $1,470,000,000.

BANKING.

The effect of the expansion in Canadian business on the business of the Chartered Banks since the beginning of the war is clearly evidenced by the following comparisons. The total deposits of all kinds in the Chartered Banks have grown from $3,093 million at the outbreak of the war to $3,542 millions on 31st August 1941, an increase of $449 millions. In this connection it should be pointed out that $311 millions of this increase was due to temporary balances of the Dominion Government resulting from the Victory Loan in June.

Current loans to the public amounted on August 31st 1939 to $826 millions. This figure had grown by August 31st 1941 to $1,158 millions, an increase of $327 millions. These figures indicate the extent to which the Banks have met the financial needs of Canada's vast expansion in manufacturing and other business.

The security holdings of the Chartered Banks on 31st August 1941 were $1,698 millions compared with $1,308 millions on 31st August 1939. The total assets of the Chartered Banks on August 31st 1941 amounted to $4,031 millions compared with $3,568 millions in August 1939, and $2,962 millions in August 1935. From these figures it would appear that the Government of Canada should not have undue difficulty in securing whatever loans may be necessary to carry on the war.

EMPLOYMENT, WAGES, PRICES.

As already stated, the two years of war have entirely changed the employment situation. Up to 1941 we had been taken into the active army forces, thus there are 1,226,000 earners who were not earning two years ago and it is estimated that approximately 300,000 additional workers and soldiers will be required during the coming year to keep the military and industrial machine of Canada's war effort expanding at their present rate. Should there be a rapid expansion in the fighting forces of the Canadian Army even more will be required.

The rise in cost of living and the Government's action to impose price ceilings, to fix wages and provide cost of living bonuses have already been set forth in recent announcements in the press. They are intended to automatic movies to avert inflation. It is a source of satisfaction to know that the Government is taking these steps to check the tendency towards inflation.

The war is regarded by everyone in the newspapers and over the air and I am therefore not going to attempt to deal with any phases of the present position but I will say that the war has assumed an immensity which challenges the imagination, and the cooperation of the entire population of Canada is needed to contribute on the war effort in a measure which will result in bringing about the victory that we all so ardently desire and so fervently believe will come.

MR. H. T. JAFFRAY
General Manager

A year ago I told you that during the duration of the War it would be the policy of your Directors and the Management to keep the resources of the Bank in a liquid condition in order to be ready to meet any calls that might be made upon us in connection with Canada's Industrial War Effort or Dominion Government financing. This policy has been carried out.

After deducting taxes, the usual contributions to the Pension and Guarantee funds and after making transfers to Contingent Account to provide for all bad and doubtful debts or assets the net profit for the year is $872,190.51. This permitted of payment of the regular dividend of $100,000., to again write off $150,000. for depreciation of Bank Premises, to carry forward in Profit and Loss Account $22,190.51, making the balance of that account $696,842.22 compared with $676,651.71 a year ago. We trust you will consider the showing satisfactory.

LIABILITIES.

Turning to the balance sheet and taking the liabilities in order you will see that the note circulation show a reduction of $781,000. as compared with a year ago. Under Dominion legislation Note Circulation is to be reduced 10% of our paid-up-capital each year for the next four years. Consequently after the first of January next the total of Bank Notes in circulation will be $3,850,000., or 55% of our paid up capital. I might remind you that what used to be termed double liability of shareholders is reduced to a corresponding extent.

DEPOSITS.

Deposits by the Dominion Government, by Provincial Governments and by the public now total $379,929,434. compared with $265,465,751. a year ago, an increase of $114,463,683. This increase is distributed —$3,400,000. in balances due to the Dominion Government; $1,400,000. in balances due to Provincial Governments; $6,400,000. in deposits by the public not bearing interest and $2,600,000. in deposits by the public bearing interest. In connection with these figures I agree that the increase is satisfactory, particularly as to the item of what we commonly call Savings Deposits as it was during the year that the heavy withdrawals for investment in the Victory Loan last summer were made. Deposits by and balances due to other Chartered Banks in Canada, and to Banks and Banking Correspondents abroad total $3,301,000. compared with $2,953,000. last year—what might be termed a day to day fluctuation. These figures make total liabilities to the public $187,430,362. as compared with $173,387,345. a year ago, an increase of $14,043,504. or over 8%, indicating a substantial growth in business during the year. Acceptances and Letters of Credit total $9,582,097., show an increase of $1,030,000. a further indication of increased business activity.

ASSETS.

Turning to the Assets—our holdings of cash which include notes of and deposits with the Bank of Canada, balances due from other Banks in Canada and abroad and cheques on other Banks total $33,543,160. compared with $37,433,600. a year ago. The percentage of these to our total liabilities to the public is 17.89% almost the same as a year ago when the percentage was 18.7%. Total Dominion and Provincial Government Securities maturing within two years amount to $28,819,596. compared with $37,862,270. a year ago, and other Dominion and Provincial Government direct and guaranteed securities not exceeding market value total $41,339,136. compared with $28,941,310. showing financial aid to Great Britain will involve no indirect war expenditure of about $900 million and ordinary expenditure for the current fiscal year will be about $470 million. It is estimated that the drastically increased war taxation will be sufficient to provide for the whole $1,450 million required for the direct promotion of the war effort. Men who will shortly come under the age limit for compulsory military service and who wish to join the air force, are urged to make application immediately so that their documentation and medical examination will be completed before they are ordered to report to the war services board.

"It is absolutely impossible for us to accept men who have already received orders to take military training, and their chances to join the air force after having completed such training are very slim," Flt. Lt. Jones stated.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By REV. J. MacBEATH MILLER, M.A., B.D.
First Presbyterian Church, Edmonton

Past and Future

EVENTS make us take stock. Occasions and celebrations compel us to survey the scene. The Church has been one of life's most dynamic institutions. She has held the world for many centuries to the universal Christian judgment. None of us can ever know how much the life of the Church and the values which she declares have meant in the moulding of our lives. However, we must not be deceived. Of all life's institutions, during the last century, the Church has suffered most seriously. There have been many reasons for this. Many propagandas have been competing for the attention of the people. Only by demonstrating that she has the one, adequate answer for people's lives can the Church again take the foremost place.

Within the Church herself there have been reasons why she has lost influence. We, who are the Christians, have not walked simply enough the way of faith and love. The dominant motive of life has been the economic motive rather than the Christian motive. We, Christians, claim to be following a man who had not where to lay His head and who died on a Cross. Yet, we have insisted that if we follow Him it must be on the terms of security of livelihood. Nor have we demonstrated the power of love within the Church, much less manifested it to those outside. There are enough Christians in the world that all men ought to have had ocular evidence and experience as a means to understand the forgiveness of God. But the Christians have not been practising "love" as the first article of their creed. They love one another for love is of God; for every one that loveth is born of God and knoweth God. He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is love". Had we really loved people, we would not have left the impression that we wanted only their money. We would have dealt realistically and personally with sin. For as sin comes to the Church it is usually in the form of someone's problem and if we had been really concerned about people, we would have paused in our preaching and activities, and helped them to get the answer. Just as Christ sat down with Zaccheus and Nicodemus and the Woman at the Well.

The Church can return to her rightful place for there is no other seriously competing with her and no other has the answer. However, we must convince ourselves of who Christ is and of His Divine mission. We must convince ourselves afresh of what the Church is of her worth and calling and our own responsibility as Christian citizens.

We must face the divisions which are in the Church and even though the Society's Auxiliaries and Brotherhoods acknowledge one loyalty only and speaks with one voice. How the Christian Church could help the world! There is one truth which must be presented and that is the absolute Lordship of Jesus Christ. A writer puts it this way, "The Church does not exist to make a claim for absolute loyalty, but to listen to such a claim." All of us, preacher, priest and people must acknowledge that we look not within ourselves but to Him who is rightfully Lord. Revelation is given, why will men deny it? The truth is supreme and has been manifested, why will we look elsewhere? There are not many ways by which a man may live well. There is only one way. "I am I go against the Almighty," said an elderly woman on her deathbed this week.

Let me say this word to the people in the Church. The burden of every age, past, present and future is upon us. Disobedience to the will of God is supreme manner of our destruction. Let us heed personally and as the Church. Let us do more than just all as the expression of our devotion in the Church, let us heed and obey. I would say a word also to those who have gone out of the Church. Is it not true that you did not improve your condition or happiness by departing from the Church? The rule of self and the love of pleasure and possession have not made you happy. There is an unsatisfied hunger within your hearts. I confess the failure of the Church but two failures do not make success. Together as an honest church, a kind church and a Church true to the Highest we can give leadership to a world that has lost its way.

Farewell Address Latter Day Saints' Church On Sunday

Elder Stanford S. Larsen will deliver his farewell address at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 10160 103 street, Sunday evening. Toronto Speaker Broadcasts Sunday For Bible Society

The Bible Society will broadcast Saturday, Dec. 6, at 4:15 p.m., Edmonton time. It is appropriate that this broadcast should take place on the eve of the Second Sunday in Advent, which is generally observed in the Anglican Communion as Bible Sunday, and in the old land and the United States has come to be regarded as Universal Bible Sunday.

Sir Robert Falconer, K.C.M.G., president emeritus of the University of Toronto, has kindly consented to broadcast on this occasion. Sir Robert was present at the meeting in 1904 which led to the Federation of the Society's Auxiliaries in Canada and Newfoundland. He has on many occasions spoken on behalf of the Society's work.

Rev. William Simson will conduct divine worship service at the Rupert street church at 11 a.m.

Necromancy Topic Of Lesson-Sermon

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at all Christian Science churches on Sunday. The Golden Text is Jeremiah 29:8-9. One of the Scriptural citations is, "And Jesus said unto the centurion, Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee." And his servant was healed in the selfsame hour" (Matthew 8:13).

One of the correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, is "Jesus cast out evil and healed the sick, not only without drugs, but without opposition, which is the reverse of ethical and pathological Truth-power."

The Christian Aristocracy Is Baptist Sermon

On Sunday morning at First Baptist church, Rev. Daniel Young, the minister, will speak on "The Christian Aristocracy".

At the evening service the minister will speak on "That's The Life For Me". The soloist will be Ruth Morgan.

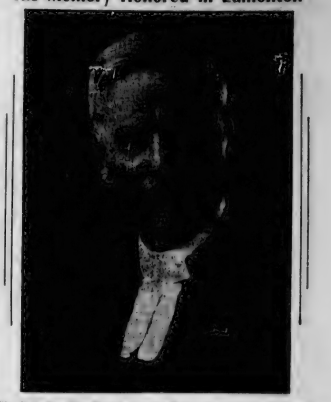
His Memory Honored In Edmonton



The late Rev. Dr. David George McQueen, pioneer minister of First Presbyterian church and whose life comprises the history of the church for 43 years. His memory has been honored during the celebration of the church's diamond jubilee celebrations this month. The celebrations close Sunday.

Presbyterian Moderator To Take Pulpit As Jubilee Service Ends

The climax in the celebration of the diamond jubilee of the First Presbyterian church will be reached on Sunday when the Rev. J. B. Skene, of Vancouver, moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, will occupy the pulpit at both morning and evening services.

Edmonton was a small outpost settlement when the Rev. Andrew B. Baird was designated as the First Presbyterian missionary to establish a church here. He arrived in October, 1881 and the congregation was organized on Nov. 5, 1881.

TRIBUTE TO LATE PASTOR.

Mr. Baird was succeeded by the late Rev. Dr. D. G. McQueen whose life story comprises the history of the church for 43 years. As George W. Ferguson, managing editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, so aptly wrote at the time of the passing of the late Dr. McQueen, "some part of that fine character which was senior preach-his is built in the stone and mortar of Edmonton in such a way that his influence will last as long as grass grows and water runs."

Dr. McQueen's pastorate was followed by a succession of short pastorates by eminent and outstanding men. Rev. Thomas Tait, Dr. A. B. Osborn, Rev. Herbert McNeil and Rev. A. Ross Cameron. The church is now fortunate in having as its pastor the Rev. MacBeath Miller.

Mr. Skene will take part in the celebration Sunday and in the congregational dinner to be held in the banquet hall of the church on Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Skene is no stranger in the congregation having served as minister of the church on at least two occasions during the summer vacation of the then minister.

It is expected there will be a large and representative turn out of Presbyterians to hear their moderator preach.

Rev. Dr. Brewing Will Speak At United Church Rally Sunday

Rev. Dr. Willard Brewing, a prominent Toronto minister, who is visiting in the city, will preach at the rally of the United churches in McDougall church on Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

During the morning service, the minister, Rev. A. K. McMinn will speak on "The Greatest Thing in the World." A solo will be given by W. J. Hendra, and the choir will sing Gounod's "Come Unto Him."

Organization of the rally is in charge of the following:

General chairman, Rev. R. McElroy Thompson; secretary, Rev. A. B. Argue; treasurer, Rev. T. R. Davies; committee of direction, the three previously mentioned, with Rev. A. K. McMinn and Rev. Elgin G. Turnbull; reception committee, Dr. E. T. Scragg, Rev. D. C. Ramsey, Rev. W. T. Young; printing and publicity, Rev. Elgin G. Turnbull and Mr. George Cooper; Mr. Harold Fahackerley; finance, Rev. A. F. Marsh, Rev. T. R. Davies, Dr. E. T. Scragg; music, Rev. D. C. Ramsey, Rev. A. K. McMinn, W. J. Hendra, G. A. Kevan; usherin-, Rev. A. K. McMinn, Mr. Roy Leppard, Rev. J. A. Petrie, Rev. Harry E. Lonsdale; laymen's luncheon, Rev. T. R. Davies, Rev. J. Gordon Brown, Rev. E. G. Turnbull, Rev. A. F. Marsh, Rev. J. T. Stephens, Rev. A. R. Sopraz.

Minute Make-Ups

The new upon hair style leaves the ears exposed. It is very attractive to tip the ear lobes with rouge, ever so faintly. If the forehead is high and too prominent, soften the outline by using beige shade of powder over the forehead only. And, by the way, when you wear a large hat always pencil the eyebrows outward, in a curved, sweeping line.

Major And Minor Notes

By John Oliver

MANY engrossingly interesting stories have been told of the unquenchable spirit of the British people. In this war they have withstood concentrated air attacks and have put up with the blackouts and other unpleasant necessities without a whimper. But in the midst of all the suffering and misery brought to humanity as a whole by the ruthless aggression of the Nazis it is comforting to know that they have proved conclusively, their love of music and shown beyond refutation that they consider it an essential in these times. One striking illustration of this is the success that was attended concerts by The London Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Richard Tauber.

Tauber, up until now, has been known to most music lovers as the world's leading lyric tenor, the idol of Vienna theatres and other European centres, who packs the Albert Hall—seating 12,000—and who draws from an encore of popular pictures that the "Dubonnet" are called upon to handle them. He has been known as the possessor of many talents that may either singly or in concert, the favorite singer of Europe.

But it is not generally known that before he discovered the worth of his voice and ere he more than any contemporaneous mastered the gentle art of producing some heart strains, he devoted his attention to conducting. Born May 16, 1892, he was trained for a musical career and after serving the requisite apprenticeship of a European music student, successfully embarked on a conductorial career. He is an accomplished composer and has had one operetta produced at the famous Theatre an der Wien, Vienna, and has composed music for the movies, notably Heart's Desire which played here.

This column has a letter written by an Edmonton boy, serving overseas as a private soldier in a medical unit. He attend a Philharmonic concert at London at Aug. 3 last, with Tauber conducting. The program included Weber's overture to Oberon, Beethoven's Sixth Symphony, the Prelude and Liebestod from Tristan and Isolde, by Wagner, Grieg's Two Elegiac Melodies for strings and Strauss' tones, he devoted his attention to conducting Born May 16, 1892, he was trained for a musical career and after serving the requisite apprenticeship of a European music student, successfully embarked on a conductorial career. • • •

The medium of the young letter-writer has caused that big name be withheld. But some extracts from it may be of interest in view of Tauber's scheduled appearance here—as a vocalist, not as a conductor—in the Women's Musical Club Celebrity Series of Concerts last Wednesday, an appearance that had to be cancelled, but for which the Musical Club was fortunate in obtaining Jan Kiepura as a substitute. The young man is not a trained musician, but is a music lover. He writes:

"You will be pleased to hear that yesterday I had the thrill of my life when I attended a concert by the London Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Bernard Tauber . . . I am enclosing the program for you to gaze at enviously. My seat costing a mere three shillings, was third row from the front, at the extreme left, giving me always a side view and often a full view of Tauber's face and it was certainly something to watch. I was directly opposite the violin section. My first thrill was with The King played as I have never before heard it played. Cold shivers ran up and down my back, in fact I was covered with goose pimples throughout most of the concert.

"I took to Tauber the moment I laid eyes on him and was struck with his simple sincerity. He conducted very quietly . . . thought and always appeared to be enjoying his work. Throughout the entire program he never once had a sheet of music before him. His annoyance and obvious self-restraint with late comers (of whom there was a surprising number) was slightly comical." Later in referring to the Beethoven symphony, the young Edmontonian writes: "It was during this selection that I became fascinated with watching Tauber, so much so that I found music watching rather than listening.

"He seemed literally to draw the music out where and when he wanted and I noticed often that he smiled either in pleasure or thanks his head two occasions. Only twice or perhaps three times during the entire concert did I notice him frown, but always his face portrayed the mood of the music. It was marvelous to watch him with his left hand coax out a crescendo from the violins, or 'pour' he wanted it by a clutching motion of his finger tips and then as it reached its climax, he smoothed it out by simply moving his hand to and fro, palm downward as though it were on top of oil. All the time this was going on, his right hand with the baton was conducting independently the remainder of the orchestra.

"Several times he would face one particular section and with his left conduct them while with his right directly behind him he would conduct without so much as a glance at another section. It was a sight I shall never forget. To see him conduct the Strauss number was a joy to behold. He was entirely in another world of his own for the time and he produced that lilt and rhythm that only the continental man can produce. This was for me nothing short by far the most pleasing thing on the program. I can't tell you why, but it brought tears to my eyes—tears which I couldn't stop."

Dealing with the reaction of the audience, he says that after the Grieg numbers "The applause was deafening and went on and on until Tauber called a halt." Then he writes, "At the conclusion of the program, the people would not let Tauber go. On his fourth recall he rewarded us with a few words announcing his appreciation for the wonderful reception accorded himself and 'this wonderful orchestra.' He went on to say that he would have them play his own recent composition, The Victory March. It was indeed stirring music, but I wish you could have seen him conduct it. He seemed to swell up into a military bearing and go mad. It certainly portrayed victory and assurance. The house came down with such applause as I never remember hearing and as he had done throughout the concert, the applause he shirred very gracefully with the entire orchestra, by a simple sweep of first right then left hand so include them all."

John Barbirolli, conductor of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, has had a letter from his former cello teacher in London, stating that it is impossible to find halls large enough to house the vast number of people who want to hear such programs as Handel's Messiah, Elgar's Dream of Gerontius and operas, particularly those of Mozart. Another of his English correspondents tells of the discovery of 27 time bombs in and around the Royal Academy of Music and their removal by students and faculty, who then resumed the day's routine.

Recently the conductor of his old orchestra, the Scottish, wrote Mr. Barbirolli asking him to recommend some new scores. Randall Thompson's Second Symphony was suggested and the Scottish orchestra played it to the delight of the audience.

L. H. Nichols, University organist has cancelled his regular Sunday evening organ recital scheduled for Convocation hall at 9:10 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 30 and has arranged for his next one to take place at the same time and place on Sunday, Dec. 14.

With a cast composed of young people from six to 16 years old, the Robertson United Church Junior Choir will present the operetta The Maid and the Golden Slipper at the church on Thursday and Friday of next week, Dec. 4 and 5. Proceeds are in aid of the War Services Unit. This operetta tells the well known story of Cinderella.

The cast is as follows: Cinderella, Shirley MacDonald; Prince, Derek Gunderson; Godmother, Ina Wolfe; Stepmother, Joyce Wilson; Stepsisters, Joanne Meldrum, Allison Steeves; Cupid, Sheila Grubb. In addition, there is a chorus of elves, fairies, lords and ladies. G. A. Keevan, organist and choirmaster of Robertson United church is in charge of the music. Einar Gunderson is dramatic director; Mrs. J. Russell Love is in charge of dancing; Leslie Pilcher in charge of scenery and A. Craig in charge of lighting. Special costumes have been obtained in Calgary. Indications are that this will be the most successful of the several operettas produced by the Robertson young people.

For the second time in its successful history, the University Philharmonic Society will present Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta The Pirates of Penzance at the annual production, when, at Convocation hall on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 30 and 31, next, the students display the results of their intensive rehearsing. Since beginning of the fall term, musical-minded students have been turning out every Tuesday evening for practices. Lately, additional periods have been added on Saturdays. The orchestra has been rehearsing at Convocation hall for Wednesday evenings. Gordon Bromley, Corwin Price, William Hollitan, Ernest Shortliffe, Jack Yates, R. Butchard, A. Thuregi, S. Fleming, F. J. Hatch, A. E. Loree, Robert Wilson, Eric McCaig, Ross Upton, Emil Anderson, D. Appete.

Alberta Sends 76 Entries To World Exhibit

Alberta exhibitors have shipped 85 grain and seed exhibits and 11 head of livestock to the 33rd International Hay and Grain show at Chicago, it was announced Friday by Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture. Judging opened Friday.

Due to the inclement harvesting weather experienced this fall, there is a drop of 17 entries in the grain and seed exhibits, compared with last year. In the last show Alberta exhibitors won the world championship in wheat and oats, a reserve championship in barley and some 60 other awards in grain and seed.

Among grain exhibitors who have been prominent in former years are: William Skladan of Andrew and Paul Francis Pawlowski of Vilna, former world's oat kings; Lesliwka Bros. of Willingdon, last year's winners of reserve championship in barley; William Millar of Edmonton; Sharp Bros. of Munson and H. Schellenberger, of Spruce Grove.

The larger exhibitors this year are Pawlowski Bros., Vilna; Jack Brindley, Lethbridge; Benjamin Berry, Coronado; William Babuik, Willingdon.

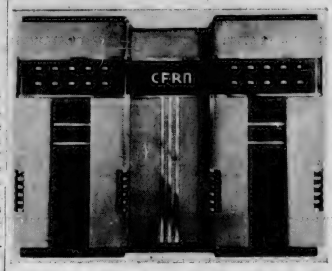
Completely Modernized Station CFRN Fetes Birthday

Talented Staff Brings Variety Of Technical Knowledge To New Plant

Seven years is a short period in the life of the average industry, but in radio — the fastest growing public-service medium—seven years is akin to a life-time. It was just seven years ago that radio station CFRN was first heard by listeners in central and northern Alberta. At that time, the station operated from studios in the Birks Building, over a transmitting unit housed in two small buildings at Jasper Place. CFRN broadcast over 1260 kilocycles, with 100 watts of power. The original transmitter houses have this year been replaced by a log-cabin replica, housing its new equipment.



CFRN's new transmitter, the most modern in Alberta.

Adopting the name—"The Sunwapta Broadcasting Company, Limited"—H. F. Nielsen became president of the firm and G. R. A. (Dick) Rice took over the helm, bringing with him the wealth of technical knowledge and broadcasting experience gained with the British Marconi company and the British Admiralty during the Great War, and locally since 1932 when he built and operated Edmonton's first station—CJCA.

S. LANCASTER, Program Director.

With Messrs. Nielsen and Rice was another pioneer broadcaster, Frank Makepeace, who became engineer; Miss Doris Neale, then with the world famous Edmonton Commercial Grads, now Mrs. Ed. Chapman of Toronto; Gordon Shillabeer, now with CJCA; Dave Hill now with CKMO; Bert Churchill, with the Canadian army in England, and Gil Seabrook with the Canadian army at the Camrose training centre, Arnold "Red" Hopps, who is still with the station, was sales representative. From this small beginning, the payroll of the Sunwapta Broadcasting Co., Ltd., now lists some 29 names.

F. M. MAKEPEACE, Station Engineer.

EARLY POLICY MAINTAINED

In the early part of 1938, CFRN took over space in the Canadian Pacific Railways building on Jasper avenue, where studios and offices were built. During those early days CFRN pioneered many "Famous Firsts" in radio, and soon became recognized as an integral part of the lives of the residents of Edmonton and Northern Alberta. With Gordon Williamson, now broadcasting over KROW, Oakland, California, in charge of the Sports department, the "Little Giant" soon became the leading sports station in northern Alberta. Today, continuing this policy of supporting in every way possible such an important phase of community life, George Thompson carries on the good work at the sports microphone. The station still leads in the sports field.

Deciding against using any slogan for the station itself, CFRN adopted the policy of sloganizing instead, the city wherein it had its being — with the result that "Edmonton—the "Gateway to the North"—is probably repeated as often as any other catch-line slogan.

D. ATKINSON, Secretary-Treasurer.

VINCE DUGGAN, Studio Manager.

In the early days, CFRN decided that assistance could be afforded through its facilities to out-of-town communities, and as a result such programs as "The Camrose Mailbag," "Athabasca Calling," and "The Vegreville Salute" made their appearance in the station schedule.

In 1936, CFRN erected the first vertical antenna in the province. This 200-foot radiator gave better service to the listeners within the Edmonton trading area, and brought the voices of CFRN into many new homes. The same year, CFRN was granted the use of the 880 kilocycle channel, but the station continued to broadcast on this frequency until the beginning of 1941, when the Dominion government licensed the station for 1000 watts of power on its original frequency—1260 kilocycles.

By 1937 the station personnel had increased to twelve, and throughout radio circles in Canada, CFRN —the "Little Giant"—was established and accepted as the outstanding low-powered station, for enterprise, originality, and progressiveness.

CFRN PIONEERS RADIO NEWS

In 1939 CFRN took another radio lead and opened its own press service, bringing to Edmonton and northern Alberta for the first time the world-wide facilities of British United Press. Four newscasts were written, edited and prepared for the microphone under the able editorship of Stanley Ross. Today, CFRN has numerous "scoops" to its credit and, through its active coverage of world-wide, Canadian, provincial and local news, has established itself as the station with the finest news service in the northwest.

CFRN's News Bureau has ably assisted government, police and civic authorities in many ways, and the appreciation of these services is attested to by the many letters of thanks in the station's files.

COMPANY EXPANDS

In the early part of 1938, CFRN, in association with CFCN, Calgary, CFQC, Saskatoon, CJCX, Yorkton and CKPR, Port Arthur, opened eastern Canadian offices in Toronto and Montreal, and since then has expanded this phase of activity into a limited company known to the trade as "Radio Representatives". Veteran radioman Jack Slatter is in charge of the Toronto office, and Wilf Dippie manages the Montreal end.

Last year, the Sunwapta Broadcasting Co. Ltd. took over the facilities of Radio Sound Service on 118 avenue. Radio Sound Service with complete equipment for the servicing of radios, refrigerators and electrical appliance of all kinds, specializes in public address installations.

SHORT WAVE FACILITIES

In conjunction with the regular RCA transmitter on 1260 kilocycles, the Sunwapta Broadcasting Co. is also licensed to operate short wave station VD2N on 3020 kilocycles with 50 watts of power. VD2N has its own gasoline-driven power plant for use where regular current is not available. The station is small, compact and easily portable.

Also operating under the call letters VD2N is the ultra-high frequency station on the 56 megacycle short-wave band. This transmitter is a very small, pack-type unit, which can be carried on the announcer's back for special event broadcasting.

G. R. A. RICE, Manager.

TWENTY-NINE ON STAFF

At the present time, "Dick" Rice is manager of the broadcasting division of the company, and H. F. Nielsen manages the sound division.

Department heads include Chief Technician Frank Makepeace, Program Director Sid Lancaster, Accountant Dorothy Atkinson, Studio Manager Vince Duggan, Continuity Editor Bill Rytner and Sports Announcer George Thompson.

Announcing staff includes also Bonnie Mormer, Don Langstell, Fred Bowden and Bill Bracken.

On Monday, Dec. 1, CFRN officially celebrates its seventh birthday—and also opens its newly enlarged and redecorated studios and its new 1,000-watt RCA transmitter. The studios and reception room, with its Indian murals, will be opened to the public on and after Monday, as well.

When CFRN has been increased its power to the maximum allowed by law in the Dominion of Canada—the station wishes to remain the community station to carry on the important work of giving personalized public service, boosting local enterprise—and creating goodwill with community features. CFRN has no desire to go "Big Business." The station wishes to remain ever able to meet and understand its public. Its strength lies in its ability to stay friendly and informal and in its readiness to welcome the community into its studios.

H. F. NIELSEN, President.

CFRN has a "Good Neighbor" in the great mining and farming country of the west for years.

CFRN pledges itself to continue its service to the community with loyalty and understanding.

Radio Star To "Visit" Vic. In School Concert

By MARGARET PENDLETON

Ever heard Henry Aldridge on the radio? If you have, you've probably seen him in the movies, too. On December 3, 4, 5 and 6, the Victoria high school dramatic club will present the original Aldridge family play, "What a Life," starring that teen-age mischief-maker—Henry.

Tickets are on sale under the direction of W. C. Richards, and anyone wishing to spend a rollicking evening should get their tickets right away from Bill Richards at Vic. The cast consists of Bruce Aubrey as Henry, Margaret Muir as Henry's "girl," Barbara Ann Humphrey Thompson, Alta Mitchell, Ronald Hall, Bruce Allsopp, June Curry, John Sequin, Art Hillier, Ina Ward, Francis Stanley, Wes Kitchen and Norma Frame.

CLUB ORGANIZES

The Boxing and Wrestling Club held its organization meeting this week with one of the largest turnouts in years. John Thompson, president and David Lofstrand, secretary of the club. The future Jack Dempseys and Max Mountain Deans of the club are divided into two sections—boxing, under the direction of W. Stewart; and wrestling, under the direction of Dr. C. B. Willis.

Boys' and girls' sports representatives on the Students' Union are Jack Ingram and Betty Boon.

TECHNICAL

By Ted McCuaig

At the weekly meeting of the Students' Council Tuesday, Mr. J. Hilton praised members for the way they have got underway. It was revealed that the news letter to the boys serving their country is on the press.

A school skating party is being planned for the early part of December, under the direction of Dick Cherrey, chairman of the social committee.

The Camera Club met Wednesday evening under the direction of Mr. Brewer, who announced the members different ways of tinting pictures. A social is being planned for December 10.

The Home Economics Club held its monthly meeting Tuesday evening. Dr. Lobsinger was guest speaker. The club is planning an afternoon tea for students and their parents. Proceeds will buy parcels for needy families at Christmas.

The Science Club met Thursday evening. M. J. Hilton gave an interesting talk on astronomy.

The Hi-y Club held its annual dance on November 21, at the Royal George. This club is under charge of the "open night" which is now being planned.

STRATHCONA COMPOSITE

By June Gould

Every day at noon and after 4 p.m. and Saturday afternoon, busy times for stagecraft workers at Scona. This important part in the presentation of a school play is being superviser by Colin Douglas, Bob MacMillan and Ted Hamshaw, assisted by Mary Dawes, Betty Pinnell, Betty Thurston, Bob Judge, Andrew Bell, Wallace Hopkins, Paul Greenwood, Bill Tye, Ian Hall, Ken Black and Dick MacDonald.

Painting of sets is in charge of Jean Watson, Sylvia Rowan and Mary Petryk.

WESTGLEN

By Beatrice Grant

Westglen's Christmas dance, "The Academic Ball" will be held December 5, with Don Graves' orchestra providing the music.

Committee for the dance was approved by the Students' Union. It is as follows. Don Campbell, editor; Bert Bladden and Pat Darling, assistant editors; Alf Peart, business manager; Bob Aitken, sports editor; Bob Wegman, circulation manager; John McLaughlin and Marguerite MacCrostie, activities; Bill Cowley, photography.

The Fellowship Forum held its first meeting of the year Tuesday noon. Violet Muir was elected president; Linnea Wickland, vice-president, and Stanley Bultridge, secretary.

Colorful red, silver and black shields, made by the students, to represent different clubs and activities of the school are now decorating the galleries of the assembly hall.

EASTWOOD

By Edna Rembick

Eastwood high school students are eagerly awaiting a skating party, to be held within a month's time. Another talent! Lil- will be held, around the first of December, in the gym. As it is the Christmas it, a good turnout by the students is expected.

Plans have been made for the organization of a mule swing series under the leadership of Lorne Heslop and Doug. Craddick. The sextet will have as its pianist, Walter Irwin.

The girls basketball teams are progressing rapidly under the guidance of Coach Sam Sherlet.

ST. MARY'S

By Evelyn Barry

The first activity of the year, a "candy sale," proceds to go to the Red Cross blanket appeal and H.M.C.S. "Saguenay" went off with a bang on Wednesday.

The auditorium was gayly decorated in red, white and blue for the occasion, and as one gazed around, one could see Red Cross nurses selling candy, gypsy fortune tellers gazing into the future and happy boys and girls conversing and munching on pieces of candy.

The school paper, "The Belles of St. Mary's," is under way, with Pat Tighe as editor.

McDOUGALL COMMERCIAL

By LEO ORNEST

McDougall Commercial's first high school's first dance of the year will be a "sox dance" on December 12 in the school gym, starting at 8:30 p.m. The committee in charge, consisting of Dmitry Huene, June Wilson, Dorothy Vanderburg and Louise Clendening are lining up an evening of fun and laughter. Music will be supplied by Don Graves' orchestra. Colorful decorations, novel dances, novelties, contests and prizes will be part of the program, called.

Small Boy Scout Takes Lead For Respecting Flag

A small Boy Scout standing in the crowd watching the military units returning from an Armistice Memorial service at the Cenotaph in Dominion Square, Montreal, last year, gave a striking demonstration of the power of unconscious example. As each color party passed the Scout came smartly to attention, and saluted. Other small boys standing near him took notice and began raising their caps. One youngster in his enthusiasm prompted the boy beside him by pulling off his cap as well as his own. A number of men in turn began raising their hats in salute and soon practically every man and boy in the vicinity was following suit.

Among the evacuees brought from Spitzbergen by the Canadian units participating in historic raid on the Arctic Island was a group of 14 Boy Scouts. They were given a warm welcome by Scottish Scouts.

It Even Shoots Shells!

This true-to-life coastal defence gun, which hurls wooden "shells," gives this young man the additional thrill of feeling that he, too, has something to do with that mysterious defence business Dad's always talking about.

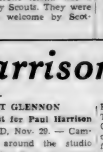
Harrison In Hollywood

By BERT GLENNON

Guest-Columnist for Paul Harrison

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29. — Camera amateurs around the studio often tell me that they're thinking of buying some fancy new equipment, and what do I think of the Gadgetflex? I always say, "Go ahead, it's your money, but why don't you learn to use the camera you have?"

And that is something I have always wanted to ask millions of other camera fans who keep cluttering around with different boxes and lenses, papers, films, developers and all sorts of accessories.



Bert Glennon

Basically, the camera has not changed since the process of photography was first developed. Improvements have been made, but mostly just in speed.

LOTS OF ANGLES

I thought of this often while we were working on that last Errol Flynn picture. "They Died With Their Boots On" is the story of General Custer and is full of cavalry charges, Indian rides, and falls from horses. When we filmed Custer's last stand at the Little Big Horn, we worked four cameras on the ground, five more at various levels on a 90-foot high camera tower—nine cameras, nine different operators, 18 second and third assistants in all.

On the screen the results from each of these cameras, each separate crew, were the same. Different bits of action, of course, and varying compositions, but light, exposure, every other technical was in perfect balance. Every one of us there knew his job and his camera.

Amateurs, however, won't take time to learn that simple fact. Stick to one camera, one negative, one paper, one setup until you know everything about it there is to know. Then you'll be an expert and you'll be saving money.

EXPERTS AREN'T PERFECT

Everybody makes mistakes. Here is an anecdote that goes back to the days of silent pictures, but it shows that even an expert cameraman can learn new things in handling a machine that is as familiar to him as a pair of old shoes.

This particular cameraman was one of the best in the business, and still is, as a matter of fact. But back in those days he was "director of photography," operator, assistant, camera grip and everything else. And he had to do his own hand cranking.

The company was on location at the beach. Practically the entire picture was filmed in that on day, but when the "rushes" were seen in a projection room a day or so later an unbelievable thing happened on the screen.

The silent images of the actors moved in some scenes as though they were being chased by Old Scratch. In others they went in slow motion.

What had happened was this: During most of the day the picture was being made at the beach morning and afternoon band concerts had been given in a nearby bandstand. That cameraman, an expert, mind you, had been cranking, unconsciously, of course, in time with the changing music.

He doesn't blame that camera if you fail to get results.

Blame it on yourself—or a band.

Dog Notes By Peter Boggs

Old Shepherd Dog Takes Food For Prisoned Pup

A man in Des Moines, Ia., put a pan of food on his back porch for his dog. The dog, a German shepherd one a little, then grabbed some in her mouth and went behind the barn with it. Twenty minutes later the dog returned, and again started off with some in her mouth. The dog's owner thought that perhaps the animal was ill. For three days in succession the dog eat her food in this manner.

The dog went behind the barn, then headed across a field and into some woods. A few hundred yards further on the dog stopped and deposited the unswallowed food on the ground in front of a fully grown puppy that had been caught in a steel trap. The puppy had been missing for almost two weeks. How the German shepherd had discovered the other canine's plight I can't explain. Nor can I tell you what caused the older dog to take part of her food to the imprisoned puppy, that as far as could be learned, she had never seen before.

PROTECTION AGAINST POISONING

In certain sections of the country, dog poisoners have become active. I haven't the space to write a bitter tirade against people so mean and cruel as to go about poisoning other people's pets. They are undoubtedly one of the worst types of criminal.

A dog taught not to eat food other than that given him by his owners is protected against falling the victim of a dog poisoner. How? Why, he won't touch your dog and he won't touch stray food? Here's a method that is quite successful. Secure a few ordinary mouse traps, bait them with raw meat, and place them about your yard. After a dog has been trapped a few times he will become sufficiently frightened so that in the future he will not be tempted by stray bits of food.

THE QUESTION BOX

Question: What do you consider the most important thing a dog should be taught?—T. L. H.

Answer: Undoubtedly, the most important thing a dog should be taught to do is to come when called.

Introducing . . .

By KAY W. BIGLAND

Bill Simpson, 17, is president of the Students' Union at Westglen high school. He formerly resided at West Vancouver, and while there attended Pauline Johnson public school and West Vancouver high. Last year Bill went to Strathcona high, and is now finishing his second year at Westglen.

He is well known in city sports circles, having played basketball on the team that won the Big Block championship last year. He plays basketball at school, as well as at the Y.M.C.A., and coaches three teams at Westglen.

He is fond of swimming and has won seven cups and 10 medals in swimming contests. In grade nine, he was awarded a trophy for being the "best all-round boy at West Vancouver high." English and Social Studies are his favorite subjects.

Being musically minded, he plays the trumpet with the Plaza Dellons and Don Grave's orchestra. At Scona he was a member of the School Boys' Band.

When he graduates from high school, Bill plans to join the R.C.A.F., and wishes to study law after the war.

A.Y.P.A. Notes

Anglican Young People Prepare To Enter Speaking Contest December 8

NOTE: The public speaking contest will be held December 8 in All Saints' hall. Members from all clubs are entering the contest, which will start at 8:30 p.m. All members are asked to remember this date.

CHRIST CHURCH—A scavenger hunt was held Monday, which was much enjoyed in spite of chilly weather.

ST. MARY'S—The meeting of November 19 was spent in playreading. A party for the club and air force guests was held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Ross.

ST. FAITH'S—The club spent the evening recently at the home of the president, Miss Marion Rice, where they wrote letters to boys of the club now in the armed forces.

HOLY TRINITY—Meeting took the form of a "work" night, and members mended hymn books of the church. Eliminations for the public speaking contest were held.

ST. STEPHEN'S—On November 19 the club spent a busy evening preparing Red Cross wool for knitting. Several of the girls of the club have undertaken to do this work.

ALL SAINTS—The first aid class was held this time at the Royal Alexandra hospital, where the club was instructed by two of the nurses of the hospital.

ST. MARK'S—At the meeting Tuesday night, five members of the Diocesan Council were invited to tell the newly-formed club some of the principles of A.Y. Miss Doris Pallister gave a short talk in which, as president of the association in Edmonton, she welcomed members to the ranks of the A.Y. Following this, Norm Pickard ran movies of one of the summer camps.

Trail Ranger Program Is In Full Swing This Week

Erskine Crusaders—Elections over, the Trail Ranger program is in full swing with Bill Dalby as Tally and Milton Carleson and Bill Lewis, co-captains of the hockey team, which plans on giving other groups in the city a real run in hockey this year.

The boys have held one evening service this year and are planning another in the near future. They will entertain the R.C.A.F. shortly. They will hold a Christmas supper this year with a skating party to follow.

CALVIN TORNADOES

Members have been active in selling Christmas cards. The group has enlarged to such a degree that it has been necessary to form for younger boys an Explorer group. The Trail Rangers will be under the supervision of R.S. Christie and the Explorers under C. Troutman.

Trail Ranger Christmas Camp of Robertson United Church recently held a formal initiation in which members of the Viking and Olympics were pledged and welcomed into the body of Trail Rangers.

Sandy Welburne, Grand Camp Chief Ranger, and Chief Rangers Russel Aird and Garth Campbell, officiated at the ceremony, assisted by boys, girls and leaders.

Since the first of the season Robertson's Grand Camp has initiated 20 new Trail Rangers.

Russell Aird has been elected to run as parliamentary candidate from Robertson. Vikings and Olympics have a bit of rivalry in Christmas card selling. A group and individual prize will be awarded to the group and to the individual selling the most cards.

ERSKINE EXPLORERS

Explorers group has been kept busy this year with the sale of Christmas cards. Chief Explorers this year are Frank Dove and Alfred Fiskeke who are looking forward to the formation of a hockey team to play other Explorer groups.

The hockey season will be underway within the next two weeks. A good turnout is expected from each group when their turn comes to play.

BOOKSHELF

Books For Children in Edmonton Public Library

American Song Birds, by Edey Maitland; young bird lovers will welcome this book. It contains pictures and descriptions of over a hundred of the most familiar American song birds.

Clementine, the Flying Pig, by Oskar Lebeck; this is a picture-story book of a pig who grew wings and flew like the best aviators into the clouds. When the clouds made her wings wet, she hung them out to dry, and the result is how she happened to fall into the sea and become a Sea Pig.

Heroes of the Fighting R.A.F., by Leonard H. Gribbler; the romance of inspiring biographies deals mainly with the heroes of the First Great War, when the fighting planes were crazy crates in comparison with today's highly developed machines, but Ball, Bishop and the other aces had their own ideas of combat and originated aerial tactics.

High Hurdles, by Frances Duncombe; Debbie Howe is the kind of a girl who sticks by her father no matter what happens. When he gets a job as a groom, Debby is pleased because it gives her a chance to ride.

Mechanizing Our Army, by Lieut. Hugh Sears; Although this deals with the American army, much of the information will be useful to young Canadians. Lieut. Sears explains what is a Jeep, a Walkie-Talkie, a Tommy gun and a suicide squad.

Runnway, by Hildegarde Hawthorne; When Thoreau closed his cabin door on a stormy night, home to join Audubon, because he did not want to face the stern teacher at the other school. He ad-ventured all the way from Concord to Philadelphia, camping out and living off the land.

The Story of the Other America, by Richard Gill and Helen Hoke; This exciting pictorial history of South America begins with the days of discovery and ends with the present day.

Tonio and the Stranger, by Elizabeth Coatsworth; Tonio lived with his mother and father and little sister on a dreary desert of black lava near Mexico city. One day when Tonio was tending the sheep a hungry wounded stranger came to Tonio for help. The story begins from here.

Greenland Has Material And Strategic Value

Prior to World War II, Greenland was merely a huge northern island, covered with snow and ice the year around, generally uninhabited, and under the jurisdiction of Denmark. It was a frozen asset, and its value has been enhanced by the war.

Germany has cast covetous eyes at the northern island of ice. First, it is rich in cryolite, a mineral used as a catalyst in the extraction of aluminum from bauxite. Second, it is extremely useful in the eyes of the German high command as a weather reporting station.

The 1938 stamp above reflects the low-ground land and its summertemperatures. American troops have been stationed in Greenland since July, 1941, to avert the menace of Nazi conquest.

The weather reporting value of the island is shown by the raid which the U. S. Coast Guard recently made on a secret German radio station which was sending data to Germany.

Youth Parade

By Bert Nightingale Jr.

Editor Bulletin Youth Page

THE YOUNGER BROTHER of a friend of mine thought he was in a bit of a jam this week. It all came about after he had fixed the wheel of his elder brother's car. He had taken the wheel off, tinkered with it and then put it back on again. Then he went for a short spin and was dismayed to feel a pull against one side of the road. Big brother felt the same pull when he later drove over the same patch of road. It was only after he found out that it was Monday's gale, pushing the car from the other side that caused the pull, that he decided not to say anything about people who try to fix things.

NOT THAT I INTEND TO take the pulpit and try to teach teachers, but here's a suggestion as regards grammar that I happened across the week, that might be put into practical use in our schools. The suggestion deals with adjectives, and the quotation, taken from a book on newspaper writing follows: "Treat an adjective as you would a girl friend. Too many are dangerous." Quite an apt simile.

KID BROTHERS OFTEN HAVE funny ideas. Here's a gem gleaned from the mammoth mind of my own male relative. He was discussing matters of feminine interest, referred to in the unofficial Grade 7 vocabulary as "dames".

"We had a lot of fun at the skating rink this afternoon," quoth the later offspring. "A bunch of us guys started grabbing hats off dames and skating away as fast as we could. You should have heard them yell when we wouldn't give 'em their hats back." Having translated from this Deadendesque garble that group of young lads had derived entertainment from stealing that necessary part of female equipment known as a "hat" Somebody asked him how he'd have liked it if someone had taken his hat and run away with it. "We didn't care," he replied, "We didn't have our hats with us."

That logic, as applied to current events, has its counterpart in modern affairs, the trend of which seems to be that if you have first secured your own valuables, then you are entitled to swipe somebody else's. It's a good thing this doesn't always apply, and if the idea is nipped in the bud right from the start, the "nipper" is an individual to be thanked. Individually and internationally.

How's our part in the war savings campaign coming?

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

If you could only afford to feed your family a juicy steak or a thick chop every night, you probably think you wouldn't have any trouble planning the menu or pleasing him either.

But steaks and chops come so high you turn to your low-priced meats—hamburg, round steak and hot dogs. If those are your limit, it is high time you got acquainted with that bulwark of nutrition, the cow.

There are some thirty different cuts of beef in all and many of them are bargains. It is smart to learn to recognize the thrift cuts and to know how to cook them to a gourmet's taste. The low-priced meats provide essentially the same nutritive value as the expensive steaks. Since they contain less fat they are lower in calories, therefore proportionately higher in protein, minerals and vitamins.

The eight different cuts of chuck are all good and ground chuck is a low buy for the money than round round steak. You can't beat the fondue chuck for pot roast. The outside chuck, rolled into a cylinder and tied with string, can either be kept whole for a roast or sliced into individual rounds and broiled.

Sometimes quantity makes a difference in economy. It is economical to buy a five-pound roast for you get rather a juicier meat and there is less waste. Afterwards, it can be cut into small pieces and served, in the gravy, on hot biscuits or like biscuits, of course, being made with enriched flour.

When you celebrate with T-bone steaks, have the butcher cut off the ends which are largely and usually wasted, and grind them for use later as meat patties. When you buy hamburger, try broiling it on thick slices of egg plant with a dash of lemon to bring out the flavor.

For variety, experiment with all kinds of meats. If your family doesn't like to eat such dishes as brains, perhaps you have not tried cooking the brains separately until about half-done, then adding the brains and cooking together. Beef heart stuffed with chestnut dressing and baked for one and one-half hours is delicious. In cooking beef liver, roll in seasoned flour and cook in a moderate oven. The slow cooking will make it tender.

When it comes to lamb, the shoulder is less expensive than the leg—you get more meat. You'll like lamb patties made this way: Ask for the short fore-quarter, have it ground, mix with a binding, and spread on a half pound of sliced bacon. Roll up neatly, tie, and wrap in the waxed paper in which the bacon came, and keep in ice box until ready to use. Then slice into patties. Ground beef liver, pepped up with onion can be prepared the same way.

Lamb necks can be an economical treat. Remove the meat from the bone (saving bone for use in soups or to flavor vegetables), grind, use an egg and bread crumb binding and roll flat in a sheet. Spread with cooked, mashed and seasoned sweet potatoes and roll up like a jelly roll and bake. Or have pork spare ribs with your own brand of barbicue sauce and sauerkraut.

Prices vary according to the section of the country and the times but with determination, plus imagination, you can keep your butcher's bill within bounds and serve the meat your family needs.

McCoy Health Service

Neuritis is a disorder affecting the nerves which in severe cases is capable of inducing marked pain, described by the patient as cutting, boring, darting, or stabbing. Because there may be no outer sign of the extremely painful inner sensation, the patient may find little sympathy from those nearby, and yet he, who is experiencing a pain so agonizing that he is unable to think of anything else.

While there have been many theories advanced as to the probable cause of neuritis, I consider that the most important cause is a faulty condition of the body. When the poisons developed from faulty habits of living collect around the nerve or nerves, they set up sufficient irritation to produce the pain characteristic of neuritis. The toxic poisons do the damage often come from an intestinal toxemia.

The poisons causing neuritis are very similar to those producing rheumatism—if the rheumatic toxins accumulate around a muscle, they induce muscular rheumatism, but if they locate around a nerve, the resulting effect is called neuritis.

Another possible cause of neuritis is an improverished diet. When the food habitually eaten is not of the right kind, the blood lacks some of the elements needed to nourish the nerves properly. The nerves then become more easily irritated than might be the case if they were normally fed.

One of the substances which may be lacking and have a direct effect upon the nerves by its absence, is Vitamin B as this particular vitamin is a necessity if the nerves are to remain healthy. However, it must be borne in mind that the diet may be supplying enough of this vitamin and at the same time, the nerves may not be getting enough of it simply because some intestinal condition is preventing the vitamin from being assimilated properly. Intestinal disturbances are probably more responsible for producing the various forms of neuritis than simple lack of vitamin B.

Some of the secondary or contributing causes of neuritis are abscessed teeth, sick tonsils, and sinus trouble. Such focal infections may be causing any pain of themselves but the poisons absorbed from them may be carried through the system until they affect some nerve or nerves. Other contributing causes are the absorption of arsenic or lead.

The chief thing to keep in mind is that the presence of the blood-stream of irritating materials is the fundamental cause of neuritis. When the patient realizes this, it is not so difficult for him to realize that ultimate recovery depends mainly upon the removal of such waste materials. For permanent relief the patient must depend upon cleansing the body of accumulated toxins, upon using the right diet, and upon keeping the intestinal tract clean. While the application of heat will usually provide temporary relief from the pain of neuritis, this measure is not enough to bring lasting help.

Cards of Thanks 6

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to our many friends for the kindness and sympathy extended us at the death of our beloved brother and uncle Mr. John Biggar McTaggart; also our deepest thanks for the beautiful floral tributes.
—Margaret and Brander.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our many friends and especially to Dr. Farquharson and the nurses at the Royal Alexandra hospital for the kindness and sympathy extended us during the illness and at the death of our beloved husband and father. Also our deepest thanks for the beautiful floral tributes.
—Mrs. John Skinner and family.

In Memoriam 7

To assist readers in preparing "In Memoriam" notices, the Edmonton Bulletin has prepared a booklet of some very appropriate verses. It is free upon request. Call, write or phone for a copy.

In loving memory of our beloved son, GEORGE PILON, who died November 29, 1938.
"Oh, George dear, we loved you,
And our hearts ache for you still;
Forgotten by some others,
But by us you never will."
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by loving Father and Mother.

In loving memory of my best friend GEORGE PILON, who died November 29, 1938.
"He had a nature you could not help loving,
And a heart that was purer than gold;
And to those who knew him and loved him,
His memory will never grow cold."
—Inserted by his school chum.

In loving memory of our beloved brother, GEORGE PILON, who died November 29, 1938.
"In [illegible] home he is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to his name;
Those who loved him in life sincerely,
Still love him in death just the same."
—Ever remembered by his loving sisters.

In loving memory of my dear Mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Jane McL[illegible], who passed away November 29, 1937, at the age of 87 years.
"I have only your memory, dear mother,
To remember my whole life through,
But the sweetness will linger forever,
As I treasure the image of you."
—Ever remembered by her son Alf.

EYE STRAIN
Is the Thief of Sight

That "just a headache" may be your warning of more serious ailment to follow. Take heed of tired, aching, uneasy eyes and remember "the eyestrain of today is the faulty sight to follow."

Blindness seldom comes overnight. Loss of sight is gradual, often unnoticed, and ignored, until you just cannot read the way you like, the print blurs, objects are foggy.

Every waking minute, subtle eyestrain may be taxing your sight, your nerves, and your health. Even normal eyes change through age, or much eye work and need regular examination by an Optometrist.

Have your eyes examined now. It is the safe thing to do for your precious, irreplaceable eyes. If glasses should be found necessary, the resulting clear, restful sight will convince you beyond any doubt that your eyes needed help.

Well-Known Cafe Proprietor Dies

Well-known South Edmonton businessman, Jack M. C. Wong, 33-year-old Chinese of 10307 Whyte avenue, died in the city hospital following a brief illness. He had operated the Nu-Way cafe with his uncle, Jack Wong, Sr., for the past five years.

Born in China, Mr. Wong came to Canada at the age of 13 and received his education at Brantford, Ont. Later he moved to Trail, B.C., and to Edmonton in 1930. He is survived by his wife and son, Wong Gene, both in China; his cousin, father, Soon Wong, Mon of Calgary, and his uncles, Mr. Wong Sr., and Won Fong Mon, both in Edmonton.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 p.m. Sunday by Rev. Elgin G. Turnbull assisted by Ling Joke Hing, from Hainatock's funeral chapel. Interment will be made in the Edmonton cemetery.

Judicial Sale of Farm Property By Tender

Pursuant to an order of Mr. Justice Ives of the Supreme Court of Alberta, and of certain directions for sale, sealed tenders will be received for the purchase of the following farm property situate near Delia, Alberta, in one parcel:

All that portion of the North East Quarter of Section Nine (9), Township Fifty-eight (58), Range Eighteen (18), West of the Fourth Meridian, in the said Province of Alberta lies to the South of the right bank of the Saskatchewan River, as shown upon a plan of survey of the said Township signed at Ottawa on the 24th day of October, A.D. 1918, containing one hundred and fifty and seventy hundredths (150 70-100) acres, more or less. Reserving unto His Majesty all mines and minerals subject to the exceptions, reservations and conditions contained in the original grant from the Crown; subject to the conditions and reservations contained in the existing grant from the Crown or in the existing Certificate of Title thereto, and subject to all taxes, rates and assessments imposed thereon from the 1st day of December, A.D. 1941.

The land is situate about 12½ miles from St. Michael, Alberta, and about 3 miles from the Radel School. The land contains approximately 150 acres of which approximately 33 acres are cultivated.

The buildings consist of: Log house, 14x26x12; log house, 11x26; log barn, 18x24, log granary 13x18, log stable 13x13; and a log granary 12x18.

There is a well on the land with the water supply.

There is a 3 wire fence on two sides.

Tenders must be enclosed in sealed envelopes marked "Tender re Land" May Morrow vs. Peter Martiniuk, No. 71/1940" and addressed to The Clerk of the Supreme Court, Court House, Edmonton, Alberta, and must be in the hands of the said Clerk not later than twelve o'clock noon on the 2nd day of January, A.D. 1942.

TERMS OF SALE—Each tender must be accompanied by a marked cheque or cash for 10% of the amount of the tender, and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid into Court within 30 days after the acceptance of the tender, without interest, the Purchaser to make his own arrangements for the same, and for the mortgage of the property.

The deposit of 10% shall be forfeited by the successful tenderer if he refuses to carry out his purchase after acceptance of his tender. Deposits of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned to them immediately after rejection thereof. The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. For all other respects the terms and conditions of the sale will be the standing conditions of sale of the Supreme Court of Alberta as far as the same are applicable hereto.

Further particulars apply to Messrs. Morrow & Morrow, Barristers, 910 McLeod Building, Edmonton, Alberta.

Dated at the City of Edmonton, in the Province of Alberta, this 18th day of September, A.D. 1941.

Delegates For Social Credit Meet Leaving

Delegates from Edmonton to the annual provincial convention of the Alberta Social Credit League, to be held next week in the Palliser hotel, Calgary, are preparing to leave for the south over the week-end.

Premier William Aberhart left Friday morning and is expected to remain in Calgary for a week. He will address a meeting in the Calgary Prophetic Bible Institute Friday night and remain in the south city until the convention concludes.

LEAVE SUNDAY

R. D. Jorgenson, Dapp. president of the league and Orvis A. Kennedy, Edmonton, secretary, will go to Calgary Sunday. Edmonton delegates are J. H. Gillie, John Guild, Mrs. W. T. Williams, F. W. Williams, Frank Gostick and Mr. Kennedy.

Sessions of the women's auxiliary to the league will be held Monday and Tuesday, with the general convention Wednesday and Thursday.

Among resolutions expected to come before the convention are those dealing with old age pensions, mothers' allowances, cost-of-living bonus and questions regarding the University of Alberta.

A public meeting will be held Wednesday night in the Prophetic Bible Institute, to be addressed by Premier Aberhart, John H. Blackmore, M.P., house leader of the Social Credit group at Ottawa who has returned from an airplane trip to England; Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary and Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and relief.

The annual banquet will be held in the Palliser, Thursday night, instead of Wednesday as first prearranged. Speakers will be Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture; Hon. N. E. Tanner, minister of lands and mines and E. G. Hansell, M.P. for Macleod and deputy leader of the group in the House of Commons.

—V—

More than 75 guests attended the benefit dance arranged by the Winterburn and District War Workers' League in the Winterburn hall Friday evening. President of the league, George C. Leight, was in charge of arrangements for the affair. Proceeds, which amounted to $25, will be devoted to war work. The league committee will meet next week to plan further benefit affairs for the future.

Imperial Bank Deposits Are Up $14,500,000

An increase of $14,500,000 in deposits, a new peak in assets of $206,387,280, and an increase of nearly $12,000,000 in current loans, reflecting greater demands for financing war production, were reported by the Imperial Bank of Canada for the year ending October 31, 1941.

Addressing the annual meeting of shareholders at Toronto on Wednesday, Nov. 26, A. E. Phipps, the president, referred to the continued strength and liquidity in the bank's position, and the maintenance of profits at a figure amply sufficient to meet mounting taxation and pay dividends at the usual rate.

BUSINESS PROSPERITY

The past year, said Mr. Phipps, had borne all the earmarks of business prosperity. National income in the first nine months had risen to $3,891,000,000, an increase of $380,000,000 over the same period of 1940. Farm production had reached a new high, but the government had found it necessary to assist the grain growers of the west and livestock raisers of the east, to a total of some $70,000,000. Conditions in the forest industries, in gold mining, in construction, in electric power production, and in railroading had been good.

In external trade, the salient features were the heavy increase in the surplus of imports from the United States, and the export surplus to Great Britain. Increased exports to the former were due principally to heavy demands for wood products and non-ferrous metals, especially gold. Government war financing had measured up to the gravity of the situation, with a total outlay of $2,820,000,000 estimated for the current fiscal year, including $1,450,000,000 for direct war effort, $900,000,000 for ahsistance to Great Britain, and $470,000,000 for ordinary expenditure, the last two items apparently to be met by loans. The position of the chartered banks, he said was such that the government should have no undue difficulty in floating any necessary war loans.

Some 1,226,000 who were unemployed two years ago are now absorbed in industry, business or the fighting forces, and some 300,000 more will be required during the coming year.

Of government action to impose price ceilings, fix wages and provide cost of living bonuses, Mr. Phipps said: "It is a source of satisfaction to know the government is taking these steps to check inflation . . . the co-operation of all is needed to bring the victory we desire and believe will be ours."

NET PROFITS

Mr. H. T. Jaffray, general manager, noted that net profits for the year amounted to $872,190.51, permitting the regular dividend of $700,000, writing off $150,000 for depreciation, and carrying forward to profit and loss account $22,190.31, making the balance of that account $696,842.22 compared with $676,651.71 a year ago.

Deposits now totalled $179,929,434, an increase of $14,475,683 over a year ago, which includes $6,400,000 by the public bearing interest and $2,600,000 by the public not bearing interest. Total liabilities to the public were $187,430,362, an increase of $14,043,024, or 8 per cent, indicating a substantial growth in the year's business. Cash assets were $33,543,160, compared with $32,433,660 a year ago, or 17.89 per cent of total liabilities to the public.

GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

Dominion and provincial government securities maturing within two years held by the bank now totalled $28,819,396; other government securities, $41,329,136, a drop in the first class of about $9,000,000, and an increase in the latter closs of $12,400,000, the switch being largely due to substantial subscription to the Victory Loan of last June. Canadian municipal securities held totalled $6,532,772, other bonds, debentures and stocks $47,287, making a total investment portfolio of $76,728,592 compared with $72,519,365 last year.

Total quick assets remained at 69 per cent of total liabilities to the public. Loans to provincial governments were down $137,000 from $350,564 a year ago; loans to cities, towns and municipalities down $1,828,000 from $5,857,900 a year ago. Current loans and discounts totalled $79,609,294, an increase of almost $12,000,000 or over 17 per cent.

Referring to government steps to fix prices and control wages, Mr. Jaffray said: "We are entirely in accord. I note it has been stated that no puncturing of the ceiling will be permitted. With that, too, I am theoretically in accord, but would suggest that until matters have reached a smoothly operating basis, great care must be taken to see that the control does not fall with undue harshness on any particular group or individual."

Woman Is Injured When Two Trucks Are Side-Slapped

Miss A. Cramer, employee of the Oliver mental institute, suffered a slight cut over the right eye in a street accident at 4 p.m. Friday at 115 avenue and 94 street, when two trucks side-slapped each other.

Miss Cramer was a passenger in a truck, operated by Elmo A. Gowin, of Oliver, going north on 94 street. Her head struck the windshield when Gowin's machine hit a bakery truck, being driven west on 115 avenue by Hedley Parsons, 9922 80 avenue. Both trucks went out of control and Gowin's machine finally struck a fire hydrant.

Meet The "Men On The Street"

ARNOLD HOPPS

GORDON REID

Above are the advertising contact representatives for the Sunwapta Broadcasting Company, CFRN. Arnold Hopps is a CFRN "original" and is well-known in city sporting circles. He is considered one of the outstanding amateur golfers in the province. Gordon Reid, who joined the CFRN announcing staff several years ago, was promoted to the sales force last year.

Latest Type Of Transmitter Is Installed CFRN

On the books, it appears as "Item — one RCA K-1 1941 De Luxe Model Transmitter Unit, complete." To the staff of CFRN, it's simply "The new transmitter". To Chief Engineer Frank Makepeace it's "a thing of beauty and a joy forever". To the vast CFRN audience, it means more power, easier "listenability", quieter reception and finer quality. And to the Sunwapta Broadcasting Company Ltd. it means a host of new friends, a greater service area, and a bigger and better job, more satisfactorily done!

The K-1 unit is the very latest in transmitter design. The model in question has been in production for only a year. It is identical with the unit now being employed by the Fighting Forces in many of the theatres of war. Besides being a mechanical wonder, it is a beautiful looking piece of equipment, streamlined, and neatly finished in black, chrome and grey.

The new type of construction developed by the R.C.A. engineers gives ease of adjustment and ready accessability not found in the older models. Every part of the transmitter may be reached merely by opening the doors on the rear of the units.

The newly-laid ground system and the specially designed antenna circuit used in conjunction with the K-1 transmitter, utilizes the total output of one thousand watts. As a consequence, CFRN's signals will be received with greater clarity and increased power.

The increase will not be noticed in the vicinity of the transmitter, because of the fact that all recent radio receivers employ "automatic volume control", which tends to "level" all signals, regardless of the power of the station from which they come. The big difference will be noticed by the listener who lives in the rural districts, at a distance of more than 25 miles.

Already reports of excellent reception are coming in from the far southern part of the province, from Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Apart from the transmitter unit proper, the ground system is of particular note. It was laid early in August, ready to be put into operation on the arrival of the transmitter. It consists of some eight miles of heavy copper wire, arranged like the spokes of a wheel, with the mast as the hub. Each radial is 300 feet long, and there are 125 of them. They are buried in the top-soil about one foot below the surface of the ground.

In connection with the opening ceremonies for the new CFRN, there will be special actuality broadcasts from the transmitter house at Jasper Place, at 11:45 a.m. Monday, Dec. 1.

Chief Engineer Frank Makepeace will take the listener behind the scenes, and endeavor to explain just how the "gadgets" work.

Getting Around

date and so that the boys who will soon be going overseas, can step right into the lingo of their comrades, already there, the newest phraseology used in the best armed services' circles is herewith passed on for "information and necessary action please."

The most popular among the younger generation, is employment of the word "wizard". Everything from a pretty girl to a good "flip" over Germany on a bombing raid is "absolutely wizard". Incidentally, any old-time theatregoers who remember one of Victor Herbert's earliest light operas "The Wizard of the Nile" will remember with pleasure Frank Daniels and his "Am I a Wiz?" But to continue. "I was shot down in flames" merely means a man has fallen hard for a girl. Jumpy people who have fled to the country instead of sticking in London are "flees" or "flitterbugs."

A parachute is a "brolly" which is a nursery word for umbrella. In the feminine department: Women drivers are called "Gerties". Wireless operators and teleprinters are "whistlers". Cooks are "rising Mary's". Clerks are "paper rustlers". And the WAAF's (Women's Auxiliary Air Force who assist the R.A.F. are "spitfire kittens". So there you are. You can step right into Bond Street or Trafalgar Square and talk the same as the rest of the boys and girls.

CFRN 'Sunwapta' Traced Back To Stoney Indians

History does not record when the Stoney Indians first used the word "Sunwapta". Certainly it was in use in the west when the first white man landed on these shores. Indian words like this one are difficult of translation—they tend to draw a composite picture rather than describe a definite place or idea. It seems that the Stoneys used "Sunwapta" to indicate a rapid, progressive, satisfactory forward movement against certain odds. The word could be applied, for instance, to a river—a river which, whilst it travelled forward at a reasonable pace, was, at points, troubled with rapids and whirlpools.

It was a piece of nice foresight, therefore, that prompted the management of Edmonton's newest broadcasting station, just opening in 1934, to use "Sunwapta" as the company name.

CFRN's growth in the past seven years has been "rapid, progressive, satisfactory". CFRN has "travelled forward at a reasonable pace"—and the station has weathered "rapids and whirlpools"!

The name "Sunwapta" is more than the name of the company operating radio station CFRN. In keeping with the company's policy of promotion for the west—this name has been carried all over the continent, where it has conjured up pictures of the impressive "Sunwapta Pass", "Mount Sunwapta", "Sunwapta River" and the inspiring "Sunwapta Falls" in the Canadian Rockies on the Jasper-Banff highway.

In seven years "Sunwapta" has become significant. "Sunwapta" has become synonymous with public service — with friendliness — with a conscientious effort to serve—with integrity—with fair dealing and a satisfactory job well done.

CFRN—the station of the Sunwapta Broadcasting Company, in Edmonton—"The Gateway to the North". No "pat on the back" to the radio station in that well known "station call", but instead, "The Gateway to the North"—the slogan of the city which is the centre of the area the station serves.

Announcement

In view of our irreparable loss in the death of the President, John Gillespie, Esq., we wish to advise our many customers that the business will continue under the same policy as has been in effect during the past thirty-five years.

At a meeting of the directors held on November 28th, Mrs. John Gillespie was elected President of the Company, and Mr. R. H. Settle, who has for many years been the Manager, was elected Vice-President and Managing Director. Mr. F. T. Aitken will continue as Secretary-Treasurer. The vacancy on the directorate was filled by the appointment of Mr. S. W. Field, K.C.

We wish to thank all of our customers for their patronage in past years, and assure them that their continued confidence will be our first consideration.

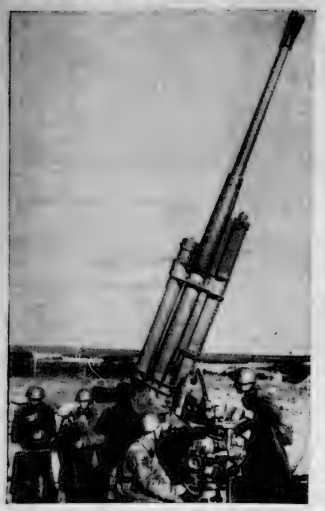
Great Britain's Christmas Spirit Will Be In Sober Contrast To Hysteria Of 1940



The gun crew of a Red army anti-aircraft battery, which has played a big part in repelling German thrust at the Russian capital, relaxes during a momentary lull in activities. This crew has many Luftwaffe planes to its credit.

"Tomorrow-We-Die" Feeling Has Been Conquered

By PAUL MANNING

LONDON, Nov. 28—One toy for every child in ten . . . homemade plum pudding . . . cider and apples and carol singing . . . like putting the clock back to the turn of the century when Christmas was sober and simple. And that's just what Christmas in Britain will be like, this year of our Lord, 1941—sober and simple.

It won't be much like 1940, even if bombs do begin to rain down. For the men and women of England have sort of gotten used to war by now. They're taking it in stride.

Though they will again have to become accustomed to the cramp of high explosives, when the Luftwaffe starts what many predict will be a long series of all-out blitz raids, they accept the inevitable now with equanimity.

Last year it was different. England was in the middle of a long winter of bombing. At the sudden, sharp cessation, when no German planes left their airfields in France, peonie grabbed at the respite with an almost hysterical fervor, cramming all the amusement they could into that narrow 48-hour space.

They danced in air raid shelters and in the streets, in night clubs and luxury hotels and many of the parties which lasted until dawn seemed to some observers like the expressions of a tomorrow-we-may-die generation.

WAR-WEARINESS BRINGS A NEW REVERENCE

It won't be like that this year. People have learned that air raids alone bring death to comparatively few and as long as England can retain command of the air and the sea, millions will continue to live.

So there won't be last year's fever. But because the people do get tired after nearly three years of war, when the struggle at all times is unequal and uphill, Christmas will be like something beautifully fragile—to be handled soberly, quietly, with reflection.

Bitterly-high taxes and severe rationing will also be factors helping to guarantee soberness this year. Few families will have money to toss around, except those whose untaxed capital is still so great that they can continue living at almost their pre-war level of opulence.

Of toys, there will be only enough for one child in ten. Toy stores in London are getting from manufacturers 25 per cent less than in 1940. The largest toy store in Regent street predicts that 1941 will be the last year new toys will be manufactured until war ends.

Boys will suffer more than the girls in this 25 per cent reduction. There will be no new miniature soldiers, as construction sets, rolling with metal and aluminum for domestic sale once the stocks now being displayed are exhausted.

Second-hand toys will be used on a larger scale than last year. The firemen of London have had an exhibition at King's College hall the 2,000 tops they repaired which will be given to the children of London's poor. Other organizations, too, are working along this same line, to insure that the children of England will be aware that Christmas, their day, still remains alight in a Europe nearly dark.

From New York, the British War Relief Society is sending small packages for 100,000 children.

New toys will be scarce in England this Christmas. Above, London firemen display some of the 2,000 second-hand playthings they have repaired so that British youngsters may not be deprived of their Christmas joy.

Observance Is Expected To Be Very Simple

the city air raid shelters of Britain.

dren, to be given out at the hundreds of Christmas Eve parties which will be held in

For those not so poor, there will be the usual big noon day Christmas dinner. A slight loosening in the food allotments may permit roast beef. There'll be turkey, of course, and plum puddings and mince pies. But not mince meat in quantity, because a housewife this year must sacrifice her coupons to get this heavily-sweetened product.

CROWDS IN STORES, BUT FEW BUYERS

Presents will be limited in quantity and highly practical.

That is the report of London stores today, who also observe that although there will be large crowds milling through every big store on Christmas week, the volume will be only half of that registered in 1940.

London's West End hotels—the Savoy, Mayfair, Dorchester, Ritz and Carlton—will be crowded Christmas weekend with officers celebrating brief leaves away from their lonely country billets. Each hotel will have the usual fir tree covered with lights and ornaments and they'll have a menu featuring turkey and something resembling hot mince pie.

But it will not be in the grand hotels where you'll find English cheer. That will be largely the exclusive property of each small home, every air raid shelter, each airdrome and ambulance station.

It will be something like that, too, at the fighter and bomber stations, for on Christmas Eve the tempo of war will slow down to a half beat. Only the smallest number will be standing by in operation huts, for personnel will be in the large mess hall, toasting Santa Claus, climaxing the wassail with a noon dinner. The senior officer present will carve the turkey, and the food will be served by the officers to the airdrome non-coms. There'll be no stringent food rationing on this day, either, because for the month preceding Christmas, the mess officers will have been performing miracles in food cutting in order to splurge on Christmas day.

Britain's number one flying ace, Sergeant Pilot Gareth L. Nowel, who has shot down as many as 12 enemy planes a week, is shown in London with his wife. The ace of aces hails from much-blitzed Coventry and did much to avenge the Luftwaffe damage to his native city. Nowell was recently awarded a bar to add to his Distinguished Flying Medal.

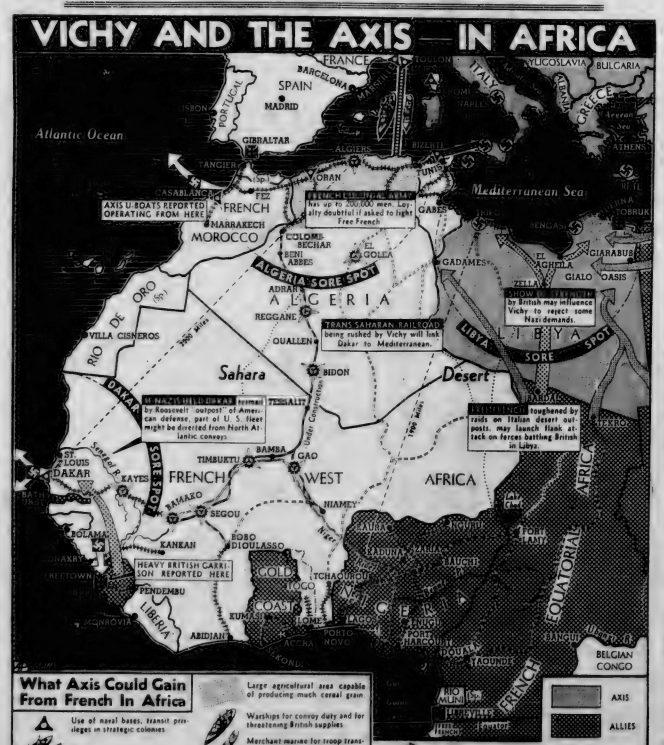
Had Long Voyage

This two feet long model of a Fiji islanders' outrigger canoe has a strange history. Bought at Suva, Fiji, by LAC. J. L. Boeson of the R.N.Z.A.F., it was thrown overboard more than 1,000 miles from the Canadian west coast while LAC. Boeson was on his way to Canada for training as an observer. More than a month later, it drifted ashore. On it was scratched the airman's official number, and from this New Zealand Air Force officials in Ottawa were able to trace the owner, who is at present in training at Prince Albert, Sask. This R.C.A.F. picture was taken in the offices of the New Zealand air liaison mission in Ottawa. Made of wood bound together only by thread, the canoe is pictured in the hands of a New Zealand airman stationed at the air liaison mission's offices.

Memorial To Tobruk Heroes

Soldiers of the British Imperial Army of the Nile are shown saluting the magnificent memorial erected in besieged Tobruk by Royal Australian engineers to honor the men who died in defending the former Italian fortress. The memorial was unveiled by Major-General Morehead, commander of the beleaguered port. Tobruk has been hammered by German and Italian forces for about seven months, but still holds.

VICHY AND THE AXIS IN AFRICA



What Axis Could Gain From French In Africa

- Use of naval bases, transit privileges in strategic colonies
- New protected supply line long distance from British bases
- Naval "fence" across Mediterranean at its narrowest point
- Large agricultural area capable of producing much cereal grain
- Warships for convoy duty and for threatening British supplies
- Merchant marine for troop transport and for supply service
- Chance for new threats at allied forces and ocean supply lines
- Chain of excellent airports with which to implement drive to west

General Weygand's ouster as head of the French forces in Algeria and the British offensive into Libya join in focusing world attention on the battle for Africa.

The British campaign is more spectacular but Weygand's fall may have wider repercussions, draw battle lines across half a continent.

The main reasons for the British offensive are obvious. It serves to (1) relieve pressure on Russia and at the same time erase the Axis threat to Suez and the Nile valley; (2) give the French government a show of strength, influencing it perhaps to play a stronger hand with the Nazis.

Prime Minister Churchill has ordered the campaign in a full dress attack designed to drive the Nazi-Fascist forces out of North Africa.

Nevertheless the attack, big as it is, is only a small part of the politico-military picture on the dark continent today.

Weygand's ouster seems to indicate Vichy finally is ready to play ball in close co-operation with Hitler. Weygand was a foe of full collaboration.

What would Hitler gain with France as close collaborationist? First, a navy and merchant marine. Even though many French ships went over to Britain, and others were damaged by British fleet units, France still has naval forces able to make their weight felt in the Mediterranean.

Second, there's a protected supply route from France to grain-producing North Africa—distant from British bases at Gibraltar and Malta. French ships convoyed by French warships could run it with food supplies, troops and munitions. With the Italy-Libya route under heavy attack, it would aid Axis garrisons now threatened by the British offensive.

The great French base at Dakar, if in Axis hands, would constitute a threat to the British lifeline and South America. It would more than double the task of the U.S. navy in protecting Atlantic trade lines, would draw war vessels from North Atlantic duties.

Already a system of fine landing fields exists across French Africa. Hitler likewise could use them to implement any move west.

There's no doubt Britain takes the West African threat seriously. Last spring, the garrison at Freetown, Sierra Leone, was put at 35,000 men. German sources this week reported it was being "heavily reinforced." This force could be used against Dakar, 500 miles north. Certainly it isn't there on vacation.

The Free French in raiding the Libyan desert outposts of Cufra, Murzuch and Gadames early this year, proved the effectiveness of small forces of mobile desert troops. There's more than a possibility such desert columns may be used to flank Axis forces in Libya, cutting through the desert northward to get behind the Nazi-Fascist troops operating near the coast.

Such forces could be supplied and reinforced by railway-road links from the Allied ports in Nigeria and the Cameroons, which now run to the Lake Chad district.

The whole north of Africa is a potential battleground this winter. Collaboration would put Hitler in position to force the issue. The British reinforcements at Freetown indicate the Allies are ready to meet that issue.

It can well be one of the most decisive fronts of the war.—John Grover.

"Three Traveled East"

—By Ruth Ayers

SYNOPSIS

Two weeks before Christmas, Connie Dawson—attractive reporter on The Sentinel—ready to start on a special assignment to St. John's, Newfoundland, is told the New York Press Bureau has appointed a man instead. Connie's marriage to Jerry Marsh, piloting bombers to Britain, is scheduled for Jerry's Christmas furlough in the north. Flying to New York to see the bureau chief, storms ground Connie's plane. In the bus her seat neighbor, J. J. Patterson, unwittingly confides that he is on the way to her job! Three-year-old Skippy's mother is left in a hospital enroute and "Pat" promises to deliver the boy to relatives in the east. The bus is snowbound. Failing to get through a telephone call for help, all the passengers repair to a schoolhouse for the night.

CHAPTER XI

THERE was the creak and scrape of a door being forced open. There was a minute of darkness; a musty smell which mingled with the sharp, clean snow air.

Someone whistled—"Eureka!"

The motherly woman with the knitting bag murmured a brief prayer.

The drummer said, "Fall into line, pupils, and forward march."

And here it was—the refuge, the haven in the storm.

All along the path Janet Gregg had been buoyant. She didn't mind the cold; she wasn't afraid.

George Haven, the young man who was due to report to his draft board today, walked beside her part of the time. He was impersonal, even amused. "Doesn't it strike you as odd, getting away from school one day and being right back in one next?"

She laughed. "Odd—but sort of fun too."

Oh, he would see what a capable girl she was—how undaunted she could be. It was almost like a miracle to have these extra hours, the time she hadn't hoped for. Yes, everything might turn out all right. She was glad she had brought the bright red and blue checked kerchief along. Tied over her hair, it made her look young, pretty.

She was beside Egan when he opened the door. "I'm a teacher in a country school in Missouri," she told him. "I'll be right at home here—know how to find things and get the stove started without smoking us out."

It was she who located the light switch, handy to the teacher's desk; as she knew it would be. She'd bet—and she couldn't hold back a brief smile—that the globe would be in the right hand corner of the room and the flag standard in the other. She closed her eyes and turned the switch. Yes, the wires were still in order. With light and a stove and water, it would be easy to weather the storm until daylight. In the morning, early, the snowplough would come down this road. They always arrived promptly where there was a school.

And then something caught her attention. Two sentences written across the blackboard in that one-room school. Two sentences, almost exactly identical with the ones she'd written in her own classroom.

"Merry Christmas."

"School will be closed until January 5."

Egan saw it, too. He looked at her and she saw that his face was haggard, grayish. "I'd been counting on the school road to open up early," he said.

Janet picked up the eraser and with one quick move had blotted out the words. "No need for anyone to know it won't be," she said.

When the people filed in, there was only a blurry chalk mark where the words had been. And after that everyone was too busy to notice. First the fire was started. The stove was square and sturdy. There was wood in the basket—a few kindlings. The flue was in good working order; the drafts pulled quickly.

As the flames sputtered up, the travellers gathered around, wet shoes kicked off, hands warming. Janet took stock. There was a water filter, halfway filled, and paper cups. There were desks and benches where people could rest.

"Couldn't dig us up anything to eat, could you?" the travelling salesman inquired privately.

"You wail—maybe I can."

She went to the cabinet where the books and supplies were kept. As she opened the door the drummer groaned. "Spellers and readers galore, but not an apple in sight."

"We've just started to look," she reminded him.

She walked to the open cloak closet at the back of the room. At first sight the only thing was a boy's cap, dangling on a hook. But as the light from the main room made things clearer, she saw a zinc water bucket, a broom and a tin box with the lid clamped down.

Her hands trembled as she pulled the top off. Neatly packaged inside were a can of cocoa, brown sugar and a bag of dry crackers. She kept the same things herself to piece out at lunch time or for cold mornings when she arrived at school early.

"Yes, I was sure," she murmured. "Maybe there aren't any apples on the teacher's desk, but we'll eat."

Janet Gregg was being very capable. Egan, the driver, P. J. Patterson, even the paroiee, were helping.

But Connie Dawson sat awkwardly at a desk. This wasn't a place where she could shine. There was a splinter in one finger where she'd tried to tend the stove. There was a lump on her shin where she'd bumped into a desk. She was cold, resentful and very hungry.

She kept looking at the paroiee. Never mind letting Pat work this out in his own way. She'd go up to him—hound her nouty. Yes, she'd buy her way to New York—rent a car, charter a plane, anything to get started again.

Pat had said, "For a little while we'll have to stick together. Three of us—travelling east."

He came up and sat beside her. He saw the monogram on her purse—the pocketbook that Jim Bardley had emptied.

"C. D.," he said, looking at the letters. "My favorite initials."

"Constance Dawson." She said it quickly.

He looked up benignly, without recognition, without curiosity. He'd never seen her by-line; never heard of her. But he would.

"I like Connie better," he told her. Then, "What are we going to tell Skippy when he wakes up?"

She looked at the little boy, still bundled and sleeping on the bench where she had put him when they'd come in.

Constance Dawson reached under the stove for her oxfords. They were hot and stiff with the toes curled up.

An odd lightheaded feeling possessed her. That was from being hungry. She steadied herself against the desk and when Pat rose, too, she made her way across the swimming room.

"What are we going to tell Skippy when he wakes up?"

Let Pat Patterson figure it out. Undoubtedly he'd have an answer. She hadn't.

As she opened the door something made her turn back. A whimper, a small cry. It was Skippy. He was sitting up on the bench rubbing his eyes, looking around.

"Mummy—Mummy!" That was the first thing he said.

Connie watched as the yellow-topped head turn around, searching the faces.

Janet, the school teacher, ran and picked him up. The motherly woman who'd been knitting, came over to say a few words to him.

Yes, everyone was comforting young Mister Skippy. Connie closed the door. And then there was a shriek, a sudden sprint.

"Connie!"

She lifted him up in her arms. He was sobbing, not in temper, but in fright. "Give me back my mama," he was begging. "My mummy—where is she?"

She had thought she couldn't endure any more of that strange cry in her fellow travelers. She had thought she was despairing, herself. But this was different.

"My mummy—where is she?"

Where was Lila Ernst? In a hospital—probably awake and looking out the window at the falling snow. Thinking about her little boy, traveling east with strangers. "Safe journey, Skippy," that's what she would be saying.

She'd be remembering the way he went to sleep; the way he looked with the smile on his round face.

But you couldn't put this into words for a three-year-old. You couldn't explain how his mother loved him so much she wouldn't wake him out of that happy slumber to kiss him good-bye.

McKenney On Bridge

Timing is one of the most important factors in playing expert bridge. If your timing goes wrong, don't feel that your game is ruined. Even the best players often fail to time plays properly.

The opening lead brought out the five, queen and six of spades. East led the jack of clubs and South went up with the ace. The ace of trumps revealed the bad split. West discarded the deuce of diamonds.

South led the jack of spades, which was allowed to win. Then a small heart lead to the ten put East in.

East led the ten of clubs to dummy's king. North cashed the spade ace for the discard of South's third club. Then North led a diamond and the jack forced the ace. West laid down the queen of clubs. East discarded a diamond, and now declarer could not avoid the loss of a second trump trick.

The second break was unfortunate, and declarer played well after he discovered it. But he blew the hand on the first trick. He should have dropped the jack of spades under the queen. The play could cost him nothing, and would gain a quick entry to dummy.

What a difference in the timing would result! The return club is won by the ace, the ace of trumps cashed, then the spade led to the ten, and the spade ace cashed for the club discard. Now dummy starts the diamonds before the king of clubs is knocked out, and East never gets a chance to make more than one trump.

It is popularly believed that natural colors are purer and safer in foods. This is not necessarily true, scientists say. Artificial colors are likely to be brighter, more lasting, and may even be safer, as they are required to come up to government specifications according to the pure food and drug laws. There is no such guarantee of purity for natural coloring materials.

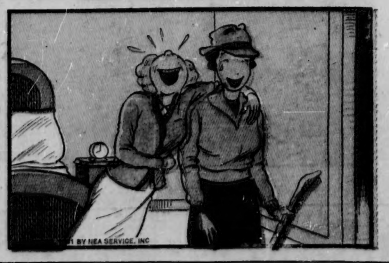
OUT OUR WAY

The Willets

By Williams



"Out Our Way" on the open range with the real "drawn from the wood" buckaroos. In the machine shop among the boys with the overalls and lunch pails. Just a cross section of the cares and joys we meet in daily lives. A human interest picture of the family at home. It might be your house or mine. You'll get the subtle humor in every cartoon of The Bulletin's big exclusive daily feature. "Out Our
